Monday was the day of "the battle of the loud-speakers."

It started at eight in the morning, with Hayakawa yanking apart the wires and loud-speakers from an "illegal!" SDS truck parked on apparently "illegally" 19th avenue outside the campus.

It ended around four in the

BLACKS BACK BROTHERS

BLOODY AND BATTERED...

Yesterday's talk of the black establishment leaders looked like the start of a revolution. For the first time they joined the revolutionary black students and Third World on SFS campus.

They pledged to lay their bodies on the line, even their lives. They finally realized their lives are bound together.

Today, there was more of this talk. Everybody was there, from Willie Brown to Ron Dellums. There also were spokesmen from Chinese, Japanese, Filipino, Chicano, and many, many black organizations. (Sadly, no industrial unions have put their bodies on

But...history grabs us by the balls.

"We can't hold endless rallies. This has got to stop. Willie Brown come join us!"

A young black issued this cry on the steps of the Ad Bldg, right under the amazed nose of deputy police chief Al Nelder.

At THIS precise moment, the revolution bloomed into being. Hundreds of students poured into the building, chanting "We Want The Puppet - We Want The Puppet!" Chief Nelder looked

So did most of the minority brass, for the difference between words and thought is action. Any idea without action is a fraud.

From the top of the building came the riot call. Circling the grassy sward of the commons, that small group of black and whites looked awful lonely. Then an amazing thing happened . . . Students started walking between the police and joined Dr. Goodlett in the lonely middle until the area again was filled with students!

All this time, Hayakawa was announcing via his private loudspeaker on top the Ad Bldg, "The police have been called - clear the campus. You will be arrested.
There are no innocent by standers."
(The cops had just cleared his building with mace).

More students joined the others inside the police lines. After two minutes, Dr. Goodlett was arrested. Then the police started their little game of "sweep the campus".

rested. Then the police started their little game of "sweep the campus".

As they formed a solid phalanx and make the sweep, we would pour around the cops and FOLLOW them across the grass.

Three paddywagons were brought in to follow the police, and us. Among the cops were men from Berkeley (without badges), Alameda, Fremont, and the CHP.

By pushing the students off campus, however, the police created a massive traffic jam on 19th Avenue in front of the Ec House. Students unhooked trolleys from the street cars and rolled parked cars down on the cops.

Meanwhile, back on campus, the aimless, endless sweeps of the police produced the following message over the cop-radio: "let obvious students stay on campus."

To this hardcore bystander-reporter, it seemed time to split. Thursday thus ended with a double-victory for the students and a flop for the minority brass.

So when push came to shove, the only black community leader who put his body on the line was Dr. Carleton Goodlett. Speaking eyeball with the SF Tactless Squad, he announced to the police ringing in the militant blacks and other students—"If you arrest us, you must take us all. Bud do it non-violently."

Dr. Goodlett was arrested. So was campus chaplain, Jerry Pedenson (Turberne and white) who

Dr. Goodlett was arrested. So was campus chaplain, Jerry Pedersen (Lutheran and white), who was handcuffed, roughed up and put in in a paddy wagon.

Another priest at the Ecumenical House across from the campus was arrested. So were a few students. The students got beat up.

That young black on the steps of the Ad Building made history when he called for no more words but lots more action.

Dr. Carleton Goodlett then remarked that "We have taken a half hour of his time and he has taken a half hour of our time."

Mel LaPlace said his feelings were that the professor of Semantics, spec to the leaders of the

But Dr. Goodlett put it where it's at. 'Hayakawa has created an impossible void - he no longer

She told BARB, "A few nights ago, there was a fire in the next yard and we suspect the pigs tried to throw something incendiary into our yard and missed."

The Hilliards would like to find a decent place to live in North Oakland, Berkeley (away from the pig station) or Emeryville.

To rent an apartment to a Black Panther is a radical political act, the pigs won't like you and they might not like your property. If that doesn't get your digestion works and you know of a place uptight and you know of a place available, contact David Hilliard at the Black Panther National Headquarters in Berkeley.

The Walker report on Chicago is liberal pluralistic jive.
It sees a variety of competing elements as responsible for the violence that took place during the Democratic National Convention. It sounds like a description of the mythic checks and balances that control the American economy.

