All of the above headlines were taken from the press and TV during the past five days (those without quotes made up by Sgt Pepper). Nothing much is kept from us, but, man, you sure got to dig it out!

Now, to anti-fan mail ...

If Sgt Pepper doesn't get blasted for being "pro-black," he gets static for being "anti-Jewish."
Take this letter (excerpts) from Martin Abramson, 3800 Fair Oaks ave., Menlo Park, Ca.

"Go ahead. Jump on the anti-Israel bandwagon. All the Blacks are doing it ... let's strip Israel of all her defenses. Let's tell the Arabs to 'go get 'em' ... if you can't support American Blacks without being their ideological puppets, I suggest you drop your air of righteousness and admit that you just want to be where the power is."

Where the power is (in the Mideast) is where the oil is. If Israel had oil and the Arabs had sand, Israel would be on top.

The US is not about to lose its oil to the Russians, so, Israel is fucked.

Abramson - wake up! Who "stripped Israel of all her defenses"? Your General Dayan. He turned the whole world against Israel, losing his helicopters as well.

Suggestion: Israel better find some oil - quick!

An unsigned letter came in. It consisted entirely of a clipping from the SF Examiner's story
"Arabs Create 'Schools of Hate' for Young."

The clipping ends "Israeli intelligence sources are positive that many of the Arab texts are the work of former Nazis now living in Arab countries" and the unsigned letter-writer typed in the following comment, "and in Berkeley, Calif."

Okay - what this person ignores is history: the whites in the American south say the blacks
"Create Schools of Hate Against Whites." Look - how much 'education' does a black need to know where it's at? And it sure as hell doesn't take much 'education' for an Arab to find out where it's at, either.

Ironic proof of this just came to light last week. On the picket line at UC a black was handing out an unsigned leaflet consisting ENTIRELY of a reproduction of a SF Chronicle news story of Israelis firing on (and killing) Arab women protesters.

No comment was made because non was needed. However, for the record: the Israeli government has apologized to the Arab people in this village (after this leaflet) and has promised "an investigation."

This apology proves the black leaflet was right in the first place.

A letter from Marvin Emery Collins, a student at Contra Costa College and a writer for its paper. He feels that Sgt Pepper's comments on police wearing no badges was in error.

"Do they not wear badges because they are afraid someone might be scratched while being arrested for their own good, or because it takes too much time to state a badge number while carting people off to jail?" he asks.

Oh, my God!
Collins also refers to the fact that "Dubcek curbed the secret police" by making them wear badges. Okay - my point seems to be lost on this student, i.e., the
NOT wearing of badges creates a SECRET POLICE. What's his point?

Keep those cards and letters coming in folks!

This week, 15 more Jews are being tried as "spies" in Iraq.
This follows the mass public hanging of 14 "spies" (including 9 Jews).

Here is another example of paranoia leading to a tactical error.

THINK BEAUTY

by Ellen Mendicino

Timothy Leary said to think about beauty.

When we say "Oh God, it's beautiful" we are talking about something that is ephemeral -- a flower, a fleeting expression on a human face, passion, a profoundly unselfish act, snow falling under a city street light. All of these things are short lived reminding us, subconsciously perhaps, of our own mortality.

Beauty is sadness then -- an exquisite compassion for all living things -- an atavistic flash across the mind reminding us of our early beginnings in the raging, warm sea and simultaneously reminding us of our own inevitable end. This juxtapositioning of our own beginnings and ending combined with the understanding that a particular flower, an immediate winter sky, a certain feeling of passion will never in the whole of our existence be exactly duplicated is where joy and sadness come together in beauty.

Coupled with the ephemeral nature of beauty is a vital tension created by the knowledge that the moment is going to end. That is why beautiful things, like sex, are partially destroyed by too much analysis. Would you rather hear a meteorologist analyze a sunset or hear a poet describe it to you?
The meteorologist destroys the tension with his analysis. The poet uses the tension creatively by carving words out of it.

