SPACEMEN
1965 YEARBOOK

The freshest, fastest, most truly Far Out (like light-years) magazine on the market.

This is not a space fact journal. Nor is it a science fiction periodical. It might be called a space functional publication. But SPACEMEN is not exactly a boff book for Outer Space buffs either.

100 years ago the frontiers of adventure were the wild west of the new world, the youthful America. Now all Earth's frontiers lie above and beyond the horizon, in the New Worlds around us—8 unexplored planets in our own Solar System . . . many moons beside our own . . . and unguessable worlds in the deeps of interstellar infinity.

Daring motion picture pioneers have already trained their cameras on other worlds, captured thru the lens of imagination glimpses of landscapes and architectures far removed from our Planet 3. One of the first films ever made, at the end of the 19th century, is reported to have been H. G. Wells' FIRST MEN ON THE MOON. The famous French special effects artist, George Melies, made A TRIP TO THE MOON in 1902. French Pathe filmed A TRIP TO JUPITER in 1909; Edison Films, A TRIP TO MARS in 1910; Tower Films, another TRIP TO MARS in 1920. The Russians rocketed to Mars in 1918 in AELITA (found a civilization of robots there). There was a silent SKY-SPLITTER that went faster than light, a German trip around the Solar System via ethership (OUR HEAVENLY BODIES), and one of the earliest sound-scored films was Fritz Lang's epic FRAU IM MOND (known in English as THE GIRL IN THE MOON and BY ROCKET TO THE MOON).

Great films exist, excitingly showing how the mind of man has imagined the people and places and things of the Void Out There may look. SPACEMEN has this great material at its command, will share it with you in this issue and issues thru the years to come. We know we must act fast in covering such productions as THE GIRL IN THE MOON, RIDERS TO THE STARS, 12 TO THE MOON, MISSILE TO THE MOON, DESTINATION MOON, etc, for it will not be long now before Space Stations and Lunar Landings and surface explorations are the genuine subject matter of newspapers, TV, LIFE and newsreels.

If you're interested in Space—and frankly we can't understand how any red-blooded American or green-blooded Martian (and we expect to have readers in both classes) couldn't be—this is the indispensable magazine for you. Names like Ray Bradbury, George Pal, Jules Verne, Fritz Lang, H. G. Wells, Curt Siodmak, Ray Harryhausen, Chesley Bonestell guarantee stellar treats. SPACEMEN offers you space men, space ships, space worlds, space quips, space thrills and even a space monster or two! Like they say in the Space Service: "Variety is the Space of Life!"

RIDERS

IN THE SKY

A piercing scream rent the tomblike gloom, a girl's terrified voice crying out in sudden fear and echoing and re-echoing in the dark.

"Hey, what's the matter?" A man's voice, shrill with concern.

"Over here!" her breathless response. "By the 6 rockets. I—" Her voice broke off. "It's something terrible. I think I've," sound of gulping, "stumbled onto a corpse!"

"A corpse! Here? Hold it, I'll be right there."

A click, and the ray from a flashlight sprang on in the man's hand. He directed the beam toward the area of the 6 rockets. First 3 horizontal ships came into sight, then 2 tall cylindrical shapes poised for flight, and finally one great rocket hovering in mid-air. The beam moved a foot to the right and revealed the frightened face of the young girl, her red-rouged lips drawn into an "o" of terror, hands clutched to the temples of her wild hair, eyes pointed downward at a 90° angle.

Waveringly the light travelled down the trembling girl till, accompanied by a gasp, it reached her ankles—and the thing of horror upon which she had trod.

"Good Lord!" The exclamation involuntarily wrung itself from the man's pale lips. "Bob Karnes! And we saw him alive not more than 10 minutes ago!"

the mummy from the meteor

But if the hideous caricature of a man at their feet had ever been alive, it was difficult to believe now. Like nothing so much he looked as an Egyptian mummy, removed after 3,000 years from his ancient tomb and then clad in a spacesuit! For the cold, dead figure wore the standard equipment of protection against alien atmospheres and interplanetary vacuums of all those who brave the starways.

But now the pliant rubber fabric was gashed and torn, the glass visor of the helmet smashed and jagged. This was a spacesuit destroyed by an explosion or caught in a collision with a meteor.

And the man inside— The flesh had instantaneously been ripped from his body, as tho attacked by a million soldier ants, the terrors of the jungle, or a school of pirhannas, the peril-fish of the South American waters that can devour a full-grown man in a matter of moments. His hands were bony claws, his eyes sunken hollows, and his white ribs could be counted.

Death in Space is violent and not pleasant to look upon.

Fortunately my companion and I were not looking at the real thing, but a cleverly constructed, life-like, life-size reproduction of cinemactor Robert Karnes, who met a literally meteoric end in the space film Riders to the Stars.

Riders to the Stars is the dramatic story of a nerve-wracking near future and a perilous preliminary step that may have to be taken on the star-way leading to the conquest of space. It poses the not impossible problem: supposing even the toughest alloy, say vanadium, should prove inadequate to shield rockets from some invisible iron curtain in the sky? Supposing, as in the picture, test rockets should hurtle heavenward at 3,000 miles a minute, only to repeatedly tumble back to earth—their structures crystallized and shattered?

The theory is advanced that meteors in space may be surrounded by some chemical coating which protects their core from disintegration by the merciless cosmic rays. To test the theory a "pure" meteor, one whose protective shell has not been burned away by friction from passage thru our atmosphere, has to, in effect, be captured.

Fearing the establishment of an Iron Curtain in the sky if the free world doesn't establish a space station first, the Office of Scientific Investigation drafts a number of technical experts to engage themselves with the problem. At first the men, in complete ignorance of their eventual mission, are treated like candidates for some future school of Space Cadets. They are subjected to a variety of tests, both psychological and physical, the former being performed to test for claustrophobes, irritability quotients, etc. The body tests call for superhuman endurance of heat, gravity and other travails of the Centrifuge.