The pigs and Mayor Daley were responsible for the violence. If they had given us a permit to sleep in Lincoln Park and to hold a march there would have been no violence.

Cursing out the pigs was a form of verbal self defense. The only time it happened was when the cops leaned on us with their clubs and tear gas.

tear gas. You can't equate a stiff finger directed at a pig with a stiff billy club breaking open someone's head.

I think the whole thing might be a set up. If the Federal government comes down with indictments against the Yippies and the National Mobilization, they can make it all seem democratic by busting a few pigs to show they're against violence on both sides.

This report was put together by liberals, and they must be proud of their work. They have disassociated themselves from the fat ugly police that made Walter Cronkite cry over National Television, without in any way identifying themselves with the bloody anarchists of the streets.

We should not think that we have found new allies. Instead, our Prosecutor has been provided with a liberal cover. He must be a very grateful man.

"We are working on establishing a harassment pattern," he said, "This law is often applied to minority youths who haven't done anything wrong. They are detained in Juvenile Court, finger-

Section 601 was originally de-signed to keep youths from lead-ing "idle, dissolute or lewd life." But it does just the opposite for it gives juveniles criminal re-cords.

suspected of placing a poster on a utility pole.

How this simple offense escalated into the police violence which

This writer was busted Monday when he got in the way of a Tac Squad charge at State. Although I've been a writer/photographer for the BARB and other publicafor the BARB and other publica-tions for a year, the sadism, hate, and viciousness of the members of the Tac Squad is still almost inconceivable to me, even after being their personal victim.

I was clubbed on the head from

I was clubbed on the head from behind while trying to photograph an arrest sequence about 3 p.m. It sounded like I was hit on the head with a cast iron frying pan. I fell to the ground as half a dozen cops quite literally began beating the piss out of me with their clubs. I regained consciousness only to be smashed by another club in the head producing a three-inch gash, and still another in the neck which again revived me. I opened my eyes just in time to see a club come down twice on my camera.

Then a few extra licks for good

On the way, they made us stand hand-cuffed, and got their rocks off by kicking us in the shins, kneeing us in the balls, and spearing us in the backs, ass, and crotch with their clubs.

"Let's get them all down on the floor and piss on them," another intoned, smiling.

When we reached the command post, I learned that the Tac Squad were liars besides being sick animals who need restal core. They mals who need mental care. They dragged me out of the van, pro-duced, as if by magic, half a brick, held it in front of me and took another picture in view of the riot last year, had signed the complaint. A VERY bad joke.

Tuesday, both Mayor Alioto and Royce Briar, the Chronicle philosopher, ran to the defense of the Tac Squad. Mr. Briar complained that the Chicago police had given police across the country a bad name because of their excessive use of force. Citing the Walker Report, Mr. Briar implies that Chicago is an isolated city in this nation with political corruption the cause of overkill tactics there last August at the Demo Convention. I suggest that Mr. Briar is either blind, a fool, or both. He certainly doesn't spend his afternoons at SF State or any of the other so-called "riots."

Mayor Alioto weakly defended his police force by saying that he was "sick and tired" of the police brutality charges.

Prof Hayakawa was held a virtual prisoner by his own 'security' force. They would not let him out of his office after his wire-tearing spree.

What the police were after, later in the afternoon, was the successful tactic of the student-strikers in moving about the campus OUTSIDE the buildings where classes were still being held and banging on the walls and windows of the classrooms.

Earlier, the administration played loud music over THEIR loudspeakers to drown out the dissidents, but to no avail. When the strikers found Hayakawa was not going to come to them after the rally, they went to him.

Holding a mass meeting on the steps on the Ad Building, English instructor George Murray, a Black Panther leader, brought it all together by stating, "Let's put these motherfuckers up against the wall - let's go in and see Hayakawa."

A National GI-Civilian Antiwar Action Conference has been called for Chicago on December 28th. This conference is part of a week-end series of meetings between GIs and civilians to plan joint projects National GI-Civilian Antiwar and civilians to plan joint projects and call a mass antiwar action in the spring.

The call for the conference was initiated by the Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (SMC) and has already been endorsed by 10 active duty GI and veteran peace organizations and 6 GI antiwar newspapers.

"GIs have the legal right to oppose a war they are being forced to fight and which is not in their interest and in which they do not believe," Howard Petrick staff member of SMC says. "We support their legal right to free speech and urge them to join us in massive antiwar protests."