Beauty is an emotion. It's how you feel about what you see or hear. Beauty is not in the eye of the beholder; it's in his soul.
We need innocence to appreciate beauty. Society, formal education and institutions corrupt our inno-

Just as Gen Dayan lost the world the world over its mass hysteria

SSOC IT TO THEM

The Southern Student Organizing Committee held a special demonstration before the Washington Pre-Inaugural March to make its voice heard throughout the nation.

What SSOC wants America to know is there is a group of southerners who are concerned about the South's problems and are trying to do something about them.
The group was formed over four years ago and represents all southern states.

SSOC believes in the "right of each individual to participate in those social, economic, and political areas which directly influence his life."

White Southern students who could no longer stand by and watch such demonstrations and denial of basic human rights as was done in Birmingham in 1963 founded SSOC.

These Southern youth say the problems of the South today in terms of racial inequality, poverty and injustice are caused by the southern socio-political structure that presently exists.

However because the South is behind the North and urban areas in terms of civil rights they feel they have a unique chance to make radical change unlike other areas.
The South if it will change can become a leader for the nation instead of a follower, they feel.

At this point SSOC believes it can educate its fellow southerners best. "What redneck would listen to a Northern radical or 'nigger' tell him how to change his country," asks a SSOC mobilizer.

ceive beauty through their innocence. William Butler Yeats had Crazy Jane; Dostoyevsky used Prince Myshkin in The Idiot; Melville wrote Billy Budd. A physicist can frequently bring more beauty to a poem than a Phd in English Lit. because he is more innocent around words.

This is why the more technical we become as a society the more we will use drugs in an attempt to perceive beauty by rediscovering our universal innocence. This is also the subconscious thrust behind the space program.

Beauty is sadness and joy. It needs innocence in order to be appreciated. It contains the seeds of life and the hell of death. It creates tension and cannot be analyzed. And that's why it's dumb to be writing about it.

STUDENT MASSES WIN

SCABBING DONE THE LIBERAL WAY

by Phineas Israeli

The Great Liberal Fog still smothered Berkeley on Monday. The Third World strike was in its fourth day, but the stumbling mass of students marched to the beat of a racist drum.

They scabbed, like Heyns told them to. They scabbed, like Reagan told them to. They scabbed, like their parents told them to.

Scene 1: A dyke looking student walks up to a white chick who's leafletting. The white dyke folds her arms militantly and asks: Are those leaflets in favor of the strike?

Yes, of course, the striker/leaflet replies.

Splat! Dyke spits in striker's face.

Scene 2: A white male student checks out an outline for a black studies department and asks his friend, How could there be enough Black Poetry to fill up an entire course?

Scene 3: A noted radical pro-

BOOOOM!

For all the 'uninvolved' who feel that the Third World strike at Cal does not affect them, Don Davis of the Third World Liberation Front had this to say on Wednesday morning:

"You're sitting on a keg of dynamite, and not only is it going to affect you, it's gonna blow your motherfuckin' head off."

Professor lectures a strike Convocation on the justice of the Third World demands and why every student should support the strike. Last Wednesday, on the first day of the strike, the noted radical professor held class.

Scene 4: A notebook-laden jock hassles with a couple of black students in front of Sather Gate picket line. The jock accuses the Afro-American Student Union of bluffing an effective strike. No more bluffs, he pleads.

Scenario for the Fog: 'You say you want a revolution - well, you know, we all want to change the world.' But we're all just to the right of action.

But even on Monday it was clear that the Third World Liberation Front may yet blow the Honky Fog out of the Berkeley atmosphere.

"We've just played a pair of deuces," a TWLF spokesman told BARB. "We've got a lot of high cards we haven't yet turned over."

Two representatives of the Front had a long rap with BARB on Monday. They asked not to be identified by name because of "all the harassment we've been getting from the pigs." Like threatening phone calls and similar shit.

The TWLF leaders were impressive in their sense of unity. There are no black demands anymore, no Chicano demands or Asian-American demands. There are only Third World demands, the fight is for a Third World college.