Finally, the choices are narrowed down to 3 men for 3 rockets.

Take off! The trio of meteor hunters rise almost simultaneously to a height of approximately 150 miles.

Robert Karnes is the first to spot a quarry. Calculations indicate it is oversize for his scooper, but he recklessly attempts to capture his prey. In the endeavor his ship is blown up and he becomes the dehydrated dummy upon which, later lying discarded in the dark on the sound stage at the Hal Roach Studio, my friend stumbled.

Yes, it's going to be tough to be a space explorer—but even filming a space movie is a risky proposition. One man lost his life during the production of Riders to the Stars! Another had his right hand blown off. Another—

Producer Ivan Tors, during a special interview in his office at "A-Men" Productions, said: "I would like to salute a brave and loyal man, Robert Orlando, who truly gave his life in a cause 'above and beyond the call of duty.' No one connected with the making of our picture would have asked it of him. But the Pentagon had lent us one of their official pressure suits and an expensive duplicate had been made from it. This was stored in a warehouse overnight, and the warehouse caught fire. Mr. Orlando, who was nearby, and who knew the value of the suit and how production would be delayed if it were destroyed, ran into the blazing building, and was overcome by smoke, rescued by firemen, rushed to the hospital—but died the following day. I greatly regret this tragic accident."

A second bad accident was soon to follow. Just a few months before, while Master of Ceremonies at a radio awards show where plaques were given to outstanding contributors to scientific films, I had had the pleasure of meeting an electronics engineer named Maxwell Smith, who, for the edification of the audience that nite, put on an electrical stage demonstration. Later hired as technical expert for Riders to the Stars, one of his jobs was to operate the first radio-controlled miniature rockets ever used in any scientific film. An acetylene tank simulated rocket exhaust, and the day before shooting the first rocket sequences Smith got an idea for coloring the gas. Faced with a deadline, he took his work home with him, to his basement lab.

At 3 A.M. a terrific explosion rocked Smith's neighborhood. Lights popped on in nearby houses, owners hastily donned dressing robes and ran out into the cold night air, now acrid with the smoke of chemical fumes. Moans were emanating from the shaken Smith home.

The fire department was quickly summoned—and an ambulance. When the debris was cleared away and the unconscious man rescued, it was discovered that the force of the explosion had blown his right hand off. He was bleeding from multiple wounds. Sharp bits of metal had pierced his lung, "shrapnel" mangled his right leg, his left arm muscles and nerves were severed.

He was given no chance of survival. Nevertheless, 3 surgeons operated simultaneously for 6 hours—and he pulled thru. Maxwell Smith, graduate of the Massachusetts and California Institutes of Technology, victim of a leaking valve, martyr of a

When I spoke to Max a couple of weeks after the accident, he had assumed a remarkably philosophical attitude toward it. "You know, Ackerman," he said, "all my life I worked with my hands—from here on in I'm going to use my head."

death rides the spaceways

Still, the end was not yet on the mayheming misfortunes that plagued the picturization of Riders. In one hair-raising episode William Lundigan, his strength waning, is ordered to return to earth. He is over the North Pole as he receives instructions to decelerate, and fires a nose rocket.

Suddenly a meteor approaches. Lundigan decides to take a crack at trying to capture it. Against orders he switches off automatic operation and accelerates. He is rapidly using up his fuel. At a speed of 300 miles a second he "inches" up on the celestial speedball, which is about 14" in diameter and revolves slowly around its axis.

He falls behind the meteor, moves in cautiously, activates the scoop, secures the space traveler!

Returning to automaticcomputer, he is told when he reaches altitude 80 miles. He will hit atmosphere in 30 seconds. He opens glide-wings.

The rocket temperature increases to 130 degrees . . . 140 degrees . . . 190 degrees . . .

In actual movie, Richard Carlson recoils in panic from Space Helmet with snake-like oxygen tube which seems to have taken on a Life of Its Own as it floats before him in a state of Free Fall.

210 degrees . . . 220 degrees!

Blinded by sweat, his vocal chords scorched, Lundigan rasps: "I can't take it any more—too hot—burning up—get me out of here!"

upset on space set

And at this point a model rocket caught fire and special effects man Harry Redmond came squealing to the studio nurse with a blistered right hand. Lucy treated Red for second degree burns while I looked on and made sympathetic noises, wondering how long it would remain safe just to be a reporter on a space film!

The 4th accident happened when star Richard Carlson, who had survived a tussle with The Magnetic Monster and the frog-horror of The Maze and the Bradburian Thing that Came from Outer Space, took a tumble. He was rather far above the floor, "floating" in free fall, when the invisible piano wire supporting him snapped in two. I didn't wait to learn whether he intended to sue for non-support.

When my Pal George, who gave us Destination Moon, When Worlds Collide and The War of the Worlds, phoned inviting me to take a trip to Mars with Chesley Bonestell over at Paramount Studios, where they were filming Willy Ley's Conquest of Space, I didn't get out of bed till Lloyds of London answered my urgent cable: WILL YOU INSURE LIFE OF REPORTER WHO FREQUENTLY COVERS FILMING OF SPACE MOVIES? END

FLASH GORDON!

His life! His exploits! His perils!
His escapes! His unforgettable, unparalleled Adventures on Mars, Mongo and in his Interplanetary Rocketship!

Embark with us, now, on the most exciting story ever told—the Cinema Saga of Flash Gordon. It will take many, many issues of SPACEMEN to tell the entire story, show all the pictures, record all the fascinating side-lights.

For this is a tale of gadgets galore and a score of almost indescribable things, more wondrous than that famous fantasy about “shoes & ships & sealing wax and cabbages & kings.”

