HOT STUFF, THE LITTLE DEVIL, DECEMBER, 1963, VOL. 1, NO. 57, IS PUBLISHED BIMONTHLY

by ILLUSTRATED HUMOR, INC. at Sparta, Illinois. Editorial, Advertising and Executive Offices, 1860 Broadway, New York 23, New York; President, Alfred Harvey; Vice-President and Editor, Leon Harvey; Vice-President and Business Manager, Robert B. Harvey. Second-Class Postage Paid at Sparta, Illinois, under the act of March 3.
Meet the middleweight champ, the Wingfoot "178". Especially made for middleweight bikes with 3-T Nylon cord.

Not a patch in a thousand miles
(No wonder Goodyears are good news to newsboys)

For their Chicago Sun-Times and Tribune, quite a few people in Villa Park, Illinois, depend on Dennis Johnson. And Dennis, of course, depends on his bike to get the papers delivered on time... seven days a week.

So to this 14-year-old businessman, tires are mighty important. The Goodyears he’s riding now have kept him rolling for eighteen months. In all that time... more than a thousand miles... they’ve never had to be patched.

Goodyear tires are built with 3-T Process Nylon cord (triple-tempered against road-shock and fatigue). They pack extra resistance to bumps and bruises. And their super-tough treads wear longer, give you better grip, quicker, safer stops.

Whether you have a paper route or not, you’ll get more out of your bike if it’s equipped with Goodyear tires. Let your dealer help you select the Goodyear that’s best for your bike. Goodyear, Cycle Tire Dept., Akron 16, Ohio.

"You know," said Ralphpie Rabbit, "it doesn't make sense, the way we've been doing things."

"What things?" asked the other rabbits. They all stopped munching the clover in the meadow and looked at Ralphpie with their big, curious eyes.

"Oh," said Ralphpie, munching a clover leaf. "Lots of things, but mostly the way we run away from dogs. It doesn't make sense."

"It certainly does make sense," said the other rabbits. "Dogs bite!"

"Ah, but do they?" said Ralphpie. "I've noticed that they mostly sniff around and wag their tails, EXCEPT WHEN THEY SEE SOMETHING RUNNING! Then they chase it. Do I make myself clear?"

"No," said the other rabbits, turning back to their clover.

"Wait!" said Ralphpie. "I haven't finished yet. You all know that I'm a reasonable rabbit. I like things to make sense. Now, if we didn't run when a dog came sniffing around, he wouldn't chase us, and we'd all save ourselves a lot of trouble. It just makes sense."

There was silence in the meadow, except for the sound of clover being munchied. While the rabbits munchied they thought about what Ralphpie had said. And then they looked up and saw a big, black dog coming toward them.

Away they ran, the big dog running and barking right at their heels! They zigged and zagged and they ran as fast as their little rabbit feet could carry them. But the dog was big and long-legged, and he zigged and zagged and gained on them! Desperately, lungs almost bursting, the rabbits reached a thorny thicket and dived pell-mell into it!

Then it was very quiet, except for the puffing of the rabbits and the panting of the dog. After a while the dog decided he didn't like the thorns and went away.

The other rabbits glared at Ralphpie. "You ran just as fast and as hard as we did. And after all that talk!"

Ralphpie thought for a while. "Well," he said, finally, it makes sense. My tongue talks and my feet run."

OUT THERE!

The little monkey perched high in the jungle tree and talked and talked. A huge monkey audience sat in the encircling trees and listened and listened and listened.

"So they picked the two of us, because we were the smartest and the fittest, and they named us Alpha and Beta, and they shot us off into outer space. And let me tell you, it was wonderful out there!"

The little monkey sighed and his audience sighed with him.

"Just think," Alpha continued, "the first living creatures to be shot into space and returned! Oh, the moon, the stars, the Milky Way! What sights!"

Unwilling to give up his audience he just kept talking and talking. The listening monkeys stirred restively, but felt obliged to stay and listen. After all, Alpha was a celebrity, the first of their tribe. And so they listened to tales of space explorations, and visits to all the planets, and the discovery of monkeys on distant moons and on and on. Then they would all doze, and when they woke up, Alpha would start to talk again. And even though it was all bragging by now, they all stayed politely.

Trapped by their own politeness the listening monkeys looked at one another hopelessly. And then the chief's voice cut clearly through the droning: "Alpha! Look who has come to see you! It's Beta, from our neighboring tribe! Now you two can reminisce together!"

All the monkeys applauded as Beta climbed up beside Alpha. The two little heroes sat silently. The silence grew longer. Everyone began to stir a little in embarrassment. The two space explorers seemed shy with each other.

The chief's voice again rang out: "Alpha was just telling us about your wonderful trip in the space capsule!"

"Oh?" said Beta.

"He was telling us how wonderful it was out there," said the chief.

"Oh?" said Beta.

Alpha squirmed uncomfortably. "Well," he blurted, "I couldn't just tell them we were sealed in that dark capsule where we couldn't see or hear anything and the next thing we knew we were out of the capsule and on our way back to the jungle! I couldn't just say that, could I?"

"No, I guess not," said Beta.

The monkeys dispersed in relief. Several of them, yawning, came over to pound the chief on his back. "What a brilliant idea!" they said. "Bringing the other monkey over to shame him!"

"It wasn't my idea," said the chief. "The chief of Beta's tribe brought him over to stop HIS bragging!"

Super Sales Inc.
We sell anything even your grandmother.

Suffering savings stamps!
You made us rich, Fred!

Not as rich as we're going to be, boss! I found a dopey giant who's just loaded with gold!

I sold him that no-good sand dune out in the country for the gold! That sand doesn't belong to anyone!

Hee hee! Fred! You're a card!

I've got a new idea, boss! Let's stick a bunch of paper together and make a gigantic paper bag!

Soon...

B-but, Fred! What are you going to do with it?

I'm going to sell it to that giant! I'll tell him it contains handy fresh air!

Har har! You're a genius, Fred!
Hello there, Mr. Giant! Boyyy! What a busy day I've had! Whew!

Busy?

Yes! I sold all my big bags to giants...all except this one...and it's the biggest one!

What's it good for?

Why, if there should ever be any foul air around, you can inhale the fresh air in this paper bag!

Boyboy! Will this chunk of gold cover the cost?

Uhh...it'll do!

Soon...choke! Ugh...the mayor is smoking one of his big cigars again!

Snifffffff!

Gee! My paper bag must have lost all its fresh air!

Then I'll just grab some fresh air from the upper atmosphere!
I think I can refresh the whole area if I just smash this bag like this...

Heh heh! The vibration from the bag's pow set off a landslide in that sand dune I bought!

Rumble! The sand dune is slipping down on us after that awful explosion we heard!

Yeow! Leave the gold and run for our lives! That giant must have caught on to me!

Fred! You're fired!

Soon...

Gold?!! There was gold in that old sand dune!

Boy... am I lucky! This gold I found squares me with what I spent today. This is my lucky day!