"We say the diploma is perfectly irrelevant unless it addresses itself to solving the problems of our community."

A heavy part of Third World problems in this country a leader explained, is that "of the pigs being an extension of this University."

Germ warfare research is being conducted in the chemistry department, he charged. Its purpose is riot control. "Who participates in the riots" he asked in a tone that barely masked a flash of pain and bitterness.

"Many professors are here to earn their livelihood off our problems," he went on, referring to all the shit that's handed out about how the University is helping solve the so-called Urban Crisis.

"The University is concerned with researching and analyzing the problems in black ghettos, Chicano barrios and Chinatown, and ends its involvement at that level."

The Third World College will not end at that level. The College's professors "will be responsible to the Third World community." Its students will be "participating fully in the community."

But first, he emphasized, "To be relevant we must have the power to determine our own destinies."

"Minority people should not have to go to non-Third World people to beg to stay in school."

The Front's representative described how, when he first came to Cal, he was told by the white faculty and administrators, "You

3:00 PM THURSDAY—(as phoned in by Phineas Israeli)

'The plaza is ours.'

'Sather Gate is closed. Sproul Hall is closed.'

'Where are the people? On Strike!'

Thousands of marching, charging students claimed UC Berkeley for the people Thursday afternoon.

An overwhelming show of student strength and solidarity turned back a pig invasion of the campus.

The Third World Liberation Front, joined by masses of white students, took a giant step today towards shutting Cal down.

Student Revolution rides again at Berkeley, not with a whimper but with a BANG.

Before 2 this afternoon a mass of over 2000 strikers blocked Sather Gate. Badgeless pigs, completely disoriented faced them and floundered. The mass wove around and finally took over Sproul Plaza as equal masses of students pondered joining them.

Minutes before noon the picket line made their stand, blocking off the main entrance to the campus, as well as Sather Gate.

Several hundred strong, for an hour they waited for the pigs to come. Heyns began to look like a colossal asshole. Yesterday he called the pigs to break up non-disruptive picket lines; today he's afraid to move.

At 5 minutes to one, the pigs came. Nearly a hundred of them moved out from behind Sproul Hall to seize Sather Gate and the center of campus. Paranoia began to spread that they would make a sweep.

One black student, Jim Nabors, was busted at the gate.

The strikers called Heyns' bluff.

A new march line was formed in lower Sproul Hall Plaza. Within minutes of the pigs' arrival the march came down Bancroft, across the front of the campus.

Yesterday's marchers were fifteen hundred strong. Today there were thousands. The endless beautiful throng began its vibrant snake dance through the campus.

Around the back of Sproul Hall, through Barrow, a feint into Sproul, then on through Sather Gate.

By 5 minutes after one the pigs had scurried to their bunkers, hopelessly outnumbered by the people.

On the march went, in unbelievable numbers, throughout the campus the Third World strike roamed, shouting its soulful message: 'On Strike, shut it down.'

'On strike, join the people.'

After ranging through the entire campus, the thousands circled Sproul Plaza and called it their own.

"It's just beautiful," one student exclaimed. Faces of many colors shined jubilant and proud; no one is alone any more.

Later the strikers went into Pauley Ballroom to rap about where they were at. "Free Jim Nabors!" they chanted as they marched in.