It is the fable of rocketships and Octosacs, of dragons in the realm called Ming’s. It tells of men who whirl thru space to the mysterious planet Mongo; and how they meet Shark Men face to face; Hawk Men; even Monkey Men stranger than roam the Congo.

The fabulous narrative of FLASH GORDON is one of endless battles, of Flash’s desperate attempts to silence ray guns’ rattles.

He plunges his submarine Hydro-cycle to the depths of a murky sea. The dangers that lurk & strike there prove the man that he can be.

Watch Flash soar in a gyro-ship to the City of the Sky! He finds his foes and makes them roar as he smites them hip & thigh.

Follow him thru the wizard-visioned Spaceograph as he hunts beasts more weird than a 7-legged giraffe; as he knocks down—socko!—a huge creature called a Gocko.

what’s a gocko?

This denizen of Mongo is one of the strangest creatures that ever struck fear into the heart of a man.

First of all, it rears up 11 feet into the air.

It has a body like a dinosaur and a dragon’s tail with a sharp hatchet edge shaped like the prow of a Viking ship.

It has the head of a horse
... ears of a mule

... mouth of a saurian—sprouting tusks!
Its tongue is like a writhing sword.

And it breathes out fire & smoke!

Its giant grasping hands look like lobster claws magnified 50 times.

Feet? The size of a mammoth’s, with heavy pointed toes resembling the claws of a mastodonic steam shovel!

There’s a giant animal like a scissorbill and a machine that makes Flash invisible. Ming owns a zebra-striped bear and reptiles slither than any Adam ever knew in the Garden of Eden zoo.

“Sights which challenge the imagination and defy belief,” reported one newspaper. Another: “FLASH GORDON is a journey into the realm of fantasy and at the same time a glimpse into the future. If anyone wants to know what this universe will be like 1000 years from now, FLASH GORDON unrolls the curtain from the mystery with prophetic vision.”

Flash in the flesh

At the time Buster Crabbe (born Clarence Linden Crabbe) essayed the role of Flash Gordon he stood 6’ 1”, weighed 188 lbs., had a 45” chest, 32” waist, 17” neck, 16” biceps, 23” thigh and 16” calf. He was a graduate (1932) of the University of Southern California and scored that year as a swimming champion in the Olympic Games in Los Angeles. The first FLASH GORDON (there was a second one, FLASH GORDON’S TRIP TO MARS) was his 15th film. Previously he had played Tarzan, and a lad of the lions in a feature called KING OF THE JUNGLE.

Flash Gordon’s father

The late Alex Raymond was the creator of the newspaper strip detailing the dynamic adventures of Flash. In 5 years Raymond perfected his dramatic drawing style and became one of the stars of the comic strip profession as millions of people followed the daily adventures of Flash Gordon in black & white on week days and in flaming color on weekends.

Look magazine devoted coverage to Flash’s adventures on Mars in 3 of its 1938 issues.

Raymond’s newspaper strip was said to Strange Giant-Headed Martian!

"throb with action, danger & excitement." While on the screen the translation of Flash Gordon and his environment from paper to celluloid was called "both awe-inspiring & grotesque."

Flash in the future

In issues to come we will tell of the problems of casting Hawkmen, Lionmen, Monkeymen; building hydrocycles and creating invisibility effects; the time Buster Crabbe was lacerated in an accident while filming and Jean Rogers, his leading lady, was almost drowned; and, best of all, there'll be chapted-by-chapter descriptions of the exciting instalments of the serials with, of course, a generous helping each time of stirring stills!

We have a saying in our companion magazine, FAMOUS MONSTERS "Lon Chaney shall not die!" In SPACEMEN we might say the same of Flash Gordon. You'll find him here every issue from now on. Tell your friends!

Journey to the seventh planet

WHAT IS THIS MONSTROUS THING WITH THE POWER OF MIND OVER MATTER?

There beyond the stars your unspeakable fears . . .
deepest desires . . . come alive . . . and you are trapped in a spectacle of terror—your secret fears pitted against you.

With headlines daily proclaiming man's imminent conquest of space and with a landing on the Moon predicted within the year, it is only natural that science fiction on the screen should explore "tomorrow's" landings on the neighbor planets of our Solar System.

The excitement and chills brought to you by American International's science fiction thriller, "Journey to the 7th Planet," portray the exploration by Earth's spacemen of mysterious Uranus, seventh planet from our Sun.

The time of the story is soon after the initial conquest of the Solar System by spacemen from Earth. The Moon, Venus, Mars, Neptune, Mercury and Saturn have been explored by Astronauts but no life has yet been found. Now, a five-man international expedition sets out to investigate the planet Uranus, the seventh planet from the Sun, in their quest for life on other worlds.

The crew, Don (JOHN AGAR), Eric (CARL OTTOSEN), Barry (OVE SPROGØE), Svend (LOUIS MIEHE RENARD) and Karl (PETER MONCH), land their rocket ship successfully on Uranus and set out to explore a strangely beautiful but eerie land. Despite the two hundred degree below zero temperatures, they surprisingly find a village which is an exact replica of such a place that one of the men knew in his childhood. They also meet strangely familiar women, Greta (GRETA THYSEN), Ingrid (ANN SMYRNER), Ursula (MIMI HEINRICH), Ellen (ANNIE BIRGIT GARDE), Lise (ULLA MORITZ) and Colleen (BENTE JUEL). These women look just like ones they have known on Earth and romances blossom as they might back home.

A further exploration of the seventh planet reveals a strange monster. They also learn that Uranus is controlled by a mysterious "Being" which resembles the structure of the human brain, but is thousands of times more powerful. This "Being," they discover, is able to give reality to all the thoughts, fears and desires of the men. Consequently, the beautiful women they have known from their past lives have appeared in realistic, life-like form. When one of the men recalls his fear of rats, a huge rat-like creature appears. They soon realize that the village they have seen is but a re-creation from the memory of one of the men.