A GI Teach-in will be held the evening before the conference on December 27 to discuss the history and nature of the Vietnam war and the civil liberities of GIs and what forms of protest activities they may legally participate in. A major portion of the program will be an open mike for servicement to express their opinions.

Twenty-one of the course ideas came from the Center for Participant Education (CPE), the group which originated the controversial Cleaver Social Analysis 139X course this quarter.

According to spokesman Rick Brown, the CPE submitted their program ideas to the BED as outlined by the procedure followed in past years. This year, because of the Cleaver scandal, they met with a solid wall of resistance from the credit-supplying BED body.

a course proposal there are no channels for reconsideration or appeal. Brown said, however, that there was a chance that the Committee on Courses could consider granting credit to some of the student-initiated courses if they were resubmitted through departmental offices. He said they were investigating the possibilities but that it was already very late.

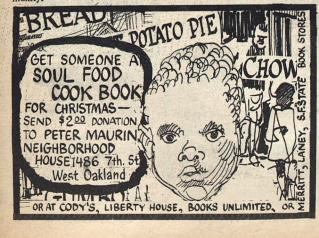

According to the Daily Cal, BED Chairman John Kelley admitted that his group was "in some respects yielding to external pressures generated by this quarter's furor over Social Analysis 139X."

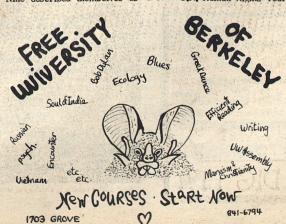

Kelley also said that it was impossible to give each proposed course the amount of attention necessary for approval, the student paper reported.

Six of seven courses suggested by the CPE were immediately approved last quarter prior to the Cleaver ordeal.

Brown said that a S.A. 139X-B was not suggested by the committee because one of its principal participants would probably not be available.

BUFF NOT BLUFFED

by Ellen Mendicino
Coogan's Bluff is incredible.
Now playing at the United Artists and other theaters in the East Bay, it is the kind of film Ronald Reagan would enjoy after a hard day of smashing up higher education, farm workers and the mentally ill on the evenings when he's too tired to play with his electric train.
This film is where it's at, baby:
a lovely allegory for middle aged fascists. A yummy bedtime story for Mayor Daley and the nice ladies from Richmond.
Clint Eastwood is Coogan, a Deputy Sheriff from Piute County,

Clint Eastwoodis Coogan, a Deputy Sheriff from Piute County, Arizona who travels to New York in order to bring back an escaped prisoner. Eastwood moves slowly like a bull with tired legs. He speaks in a self-righteous monotone from his lower abdomen with his face frozen in a dry grin reminiscent of Dick Nixon's Checkers speech back in the early fifties.

This is the most blatantly racist film I have ever seen, It opens with Coogan barreling a jeep through the Arizona desert hunting down an American Indian. Coogan and the Indian have a brief shoot out. Coogan wins; slugs the Indian in the stomach and stands grinning over him as he writhes in pain in the Arizona dirt.

He humiliates the Indian in a number of ways: by sneering "Put your pants on, Chief"; by refusing to give him a cigarette (a favor he grants his white prisoner at the end of the film) and by tying him up to his married lover's front porch while they make love in the bath tub. This is the most blatantly ra-bath tub.

There isn't any reason for this

There isn't any reason for this brutal Indian scene, It's totally unrelated to the rest of the story unless it was deliberately put there for an added touch of racism.

Later on in a New York police station a cop says to a Puerto Rican woman: "Look lady, why don't you just divorce the bum." And she responds in broken English: "I can't officer, we're not married." (A sock it to'em moral for the Yes on Proposition 14 crowd.)

Near the end of the film, Coogan threatens a couple of Black men with the jagged edge of a broken bottle because they insist on calling him "Charlie" instead of Coogan.

bottle because they insist on calling him "Charlle" instead of Coogan, Needless to say the Blacks are carrying switchblades.

Lee J. Cobb plays McElroy a New York Police Heutenent who is made out to be an exasperated nitwit because he keeps reminding Coogan of silly dumb things like the rights of the accused and due process of law. McElroy is the straight man in this obscene comedy. He feeds Coogan juicy lines and comments about the sissy old Supreme Court and what the Hell you've got to apply for extradition and Look Buster a doctor has to sign the bastard out of Bellvue.