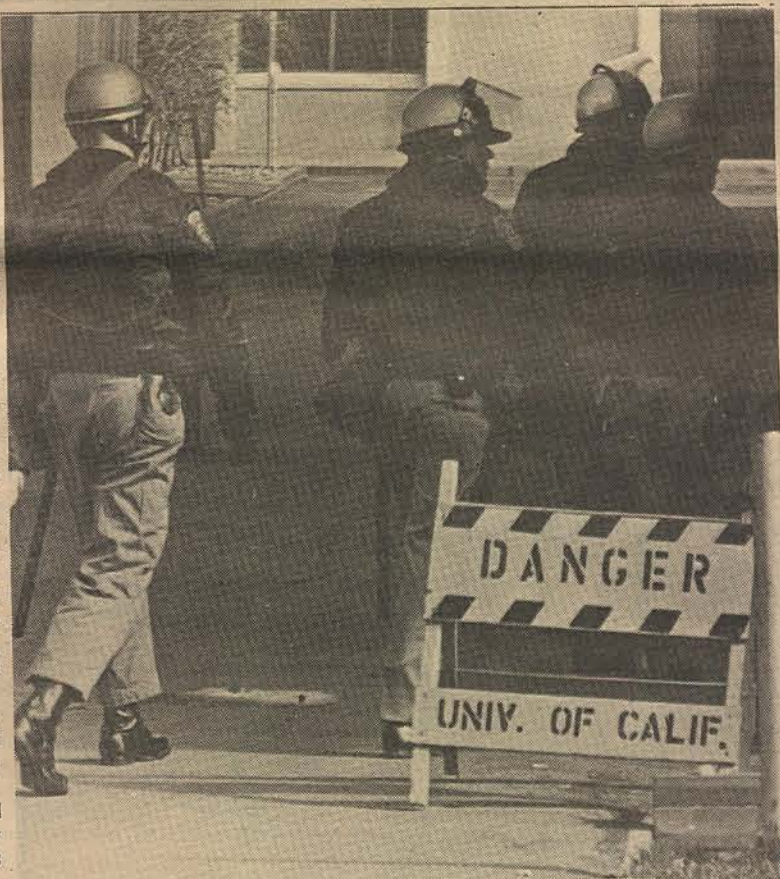

Strike leaders stressed discipline and avoiding casualties and useless fighting with the cops.

While the strikers were meeting, the pigs again did their occupation bit around Sather Gate. Crowds of taunting students not involved in the strike meeting escorted the pigs away. Another bust was made.

They said the strike could never build. Today one chick smiled and said, "The strike has solided."

AFT 1570 SORT OF SUPPORTS

by Jerry Popkin

Berkeley's TA union, AFT 1570, took every action except an official strike to support the TWLF student strike this week.