The Earthmen find themselves completely taken in by these illusions created by the seventh planet's "Being" and soon the real purpose of their exploration becomes meaningless. When the group's leaders, Don and Eric, understand this, they realize that the brain-like monster ruling Uranus must be destroyed or they will never return to Earth. Though they too have been lulled by these figments of their imagination, they rally the whole crew to try to kill the "Being."

They hunt down the brain creature in its hiding-place in one of the caves below the surface of the planet and desperately seek means to insure its destruction. There they make a most frightening discovery—as they come face to face with this strange enemy with powers that defy their weapons and very minds! END

With the assistance of his secretary, Helen (Lois Collier), Kent makes every attempt to destroy Mota (Gregory Gay). Mota's greatest ally is his fantastic atom-powered space vehicle, a weird-looking ship resembling nothing ever seen on Earth, capable of flying sideways & backwards without turning around, ascending & descending like a helicopter, even hovering at a standstill in space. Mota's ship defies all laws of gravity & can be operated by remote control.

the return of mota

Some years after Mota had met his doom (engulfed in molten lava in an atomically triggered volcanic eruption) he returned to life in a condensed version of the serial, the feature being known as MISSILE MONSTERS. This played widely thruout the United States in 1958, coupled with Republic's SATAN'S SATELLITES, fashioned full-length from portions of the former serial ZOMBIES OF THE STRATOSPHERE.

OF THE SPACE OPERA

1 Capt. Frank Chapman, commander of rocketship Pegasus III, takes off from U.S. Air Force Lunar Base #1 to solve the interplanetary riddle of 1980: what is causing the disappearance of reconnaissance research rockets?

2 Trouble aboard Chapman's spaceship as a meteor rips thru the metal exterior in a fiery blaze, almost striking the commander's companion, Lt. Makonnen, who attempts to cope with the spreading flames.

3 To repair the damage caused by the colliding space fragment, the astronauts must venture outside onto the hull. Captain Chapman goes thru the airlock first, the lieutenant helping him with the equipment.

4 An eerie moment—alone in the black and airless void—on the outer shell of the pierced rocket. Captain Chapman activates the sliding metal panel of the airlock so that Lt. Makonnen may follow him—outside.

5 Peril in the Great Vacuum as a swarm of minute but deadly meteors pockmarks the skin of the Pegasus, narrowly missing the pilot & navigator who are trying to repair the penetration damage of the space-stones.

6 Makonnen was lost in space. Captain Chapman, alone on the peculiar planetoid which has pulled his ship to its surface, warily explores the rocky terrain of the alien world. Will he survive its rigors?

7 What's wrong? Chapman's feeling groggy—stumbling—falling. Is this what's happened to those before him who have disappeared on the wandering planetoid? Is his number up? Is he doomed to a quick death?

9 Spaceman Chapman, late of Lunar Base #1, lies unconscious on the gritty surface of a strange world of midgits. He does not even know the little planet's name. Will it be his death world, his unknown, unmarked grave?

11 Incredibly, Chapman has vanished from his own suit! Certainly he didn't crawl out of it and abandon it—what then? Did something corrosive in the atmosphere disintegrate his flesh & blood & bones—leaving emptiness? ? ?

8 Before he blacks out completely, Chapman sees an astounding sight thru the visor of his space helmet: a "welcoming" committee of 10 human-looking men but—can he believe his blurring vision?—they're only 6" tall!

10 One of the puzzled planetoid people, braver than the rest, steps forward for a closer look at the "giant". The captain, having fainted, is unaware that he is being closely observed thru the transplastic of his helmet.

12 Capt. Chapman comes to—inside his own helmet! Astounding fact: he has shrunken till, like the inhabitants of the phantom world, he is only half a foot in height! The peculiar atmospheric properties were responsible.

The captive Solarite escapes, kidnaps Zetha, who faints at the sight of it.

Chapman learns that he is on a little roving world known to its inhabitants as Rehton. The gases of their "air" (fortunately breathable by him) caused him to dwindle to their small stature.

The Rehtonians ages ago gave up most of their scientific achievements to lead a simpler life but have retained their Universal Gravity Control in order to maneuver their planet like a super spaceship.

Fierce Solarites, fire-people of an enemy Sun satellite, have for generations been carrying on a "hot" war with the Rehtonians. Object to capture the Rehtonian secret of gravity control. One of the powerful Solarites has been captured by the Rehtonians.

Capt. Chapman's visit to Rehton is an exciting one. At first he fears his life may be forfeit when he is tried by a Rehtonian jury on a charge of injuring several citizens but he is cleared of this misdemeanor and soon rises to a position of power in the community.

Two beautiful Rehtonian girls vie for Chapman's affection and at one point he is forced into a fight-to-the-death with Heron, jealous Government official. It is a weird scientific duel whose object is to push one's opponent onto a super-G plate—a gravitron grid of such intense potential that the affected individual immediately disintegrates. Chapman maneuvers his challenger into a lethal position but spares his life.

Chapman is "aboard" the pygmy planet when it makes a mad dash for its life, thru minor star-clusters and then the misty veil of the Milky Way itself in an effort to elude an attack by the Solarites.

When the Solarite captive on Rehton escapes, the life of ruler Sesom himself is endangered. Chapman is instrumental in destroying the horrid flame-beast.

closer to Earth's Moon than it has ever been before. Perhaps, with guided direction, the planetoid can be moved near enough to Luna for our Base there to detect the Phantom Planet and send a rescue party after Chapman.

But what good rescue if he is to remain a midget?

A theory works, and oxygen remaining in the spare tank of his spacesuit causes Chapman to return to his normal size. A scout ship picks him up but no one can believe his wild, improbable story. Chapman begins to regret he left Rehton—and the lovely Zetha.

Perhaps he will return?