Coogan, the simplistic simon pure upholder of rugged Goldwater individualism can't understand it. So he impersonates a New York cop to get Ringerman (the prisoner), played well by Don Stroud, out of Bellevue Hospital. (God, what some people will do in the name of law and order.)

The credits list several writers

people will do in the name of law and order.)

The credits list several writers including Howard Rodman but they're not kidding me. I know George Wallace helped write it. Some of the lines spoken by Coogan in this Big Message movie are: "Pity? What color is Pity? Pity is red. The color of an Arizona Sheriff's blood spilled out all over a bus station floor because he had a bus station floor because he had Pity for a crminal and let him say goodbye to his wife who slipped him a six inch knife and got it in his gut." (Get the message?)

nis gut." (Get the message?)
Finally, Coogan gets his man after a groovy motorcycle chase (the best part of the film, lots of action) and then the really big swat at the Criminal Coddlers and the biggest boon yet for the Support Your Local Police boys. Coogan, the big two fisted, virile Sheriff from Arizona makes a citizen's arrest. Because it's easier than going through all that commie legal red tape.

going through all that commie legal red tape.
Coogan's Bluff was produced and directed by Donald Siegal. What's next, Don? The life story of J. Edgar Hoover, perhaps?

PELVIS STILL SWINGS

In a week dominated by the figure of Herr Hayakawa, the Establishment's media monkey, it was a pleasant diversion to flick on the tube and watch Elvis, yes, Elvis Presley, do his thing.

He had an hour long special all to himself, his first TV appearance in eight years.

Yeah, remember? - years ago, the ferocious dollar-swinging battle between Eddie "Lockjaw" Sullivan and Steve Allen, to see who could sign Elvis first. And then we got to see him - from the waist up. Couldn't see any lower 'cause there was something vulgar going on down there. The way he moved his hips or something. Guess what? - he still does.

I watched, wondering what his scene would be. Would it be Elvis the hippy, hopping onto the rock n' roll revival, taking advantage of the Beatle's imitation in "Yer Blues"?

No, it's still Elvis, the same bit. They even hired these thirty-year old powder-faced chicks with fancy hairdos to scream and cry once in a while. It was amazing, the same ol' bit. He almost entirely neglected the fact that this is 1968.

Still, parts of the show were a real treat. Like the mock "live" sequences. Sitting around with some Memphis musicians, he began a song, then stopped suddenly, complaining that he couldn't sing 'cause' he had something on his lip. Yeah, hints of Brando in One-Eyed Jacks.

And shiny leather pants. And that same sexy condescending smile. He still thinks he's the King.

But some of his older shit really is potent, like Jailhouse Rock,

And shiny leather pants. And that same saxy condescending sinite. He still thinks he's the King.

But some of his older shit really is potent, like Jailhouse Rock, Heartbreak Hotel, Houn' Dog. Maybe he could have been King. But Elvis once had a choice to make. He could have been a great singer, much greater than he was. But Colonel Sanders or whatever his name is, winked and offered Elvis millions of dollars. So the Memphis boy winked right back and very consciously sold out. I'd like to have to make that choice. — K.L.

SOCIAL COMMENT:

Our society is so furtive and mid-Victorian about sensuality and sexuality, that anything connected with them, such as pregnancy, immediately becomes impossible to deal with on an open social level. Embarrassed, infantile loss of control is the usual response, or perhaps the usual scene of the woman being rejected by her family at the doorstep is just as frequent. The result is that the women of America end up wandering the Streets of Mexico and the U.S. looking for someone to help them, if the price is right, so they won't have to face the wrath and indignation of their "friends, loved ones, and society." I have flown to many places with a female gynecologist from the Bay area. We posed as a couple in need of help and contacted as many "doctors" as possible in order to see their facilities and techniques. We saw many young girls with their mothers and boyfriends, and older women, wives and daughters of "prominent and successful" members of American communities taking risks of tragic proportions. They have to do this because we in this country, who help castrate men in India by bribing them with transistor radios, can't allow a woman the privacy and control of her own body.

