PETER the SINGER

Peter was a little puppy. He wasn't as round and cuddly as Billy Puppy. He didn't have the rich brown color of Stevie Puppy. But in his own way, Peter was a pip of a puppy.

However, Peter had a terrible singing voice. When all his little friends would gather together to sing "The Puppy Serenade" or "This Is a Puppy's Life," he would just have to watch and listen.

Peter's father, Rufus Dog, said that Peter had just grown up too soon. "Peter," he said, "you have lost your sweet 'arf, arf' and now you can only growl 'woof, woof.' Your voice has changed!"

One day, when all the puppies came together to practice their singing for Puppy Day, Peter took a seat on the side and listened.

In fact, one little puppy remarked to another, "Guess Peter is in the dog house. Arf, arf!" Peter overheard that and he felt even worse.

"Oh," said Peter, "if I could only sing 'arf, arf!'" But, when he tried to sing the sweet "arf, arf," nothing but "woof, woof" came out.

Peter sat and listened to the sweet "arf, arfs" of "The Puppy Serenade." His long face almost touched the ground.

Stevie Puppy saw this, and he felt sorry for poor Peter.

"Fellas," Stevie said. "Let's give Peter another chance. Perhaps he's improved."

"Okay," said the others. "C'mon, Peter, you can do it."

"Woof, woof," said Peter. "Just give me a chance! Just give me a chance!"

Peter happily rushed over to his little friends. His cold, black nose was now warm with excitement.

They started to sing, "Arf, arf, arf," to the merry tune of "The Puppy Serenade."

"Arf, arf, arf, WOOF, arf, arf, arf, WOOF!" Peter's voice boomed above the others. He had not improved.

They went on for awhile because each one of the little puppies didn't want to hurt poor Peter's feelings. Who could tell Peter that he would still have to be a listener?

Oswald, the singing leader, decided that he himself would have to do it.

"Harrumph!" said Oswald. "We'll have to stop for a minute, pups. Peter, I'm sorry to have to tell you, but . . ."

Peter didn't have to be told the rest. "It's okay, Mr. Oswald," said sad Peter. "I know what you mean. Woof!"

Peter walked to the side. His nose was ice cold again, and it almost touched the ground.

"Arf, arf, arf," went the sweet voices.

"Very good," said Oswald, the singing leader. "Now, we will try something new. This will be the main song of our festival. It's called 'Up Puppyhood.'"

He then sang it for the puppies.

"That's a hard one," they all said.

"Well, we've got to do it," said Oswald.

"Arf, arf, arf," they sang. But everyone knew by the look on Oswald's face that it was no good. That wasn't the way to do it.

"What we need," said Oswald, "is a deeper, lower voice. A voice to carry us."

But who, at such an early age, could have such a voice? The eyes suddenly turned to Peter.

"Peter, Peter," they said. "You're just the one we need!"

"Who me?" said Peter.

"Of course," said Oswald. "Come right here and let's get started."

Peter's tiny heart jumped with joy. "Woof, woof," he said.

"Wonderful, wonderful," said Oswald.

And Peter was wonderful. He stole the complete Puppy Day Show with his marvelous, "woof, woof!"

MUSIC-MAKER

The two boys just sat on the bench. They leaned their heads on their hands and didn't say a word. Finally one of them had a thought...

"What are we going to do?" he said.

"Huh?" said the other.

"I said what are we going to do, Muggs!"

"Oh," said Muggs. "Yeah, Frankie. What are we going to do?"

"I just asked that!" said Frankie.

"Oh," said Muggs. Then a light seemed to sparkle inside Muggs' head. "Hey, Frankie," he said. "I think I've got an idea!"

"YOU'VE got an idea?" shouted Frankie, who couldn't remember the last time Muggs had a decent idea. "You better tell it to me slowly...or else I wouldn't believe it!"

"Well," said Muggs. "Let's play a game!"

"Oh, boy," said Frankie, who wasn't thrilled in the least. "And what kind of a game, smarty?"

Muggs' eyes were shining now. "A game I just invented," he said.

"Gads, how horrible!" thought Frankie. But he didn't say it. Instead, he said, "And how do you play it?"

"Well," said Muggs, who was now quite excited, "first I'll hum a song and you try to guess it, then you hum a song and I'll try to guess it! And whoever misses has to buy the other an ice-cream

"Hmmm," said Frankie. "That's not a bad game at all." And he told himself that this was easier than taking an ice-cream soda from a baby.

"You go first," said Muggs.

"Oke," said Frankie, and he began to "Da-da-da-da-da!"

"The Star Spangled Banner!" shouted Muggs.

"I should have known," thought Frankie. "That's probably the only song he knows!"

Then Muggs began to "Da-da-da-da!"

"The Stars and Stripes Forever!" said Frankie with a big grin.

Then Frankie hummed again.

"Who?" said Muggs, who was only asking a question.

"Gulp! That's right," said Frankie, who wondered how Muggs ever guessed the name of that song.

Now Muggs really felt confident. He thought for a while, and then hummed, "Da-da-da-da-da-da!"

"Huh?" said Frankie. "Gee, that's a tough one. Is that 'Down by the Old Mill Stream'?"

"Nope!" was the answer.

"Bicycle Built for Two?"

"Nope!" smiled Muggs.

"Gee, Muggs," said Frankie very sadly, "I don't think I know it. What's the name of the song?"

"Gosh, I don't know," answered Muggs. "You've got to give me time to give it a title. I just made up the song!"

"Ouch!" shouted Frankie. But he knew that Muggs had earned the soda.

Take your choice of any of these wonderful prizes. They can be yours quickly, easily. Many prizes shown here and dozens more in our Big Prize Book are given WITHOUT COST for selling just one 30 pack order of Christmas Cards at 35c per pack. Some of the larger prizes require more sales or extra money as explained in the Big Prize Book.

Send NO MONEY, We Trust You. It's easy to sell these 35c Xmas Packs to your family, friends and neighbors. Each pack contains five beautiful Christmas Cards and Envelopes—a great big value for 35c. They are much easier to sell than high priced boxes of cards. Many boys and girls sell their packs in one hour. You can too—and get your prize at once. Or, if you want money instead of a prize, keep $3.50 in cash for every 30 pack order you sell. Be first in your neighborhood.