Three eye the sky—and the Angry Red Sun in it that threatens extinction of life on Earth.

Operation Rescue. Help from Helicopter.

They knew the Minute, the Hour and the Day the World would Come to an End and Humanity would be Destroyed! Only an Ark of Space could save—some.

A sinister, thrilling whisper stalks the telegraph trails of the world. . . Two scientists confirm their calculations: 2 great planets have jumped their orbits and are racing thru space to collide with our world. . . This means D-Day for the entire Earth—a date with Death, Doom, Destruction.

“The League of Last Days” is formed. . . They plot a miraculous escape in which only the fittest will survive. . . Millions revert to savagery as civilization crumbles, law and order become a shambles.

And then the crash—the end of the world. . .!

Cecil B. DeMille?! Something strikes you as odd? You seem to remember or have heard that WHEN WORLDS COLLIDE was a Geo. Pal production? You recall no world-wrecking in the career of the late CBD?

Right you are!—and you’ve just won yourself a free rocket ride to the Moon Lagoon.

Actually, the Foreword to this article was taken almost word for word from Para-mount's publicity book predicting its hits for the year 1934.

The prediction was a bit premature.

WHEN WORLDS COLLIDE, originally serialized in Bluebook magazine in 1932, was not to reach the screen (and rock it like a rocket) till almost 20 years later when, in New Orleans in 1951, on the occasion of the annual World Science Fiction Convention, the lucky space fans in attendance got to see the world premiere of WHEN WORLDS COLLIDE.

The novel itself was written by Philip Wylie & Edwin Balmer and when the first instalment of it appeared it doubled the magazine's circulation; It was reported that the employees of the printing plant where it was being published were so excited about it that the 200 of them dropped their work to grab the story wet off the press!

it begins with Bellus

The world's first hint of extinction comes (in the picture) when astronomers detect another sun, a "little" red runaway sun named Bellus, inconveniently headed for the same spot in space generally occupied by—us.

A frightening case of For Whom the Bellus Tolls—and if that funny is over your head, sonny, well . . . so is Bellus! And here's where the trouble starts: when Bellus gets too close to Tellus (which is another name for Earth), that big bonfire from outer space is going to burn our planet as black as a teen girl cook's first piece of toast. We'll either roast to death or—worse yet—get smashed to smithereens by a companion of Bellus, a planet named Zyra.

"As far as the collision with Bellus and the rocket were concerned," said the picture's director, Rudy Mate, in an interview, "the film was frankly science fiction. We launched the spaceship horizontally instead of vertically, in the usual way. Jets beneath the ship supplied the initial impulse that started it rolling down a track like the carriage of a rollercoaster. After reaching the bottom it shot up off into the air at about 3000' per second. The jets were dropped as the ship left the track and the rocket motors went into action. After penetrating the atmosphere the ship speeded up to the velocity of escape of 7 miles per second."

With the whole world clamoring for rescue, rich men offering their fortunes, poor men their files of FAMOUS MONSTERS, only 40 people can be accommodated on the new Noah's Ark of space that is hastily built during the last days of life on Earth. Four hundred feet long, it is of gleaming metal tapering to a needle-sharp nose; 75' wide. It will be hurled into space, with its human and animal cargo, at a speed approximating 1500 miles an hour. Forty men and women, out of the whole human race, seeking survival on a new world while the one they leave behind is rocked and ravaged by cosmic forces the like of which no human being has ever experienced.

As Bellus, the great flaming bowling-ball of death, approaches Earth, the surface of our planet begins to crack up under the gravitational stresses and strains.

The earth quakes.

Sleeping volcanos waken, belching forth fireballs like Roman Candles and white-

The Great Fire Bird wings free of the Mother Planet as Bellus, the Red Interloper, approaches.

The tides rise in the 7 seas and as tempests of hurricane strength roar through the atmosphere, howling like banshees at the wake of the world, tidal waves of unprecedented height attack New York with watery fists. Broadway becomes a colossal trough of water as millions of tons of angry ocean smash and batter at the skyscrapers of the great metropolis.

With the world literally crumbling around their ears, the planet pioneers flee their dying Mother Earth on a column of flame. They are almost squashed flat by the multi-gravities of the takeoff but, having been picked for their superb bodies as well as their superior brains and quality of emotional stamina, the hardy spacemen and spacewomen survive the shock of the leap into space.

It is a thrilling race with Destiny.

A do-or-die effort to cross the interplanetary void to a new haven in the sky.

And when the Earthship at last comes to rest on the alien soil of Zyra and the last 40 human beings in existence emerge from their metal cocoon to test the atmosphere of their second home, a warm and friendly flowering landscape greets their anxious eyes. It is a welcome sign.

The old Earth, with its pride and prejudices, is gone. It is Day #1 on the New World Zyra and for the orphans of space a new life dawns.

BUCK ROGERS

Exclusive SPACEMEN Article
by SAM SHERMAN

Let's push time ahead to the 25th Century and join space-hero BUSTER CRABBE in the World of the Future. Behold the favorite of millions in the first serial space panorama to give us a look at Planet Earth 500 years from now!

radio activates Rogers

Strange as it may seem, the 25th century began for Buck with the creation of his era in the 1920's. The New Yorker magazine took a deep look at this space age wonder when it reviewed his radio program on December 22, 1934:

Buck Rogers began as a cartoon strip about five years ago. Buck was an American soldier who was put to sleep by some mysterious gas after the World War (the first one) and woke up in the year 2400. He spends his time in the daily cartoon strip (and on the radio four times a week) flying around the brave new universe from planet to planet accompanied by one Wilma Deering, a pal (not a sweetheart). With them is Dr. Huer who invents all kinds of mechanical and chemical and psychic devices to foil and if possible destroy, Killer Kane and his pal, Ardala Valmar, who is a wretch. Some of the contraptions are rocket pistols, rocket ships, de-gravity belts, paralysis rays, lightning guns, space suits (which make it possible to step off into space without getting hurt) and an electro-hypno mentalaphone for reading the minds of villains and learning their dastardly plots. Columbia Broadcasting studios use 25 different motors to imitate the various mechanical devices of Dr. Huer. The sound of the psychic restriction ray, however, is made by a Schick razor. Mr. John F. Dille, who has his own syndicate, thought up Buck. The cartoon strip is drawn by Dick Calkins and written by Phil Nowlan.