State legislation in the area of legalized abortion Our society is so furtive and mid-Victorian about own body.

ate legislation in the area of legalized abortion is degrading to the woman in need of help. Not only must she submit to the cross-examination of two psychiatrists and a hospital board, but she must sign a standard form which reads in part as follows: as follows:

"...the undersigned hereby authorizes the doctor and the hospital to release and disclose any or all information contained in the patient's medi-cal record to the state department of public health, the district attorney of the county in which the pregnancy resulted, and any other instrumentality government required by law to receive such information.'

information."

I have yet to see an unborn child suffer on this earth but ten thousand of us starve to death each day. Perhaps after we are able to grant the right of survival to all viable post-natal human beings we will be able to afford the luxury of granting metaphysical and legal considerations to the fetus and perhaps even sperms and ovums. Perhaps man should create new life as an act of will and not one of chance.

PRACTICAL COMMENT:

If you are pregnant there are many considerations which should be made. Perhaps the following suggestions will be of assistance:

1.) If you are a teenage girl under the age of 18, you become, in the eyes of California Law, an adult the moment you become pregnant. You are then able to sign for, as an adult, any standard medical services you feel you need and this includes a therapeutic abortion. You may do this without any obligation to inform or involve your parents no matter how vigorously people insist that you should tell them.

Normal tell them.

Very few girls who believe that their parents won't understand or help, find themselves to be quite mistaken. Most of the time the won't understand or help, find themselves to be quite mistaken. Most of the time the resources of help and understanding are available, but the lines of trust along which these resources flow are in need of reestablishment.

3. Any girl 14 and above not living with her parents and declaring herself an emancipated minor is entitled to consideration as an adult according to California Iaw and may obtain any medical help she needs.

4.) If you are told of any doctor in the bay area who promises a miscarriage by the use of who promises a miscarriage by the use of pills or shots don't fall for it. These medications are effective for the induction of a late period only and not for miscarriage. If you are told that someone was successful with this method, see if you can find out whether she had previously had a competent, positive, medical test for pregnancy. The answer will probably be no, meaning she was most probably just late and not actually pregnant. Be very careful in the use of mimeographed lists of doctors who perform abortions. These lists are sometimes sold for as much as twenty dollars and might give very dangerous and antiquated information. There have been many girls who have called my office having just returned to the bay area after spending large sums on plane fares, wandering the streets of Mexico, and having close calls or trouble with the Mexican police. They did this in hopes of calling one of the numbers listed and obtaining help only to be turned away.

listed and obtaining help only to be turned away.

AGAIN, BE CAREFUL OF MIMEOGRAPHED LISTS, THEY OFTEN LEAD TO TROUBLE!

6.) Abortion is illegal in Mexico, therefore the utmost care should be exercised.

7.) Abortion is very illegal and dangerous in the United States. Records show that from two to three hundred women died in the U.S. last year as a result of botched abortions and thirty of these were in California.

8.) Fifty percent of the maternal deaths in this country result from poor abortions.

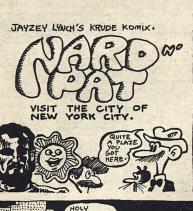

9.) A medically competent abortion is three times as safe as gestation and childbirth.

10. If you obtain an abortion of any kind, see a local doctor immediately. Most doctors will respect your privacy and needs for postabortion care.

LION'S SHARE STOMP

Friends of Sausalito's Lion's Share, the Marin County folk funkhouse that was destroyed by fire several weeks ago, can spend this Sunday afternoon stompin and hootin in the Fairfax Pavilion. The occasion will be the second "Phoenix Benefit" for the Share to rise out of the ashes and into a new location.

According to a Share friend the first such hoedown was a grand success, and a repeat could mean a new Share in the very near future.

This means the presents for the children of the grape strikers must arrive early in Delano to be sorted, wrapped, and delivered across the country.

United Farmworkers headquarters also reported this week that picket line operations are continuing at Lucky's stores in Berkeley and Oakland. Operations leader Pete Velasco said that he checks the grapes in the stores every morning, and "they are rotting in the stands".

In other words, nobody's buying.

LEACUES UNDER THE SEA? How many billions of kilowatts do you send to Las Vegas Hoover Dam? Ninety six men died building Hoover Dam the guide tells us.