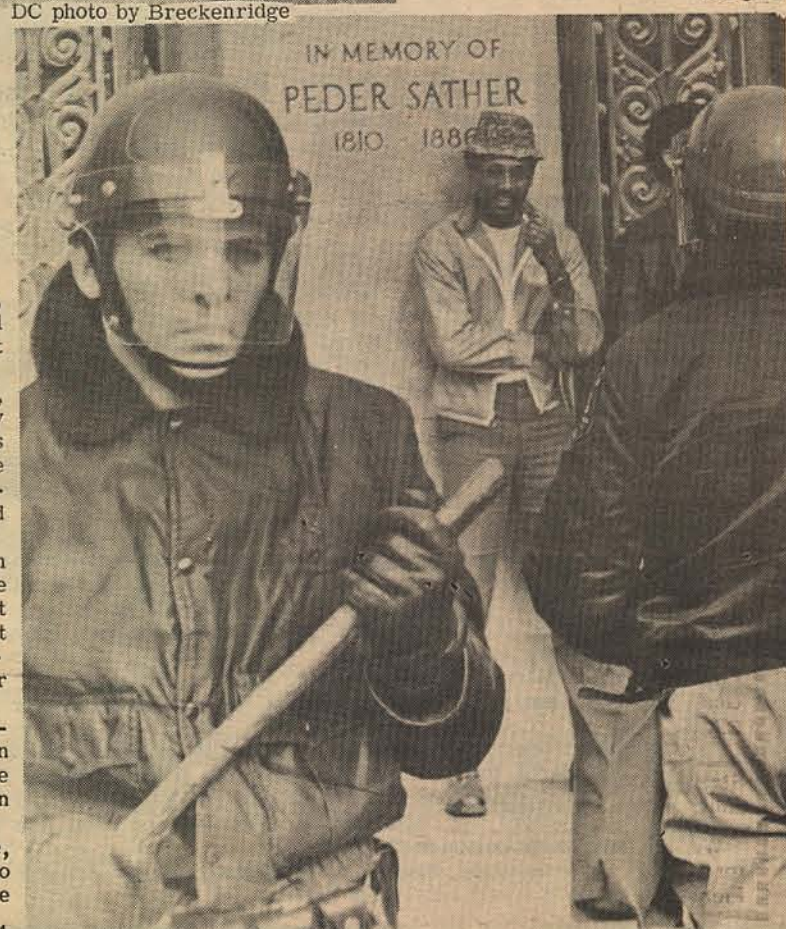

At strike meeting, Monday night, a motion to strike was defeated by a narrow margin. The vote was 98 in favor, 68 opposed. A strike motion requires a two-thirds majority. A switch of two votes would have made the difference.

Union president Conn Hallinan said afterward, "We accept the decision of the members." But it was no secret that many people at the meeting were bitterly disappointed by the failure to vote for strike.

Also disappointed were members of the Third World Liberation Front, who listened through the door to the closed meeting in Pauley Ballroom.

In support of the student strike, AFT 1570 asked all members to hold classes off campus for the

"Say Nothing And Carry A Big Stick"--Daily Cal on Heyns

While lawyers argue, judges ponder, and professors discuss blacks act. Thus, there will be more items for lawyers to argue, judges to ponder, and professors to discuss. For it is the black students on strike all over America that is giving something to the revolution it never had before in these here United States - soul. So - goodbye Karl Marx, hello brother! The total absence of the word "communist" is a political phenomena in itself. Instead, we keep reading about "students" or "anarchists" or "blacks."

related to the amount of time one sits on one's ass. Example: "The faculty today will either make a very strong defense for Eldridge Cleaver, the four instructors sponsoring Social Analysis 139X... or else they will equivocate, procrastinate, masturbate and desecrate the University..."-editorial in the Daily Cal (UC Berkeley) Oct 3, 1968. On Jan 28, 1969, it reprinted this editorial then added the following comment: "We have been disappointed; we are now disgusted." All this, of course is nothing new to the blacks. They have been disappointed and disgusted for nearly 400 years of White America. The most recent black to become disgusted (Jan 29, 1969) is Prof David Blackwell. Prof Blackwell is an internationally famous authority on statistics.

He was appointed last week as "chairman of the implementing committee for the Afro-American Studies Department." He resigned this week. Prof Blackwell resigned because from p. 3 next two weeks. They were asked to discuss campus issues with their students. The union also voted to respect student picket lines on campus. In another major move, AFT 1570 approved a list of demands to be negotiated with the university.

Key points to be taken up with the administration include a written collective bargaining agreement, immediate salary makeup for pay lost when tax exemptions were cancelled recently, right to strike, implementation of TWLF demands and binding arbitration by third party in case of employee grievance.

Other campus unions also took limited action in support of the campus strike. The Berkeley Faculty Alliance announced support for Third World studies, and American Federation of State, Municipal and Local Employees local 1695 may hold a one-day work stoppage to support TWLF demands.

Basically, the unions are forced to wait until the campus situation develops a little further. For instance, the AFT 1570 strike meeting was attended by fewer than half of the union membership of 400.

Some union members were still optimistic that when the next union meeting is held, on February 10, more support for a strike might be forthcoming.

no students, black or white, were involved in the "implementing" and apparently precious few blacks - if any at all besides him.

This week, Jan 29, the Daily Cal called upon Chancellor Heyns to cancel classes and hold a University Meeting on the current TWLF strike at Cal, as requested by the blacks and minorities.

Chancellor Heyns' response was that he had "no formal request" for such a convocation "therefore, classes will be held."

Violence comes from stupidity at the highest level - in this case, the Chancellor.

In rejecting this request, in calling cops on campus, Chancellor Heyns has ESCALATED the violence of the strike, not diminished it. To stand on ceremony and wait for a "formal request" while his campus is burning is on a par with Nero's acts while Rome burned.