"Zap!" you're disintegrated

The original radio program featured Matthew Crowley as Buck, Adele Ronson as Wilma Deering and Edgar Stehli as Dr. Huer. Yes, before the great movie serial, Buck was pictured in newspaper strips and heard on the radio. The kids went wild over him! Buck's products of all sorts dominated the American scene. Sorry indeed was the youngster who did not have his own Buck Rogers "Rocket Pistol". In one department store alone, 1500 were set loose upon the world, the first day on sale. The weapon was made of heavy metal in a super-futuristic design. When the trigger was pulled a snapping sound described as "Zap" was heard.

Dave Sharpe (left) as Buddy and Eddie Parker as Buck leap into a fight with Killer Kane's crowd. This shot shows the two stunt aces who performed the action the studio would not allow Buster to do.

Buck's in a fix as Captain Lasca, played by Henry Brandon (right), turns Prince Tallen and the people of Saturn against him.

Scott (Carleton Young) and his ray pistol mean sure disintegration for Buck Rogers if Buster loses this fight.

the cameras roll

Working with a favorite like this, Universal Studios saw a natural hit for the movies. If they could obtain the world's foremost spaceman, Buster Crabbe, they were set. So, after 30 episodes of FLASH GORDON (in 2 serials), Buster became BUCK ROGERS in a 12 chapter space panorama.

After breaking the script down into episodic form, the production of the serial took six weeks. Action dominated the film as 3 top stuntmen (famed for later Republic serials) strutted their stuff. Dave Sharpe, Eddie Parker and Tom Steele received the jolts as they were joined by Roy Barcroft and Kenne Duncan (later Republic villains) this time as defenders of right. The players in support of Buster as Buck Rogers were Constance Ford as Wilma Deering, C. Montague Shaw as Dr. Huer, Jackie Moran as Buddy and Anthony Warde as Killer Kane. In the stunt department, Eddie Parker doubled for Buster while Dave Sharpe filled in for Jackie Moran. This sounds quite amazing, as who has ever been in better physical shape than Buster Crabbe? However, even if he wanted to do all his own stunting, the studio would not permit it. They had quite a bit of money invested in him (as the central figure in this production) so they had no plans of jeopardizing their investment.

Captain Rankin (Jack Mulhall) and Lieutenant Lacy (Kenne Duncan) discover the 20th century Buck in a state of suspended animation in the 25th century.

Buster's views on Buck

Recently, I discussed stuntwork and other cinematic situations with Buster Crabbe, who commented as follows:

SPACEMEN—"How did they determine what action was to be doubled?"

BUSTER—"The further you got in the picture, the more of a chance they were taking of getting the star cracked up. The result being, holding up production at a good deal of added expense (production-wise), or not being able to complete the picture at all."

SPACEMEN—"Thinking about today's space achievements, did people at the time BUCK ROGERS was made, think these films were the wildest, craziest things in the world?"

BUSTER—"Yeah, (with a chuckle) a little bit. But the films went over pretty well."

SPACEMEN—"I notice Phillip Ahn was cast as Prince Tallen, ruler of Saturn. Was there a specific reason for choosing an Oriental actor for the role?"

BUSTER—"He's Korean and you see him a lot today. He's turned out to be quite a good actor. As far as the casting goes, who knew just what a Saturnian should look like anyway?"

SPACEMEN—"I wonder if you remember how they did any of the special effects?"

BUSTER—"Oh sure. In some shots the spaceships didn't move, the background

Buddy Wade (Jackie Moran) and Buck Rogers find out that their dirigible is about to crash on an icy Arctic mountain.

There is no escape for Wilma Deering from these weird creatures. Who are they?

moved as it was on a rotary drum. The special effects men blew smoke around the ship and once in a great while they'd swoop one down. But the ships were hard to control because they were operated on a pendulum rig. If the spaceships weren't handled just right, they looked phonier than they actually were. Some of the attacks were rigged using strings and with the smoke covering up the faults, it didn't look too bad."

SPACEMEN—"How big were the actual miniature ships that were filmed?"

BUSTER—"On the average, about 10 inches."

SPACEMEN—"Do you remember anything about the ray guns?"

BUSTER—"You might be interested to know that the ray effect was done by scratching lines on the actual film frames. The prop department at Universal dreamed up the space gun design by trying to follow the original comic strip drawings."

one can defy gravity

SPACEMEN—"Who directed Buck Rogers?"

BUSTER—"The directors were Ford Beebe and Saul Goodkind, a former film editor. He was actually a cutter directing, and he planned the editing as the film was being shot."

SPACEMEN—"How were the de-gravity belt effects obtained?"

BUSTER—"Piano wire. We wore harnesses the same as Mary Martin used as PETER PAN. The only dangers being kinks, if one formed, the wire would break. But there were no broken necks, bones or anything like that."

SPACEMEN—"Where were the outdoor scenes, that were supposed to take place on other planets, shot?"

BUSTER—"Mostly at Chatsworth, Red Rock Canyon and the Mojave Desert, all of them not too far from the studios in California."

SPACEMEN—"Was there much promotion and touring with films like BUCK ROGERS?"

BUSTER—"Oh sure, just because it was a serial is no reason why they shouldn't publicize it. The serials made more money for the studios than a lot of their big pictures. A three-quarter million dollars production budget was spent on the first FLASH GORDON, but it paid off in big dividends."