You should have a guide whereever you go, a good one. My guide to Las Vegas was superior because he won forty bucks at blackjack (also known as pontoon), and most because the very first thing he told me was "Las Vegas is the best argument I ever saw for a revolution". Spoken like a good guide.

Last night coming down over the bay, I usually come down by the

Last night coming down over the bay, I usually come down by the bay, in the DC 8 or 9 or whatever, amidst the barf smell and the hilarity of it all, I read Timothy Leary on his first acid trip. I thought in the dim cabin, what did I think then? Did I think of the oxygen mask ready to pop out if I needed it, or the happy faces of my fellow passengers? Undoubtedly they had all been Vegassed.

Man, what are you capable of, the slot machine and the DC8 (or 9)? And Hoover dam, which puts forth a zillion killowatts of energy from the waters of Lake Mead, a lake 115 miles long, a lake that was put there just thirty years ago.

You have no doubt heard tell of the old ladies playing the slot machines into all hours of the night, machines into all hours of the night, well it is true only many of them play two or three at once. They play because it seems absurdly simple to win, they play because it gives them an old ladies' erection, they play because it makes them forget they are old ladies, they play because they have a lot of nickels,.

These old ladies who would think

They wouldn't want to hurt his feelings.
When I entered the Lido Revue (direct from Paris-Paris N.J., that is) the man who took my ticket said behind my back "Now my day is ruined."

I must admit that I was happy to have ruined this schmuck's day, because if my beard and hair brought him down just half as much as he and his kind brought me down, then I would call that sweet revenge, but revenge has no kicks.

down, then I would call that sweet revenge, but revenge has no kicks.

And I was so careful to look especially incongruous in my moth ball blue suit, a handsome sight if ever there was one to behold, with my vest and custom-made shirt, with my Clark Gable collar, chick in the sarcophogus of her makeup kisses his big diamond rings, and you know he's not so fat that he would be called to work as the fat man in the circus in the people's socialist state, you know he's not blind, he's just fat.

She gets up and walks away and he picks his nose with his thumbs, and his retinue long used to these shenanigans look on without a trace of wonder never betraying awe, They wouldn't want to hurt his feelings.

beauty is in the eye of the beauty is in the eye of the beauty my presence, so be it.

All they can talk about, when they aren't gambling or taking in Sinatra Sr. (the world is out he's getting $100,000 a week for this stint, and any man who is worth $100,000 a week had better be seen to be believed) they are discussing the Market. Death companies are for them, but better they like slot machine securities, nickel and dime stocks so I call them.

And when they aren't mulling over the Dow Jones, they are comparing everything to Miami, which is an apt comparison. The architecture here, and on the Costa Del Sol, and at all resorts the world over is Miami Modern, which was dated in the forties.

Back before the Problem of Evil became an In topic in intellectual circles, Alfred Jarry apparently just accepted evil as part of reality, put it down on paper like it is, and showed that even evil can have its comic side.

If the main protagonists of the

If the main protagonists of the play were to be regarded as human characters, the plot would be basically this:

Papa Ubu, a loval mercenary Papa Ubu, a loyal mercenary in the service of the king of Poland, is egged on by his wife to kill the king and usurp the throne (an obvious crib from Macbeth). Once successful in this, the dark side of his nature breaks loose, and he institutes a reign of horror until defeated and dethroned.

But don't make the mistake of regarding them as rounded human characters.

But don't make the mistake of regarding them as rounded human characters.

Papa Ubu is sheer, uncut, glacial human evil. He is the distilled essence of what we humans are capable of; a one-man Nazidom. Ken Grantham handles the role close to perfection; and his deadwhite getup (like a really abominable snowman) underlines, in a way that conventional black would not, the iciness of real evil.

By contrast, Mama Ubu, "hardily full unsweet" (Charles Goldman is tremendous in the role) stands as forgivable human imperfection. She can steal the treasure, but not all the finance in the land. She can kill the king, so that she can be queen, but she couldn't kill everybody. Her husband's atrocities turn her see why she shouldn't get something for herself out of the mess. We get into human characterization with Captain Bordure (the Falstaffian Kerrigan Prescott). Bwtween Mama Ubu's charms.