SPACEMEN—"When a serial was made,

Buster Crabbe as Buck Rogers, the hero of tomorrow who climbed to popularity heights never before achieved.

Buster demonstrates the "25th century slam" as he downs one of Killer Kane's men.

Dr. Huer and his assistants prepare their ray machine for immediate action.

were Cliffhanger scenes shot two or three ways to get the hero out of peril for the next chapter?"

BUSTER—"Yes, serials were always shot that way. For example: a man is shown actually falling off a cliff—cut—that's the end of one episode. Then for the next chapter, they pick up showing him roll down and then grab something to save himself. They cheat a little so that he never actually fell off. You know, I was a serial fan even before I got into pictures and I'll never forget the trickery they used then to save the hero."

SPACEMEN—"Do you enjoy watching your own features & serials today?"

BUSTER—"I'm critical of them. Some of the ones I enjoyed working in, I enjoy watching. I often wonder though, why I did the scene the way I did. But sometimes, after not seeing a picture for a long time and thinking it's very poor, I'm pleasantly surprised."

SPACEMEN—"Back in 1952, you had an ABC-TV show on which BUCK ROGERS and some of your other films were run. Was there much of a fan club connected with the films and this show?"

BUSTER—"You bet! We had BUSTER'S BUDDIES clubs and there were 35,000 members in the New York area alone. The kids loved the serials and these films are still the type of entertainment they'd like a lot today."

They certainly are the type of entertainment that everybody enjoys, if Buster Crabbe is the star. He's the man who brought a new dimension to the chapter play—acting! We believed in Buck and the other characters Buster played, because his acting convinced us that a situation was really desperate. Even in the fantastic-futuristic settings, the conflicts became real. These were the only films of their kind; they can never be recreated!

In next issue's concluding installment, we'll return with the movie story of BUCK ROGERS. What happens when Buck is made a helpless robot slave of the filament ray helmet? Can Killer Kane destroy Buck's hidden city and thus rule the Earth? Is Saturn the planet where enemies or friends dwell? Who are the horrible Zugg men? And what is the story behind the failure of a 1950 BUCK ROGERS TV series without Buster Crabbe? You'll find out the answers to these questions, and much more, as we return with the 25th century and adventure in the future.

A COMPLETE COLLECTION OF HORROR & MONSTER MOVIES

NOW YOU CAN OWN AND SHOW THESE COMPLETE FILMS RIGHT IN YOUR OWN HOME!
TRULY CLASSICS OF THE MOTION PICTURE SCREEN!

COMPLETE EDITION
8mm (160 ft.) 16mm (320 ft.)

ABBOTT & COSTELLO IN ROCKET & ROLL

A runaway rocket ship, flying saucers and beauties of Venus drive Abbott and Costello along a riotous orbit of dizzy fun for some hilarious maneuvering in outer space! Only $5.75 for 8mm; $10.75 for 16mm.

WAR OF THE PLANETS

Desperate men from a strange universe kidnap a noted scientist to help stem the unearthly furies of an outlaw planet. A powerful barrage of exploding missiles follows his remarkable escape. Only $5.75 for 8mm; $10.75 for 16mm.

KILLER GORILLA

—see the daring capture of the savage bloodthirsty gorilla, actually captured and photographed on safari in darkest Africa—in one of the screen's most breath-taking scenes!

IT CAME FROM OUTER SPACE

A space ship falters in flight and spins to earth with its mysterious monster visitors. A brave scientist battles against time to send the unearthly monsters back to outer space.

ABBOTT AND COSTELLO MEET FRANKENSTEIN

Dracula, The Wolf Man, and even The Invisible Man join forces in this comedy shocker! Watch the daffy chain-reaction of fun as somebody dreams up the idea of using Costello's "brain" for the monster.

BATTLE OF THE GIANTS

Gigantic PREHISTORIC DINOSAURS are shown in a battle to the death as cavemen watch, terrified. The prehistoric days come alive again as the unearthly monsters engage each other in battle.

ABBOTT & COSTELLO MEET DR. JEKYLL & MR. HYDE

FRANKENSTEIN MEETS THE WOLFMAN

BORIS KARLOFF in THE MUMMY

A scientist invents a drug that turns humans into monsters—and Costello gets a dose of the needle! He turns into a monster and lures Scotland Yard on a zany chase after the real madman! Only $5.75 for 8mm; $10.75 for 16mm.

Here's your cup of tea . . . an eerie, spine-tingling, nerve-chilling story of your two favorite all time great Monsters. Frankenstein and Wolfman will fill your cup with terror and send you to bed to dream of happy nightmares.

In 1932 Hollywood wrapped Boris Karloff in 15 yards of rotting gauze; for 6 hours they sprayed his face with chemicals & baked it with clay. The result: THE MUMMY—a screen horror classic! Only $5.75 for 8mm; $10.75 for 16mm.

THE CREATURE FROM THE LAGOON

THE BRIDE OF FRANKENSTEIN

BELA LUGOSI AS "DRACULA"

In the Amazon jungle a living creature from 150 million years ago threatens a party of archaeologists. See the furious spear-gun battle to capture it in the Black Lagoon.

Boris Karloff as The Frankenstein Monster and Elsa Lanchester as his Bride-To-Be. The Frankenstein monster was bad enough, but the Bride now appears as a 7-foot tall horror, wrapped in gauze, ragged stitches scarring her neck!

Stalking relentlessly through the thick London fog in pursuit of his fair victim is the most fiendish and feared vampire of all time. Close your windows and hang out the garlic leaves—Count Dracula is on the loose! An all-time classic! Only $5.75 for 8mm; $10.75 for 16mm.

BORIS KARLOFF,
MR. FRANKENSTEIN HIMSELF
TELLS YOU:
"TALES OF MYSTERY & IMAGINATION"

BORIS KARLOFF
TALES OF MYSTERY & IMAGINATION

"The Legend Of Sleepy Hollow" "Rip Van Winkle"

SOUND EFFECTS BY MYST-E-RAMA

Cricktone Chorus & Orchestra

Only as Karloff can tell it. . . "THE LEGEND OF SLEEPY HOLLOW" and "RIP VAN WINKLE". A brand new record by the master story-teller of horror and mystery. In all the frightening powers of his voice with the chilling background of special sound effects, you live the great classic horror tales of the headless horseman. The hoof-beats of the horse, the howling of the wind as it whips the robe around a rider without a head. The night lives with terror and you sit in your room and hear the sounds and maybe if you look out your window, you'll catch a fast look at the night rider who roams the countryside. Only $1.98.

CAPTAIN CO., Dept. SYB-1 Box 6573, PHILADELPHIA, PENNA.

DROP DEAD

On any Wednesday night in the late 1930's and early 1940's, when radio was king, all the lights would be on in my house and the radio was tuned to a network radio program called "LIGHTS OUT," directed by Arch Oboler, whose special talent scared the wits out of all America with this famous blood-chilling radio series. Here is a sampler of this pioneer of horror and suspense that has never been matched.

Only $5.98

WAR OF THE WORLDS

THE WAR OF THE WORLDS

REVISION FROM NEWS

An LP recording of the original Famous Orson Welles broadcast. Intended as a Halloween prank, this broadcast caused mass hysteria throughout New York and New Jersey. People abandoned their homes and fled—all roads were jammed, and never before had people in all walks of life become so suddenly disturbed as they did on this night. The original broadcast took place on the evening of October 30, 1938. A great, rare collector's item! Only $5.98.

Box 6573 Philadelphia 38, Pa.

EDGAR ALLAN POE

A grim, ghostly, spine-chilling, nerve-wracking tale of horror that will fill you with lingering FRIGHT, written by the all-time master of thriller-chillers—Edgar Allan Poe. You will remember "THE HOUSE OF USHER" (his most famous tale) with shuddering fear every time you're alone in a dark house or on a deserted street! A sinister narration by Richard Taylor. ONLY $1.98.

Forrest J Ackerman presents:

Brand New—Created Just for You!—the Most Amazing Half Hour on Record as FORREST J ACKERMAN himself time-travels to the 21st Century to bring back Music for Robots. FJA talks to YOU for 18 minutes in a thrilling narration about RUB, Tobor, Gort, Robby . . . the automatons of Jules Verne, Edgar Allan Poe, Isaac Asimov, Leonardo da Vinci . . . the metallic Frankenstein. . . Hear weird vibrational multisonic effects, electronic melodies created for the ears of androids! ONLY $1.98.

CLASSIC TALES OF TERROR to make you shiver in your boots. Be prepared for screaming suspense and maniacal action when you listen to these spine-tingling, chilling narrations penned by the master of the macabre Edgar Allan Poe. MASQUE OF THE RED DEATH and the PREMATURE BURIAL, are among these best and most terrifying tales. ONLY $1.98.

NOW YOU CAN HEAR YOUR FAVORITE MONSTERS!

NIGHTMARE
 EDGAR ALLAN POE

NIGHTMARE, ANYONE? You've heard of records in a humorous vein — well this one can only be called HORROR IN A JUGULAR VEIN. A frightening narration from the stories of the old master of horror himself — Edgar Allan Poe. THE PIT AND THE PENDULUM is tough enough on your nerves, but wait until you hear THE TELL-TALE HEART — one of Poe's best and most terrorizing stories. Long Play Album. Only $1.98.

HORROR
 EDGAR ALLAN POE

HORROR—THE SON OF NIGHTMARE: a classic tale of terror spoken in eerie tones with the right kind of background music. The idea of actually hearing this story told in your own home is enough to scare you out of your wits. Put out the lights and have your blood curdled by the tale of THE BLACK CAT, by EDGAR ALLAN POE. Only $1.98.

SHOCK
 Music in Hi-Fi

THIS PLANT ACTUALLY EATS INSECTS AND BITS OF MEAT!

VENUS FLYTRAP

$1.00 THE WORLD'S MOST UNUSUAL HOUSE PLANT!

A BEAUTIFUL PLANT! The VENUS FLY TRAP is unusually beautiful! It bears lovely white flowers on 12" stems. Its dark green leaves are tipped with lovely pink traps—colorful and unusual!

EATS FLIES AND INSECTS! Each pink trap contains a bit of nectar. It is this color and sweetness which attracts the unsuspecting insect. Once he enters the trap, it snaps shut. Digestive juices then dissolve him. When the insect has been completely absorbed, the trap reopens and prettily awaits another insect!

FEED IT RAW BEEF! If there are no insects in your house, you can feed the traps tiny slivers of raw beef. The plant will thrive on such food. When there is no food for the traps, the plant will feed normally through its root system.

EASY TO GROW! The VENUS FLY TRAP bulbs grow especially well in the home. They thrive in glass containers and will develop traps in 3 to 4 weeks. Each order includes 3 FLY TRAPS plus SPECIAL GROWING MATERIAL packed in a plastic bag. Only $1.00.

ADMIRER BY CHARLES DARWIN,
FAMOUS BOTANIST AND EXPLORER

In 1875 Professor Darwin wrote, "This plant, commonly called 'Venus Fly Trap,' from the rapidity and force of its movements, is one of the most wonderful in the world. . . . It is surprising how a slightly damp bit of meat . . . will produce these . . . effects. It seems hardly possible, and yet it is certainly a fact."

No Canadian Orders—U.S. Only

Unwary insect touches sensitive hairs, causing trap to shut. Plant then dissolves & digests insect. Trap will bite at (but will NOT bite off) more than it can chew—such as a finger or a pencil. In a few days, after eating an insect, it will reopen for more food.