Falstaffian Kerrigan Prescott). Bwtween Mama Ubu's charms, Papa Ubu's promise of nobility, and his own hatred for the king, and his own hatred for the king, he is enticed into the murder plot; only to find himself the helpless servant of evil, and then its victim. He could be you or me. As to other players: Bob Hirschfeld makes a fine comic Bougrelas. Bob Gardner, among other roles, comes on strong as a magnificently decadent Czar Alexander. Charles Ingrassi is equally good as the queen and the horrifying Disembraining Machine. The protean Steve Brown shifts smoothly from role to role, king to peasant. Charles West, Rick Grould and Henri Piscioti are good to peasant. Charles West, Rick Grould and Henri Piscioti are good

The famous element of vulgarity in the play is strongly brought out, but it would be hard to imagine anyone objecting. It is less a matter of mere coarseness than againe anyone objecting. The sample and the reference of mere coarseness than of stripping evil of any pretense to dignity. Papa Ubu letting a fart is funny; Papa Ubu licking blood off a weapon is not. After you've watched him pace the stage toruring rubber dolls, you'll find that a good forthright "Shit" clears the atmosphere.

The production involves cuts in the original text, and also additions, that may but purists. But there's no denying that director John Lion has done a notable job of making coherent and convincing a difficult play in which archetypes walk the hoards along with humans.

One night, J Marks and Shipen Lebzelter were meditating over a page from the Papyrus of Ani, when they disappeared in a silent, emerald flash. They awoke in a solar boat where Karlheinz Stockhausen sat at the tiller, dreaming. His dream filled the sail and the boat moved through drifting star clusters of music. Brass choirs chanted, electric choruses exploded, shining freaks played glittering instruments, sonic vibrations double-crossed and tripled-back, razor-thin rushes dissolved into fragments of speech and a bunch of very famous rock stars spoke of many things. A millennium or so later, J Marks and Shipen Lebzelter cleared the smoke from their ears and leaned back. "I'm sure glad we had the tape recorders with us,"

They were just starting to make it with boys and went to the college dispensary with a whole lot of vaginal complaints-trichomonas, fungus infections and strange discharges that didn't seem to have a name."

"I'll never forget my first gynecologic examination. Iwas really scared. Getting undressed wasn't so bad. Then I lay down on the examining table and the nurse put my feet in those metal things, what are they called?"

"Stirrups. They're to holdyour legs up, apart and steady so the doctor can see everything he has to see."

"One of my girlfriends said she was examined by a doctor who didn't have a nurse in the room. I thought that was a law."

"There's no such law. The nurse is there to hand instruments to the doctor and also to protect him from the possibility or a rape charge. Some patients are a little nutty when they have to have pelvic examinations."

"So, there's no such law?"

"No. And I think some women would be more comfortalbe if only the doctor were there, though, of course, others feel better if a nurse is in the room. Doctors are considered good targets by some predatory patients and lawyers who sidered good targets by some pred-atory patients and lawyers who know they are forced to carry malpractice insurance in large

"First, he seemed to be exam-ining the outside of me. What was he doing?"

"He was examining the entrance

"He was examining the entrance to the vagina, the Bartholin glands which secrete lubricating fluid, the urethra and the clitoris.
"Then he used one of those instruments that are always so COLD!"

"That was a speculum. They're made of stainless stell and look something like a duck's bill. Many doctors try to warm them before use so they're less uncomfortable."

"What's it used for?"

"What's it used for?"
"With a speculum a doctor can see the inside of the vagina, including the cervix. First he lubricates the two rounded blades of the speculum so it's easier to in-sert. After it's in the vagina, he can spread the blades by push-ing a lever. If there's a discharge, he'll note the color and odor and can take part of it for laboratory examination. Usually he'll do a Pap smear too."

"A Pap smear is a cancer test isn't it?"

"Yyun Thoma's always."

A rap smear is a cancer test isn't it?"

"Yup. There's always some discharge even in the healthy vagina. Some of this mucus as well as a smear of the cervis is taken for microscopic examination. Very early cancer can first be picked up by examination of cells which have been sloughed from the cancerous tissue."

She shuddered, "I don't think I want any more Pap smears. Ir'd be horrible to find out I had cancer."

"Well, they have to be sterilized for one thing. And I think that even if they were body soft (or hard) there would still be complaints of pain because many women are literally up-tight during a gynecologic exam. Plastic spec-ulae are available. That would solve the cold problem but they break easily and can be used only once so they're comparatively expensive.