This all of course, holds true for fink-professor Searle and his "Scenario for Student Revolts" (is he on our side after all?). I wonder what he is thinking this week?

Another example of professorial cynicism comes from Rex A. Collings, Jr., "Professor of Law" (as he signs his letter in the Daily Cal). He details a "hypothetical interview of a Negro applicant for employment with a major corporation."

The point of this letter is that the "Negro" has had no "major" in "business ad, econ, accounting, insurance, statistics" but "majored in Black Studies" so he wasn't hired.

What this professor (and most the other intellectuals) miss, of course, is that 1) there are damned few blacks in the above-mentioned courses already and, 2) a "major" in "black studies" could give two cents worth of hope for blacks and minorities to GO ON AND TAKE THOSE ESSENTIAL COURSES.

Even THIS, however, is denied by Heyns, Searle, Collings Jr., and all the other academics on campus. G.K.

LIKE SLAVES

"We are waiting like slaves for the masters to decide our fate," Ysidro Macias, chairman of MASC at UC said. He was talking about Monday's AFT 1570 meeting. The TA's were voting whether to support the strike while Third World people waited outside in the hall.

"We almost pleaded with them," Macias said. "This has got to change," he said. "We must control our own destiny, not depend on support by whites."

Macias was standing elbow to elbow with other strikers at Sather GATE. Tuesday as he talked to BARB. The air was still heavy with the biting odor of a recently tossed tear-gas bomb.

"People in Berkeley are in an apathetic defeatist bag," the Chicano leader said. "But we will win no matter what."

STRIKE DEMANDS

The Third World Liberation Front demands the following:

- L. That funds be allocated for the implementations of the Third World College
 - a. Department of Asian Studies--that positions and staff be set up to develop the Asian Studies Department controlled by Asian people.
 - b. Department of Black Studies as proposed by the AASU.
 - c. Department of Chicano Studies.
 - d. Any other ethnic studies programs as they are developed and presented.
2. Third World People in Positions and Power

Recruitment of more Third World faculty in every department and discipline and proportionate employment of Third World people at all levels from Regents, Chancellors, Vice-Chancellors, faculty, administrative personnel, clerical, custodial, security, service personnel, and all other auxiliary positions and contractual vending services throughout the University system.

Specific demands for immediate implementation:

 - a. Hiring of Third World Financial Counselors (Special Services)
 - b. Third World Chancellors in the University System
 - c. Third World people put in the Placement Center as Counselors
 - d. Third World Deans in the L and S Departments
 - e. Third World people in the Admissions Office
3. Specific demands for immediate implementation:
 - a. Admission, financial aid, and academic assistance to any Third World student with potential to learn and contribute as assessed by Third World people.
 - b. 30 Work Study positions for the Chinatown and Manillatown projects, and 10 EOP counselors, including full-time Asian Coordinator.
 - c. Expansion of Work Study program jobs to the AASU East campus Berkeley High School Project, to include at least 30 positions.
 - d. That the Center for Chicano Studies be given permanent status with funds to implement its programs.
4. Third World Control over Third World Programs

That every University program financed federally or otherwise that involves the Third World communities (Chicano, Black, Asian) must have Third World people in control at the decision making level from funding to program implementation. 5. That no disciplinary action will be administered in any way to any student, workers, teachers, or administrators during and after the strike as a consequence of their participation in the strike. 6. These demands supercede any previous demands heretofore put forth by members of the Third World Liberation Front.

WESTERN FRONT

STATE STRIKER STRATEGY WINS

2:40 pm THURSDAY — (As phoned in by Art Gottlieb)
 What looked like a standoff at S.F. State at 1:30 this afternoon turned into controlled pandemonium an hour later.
 Over 500 strikers shouting, "On strike we'll be back!" prepared to leave the campus in what has been a traditional retreat in past weeks.
 They marched up the central path, joined their brothers and sisters at 19th and Holloway and started to cross the street.
 Before they had reached the other side squads of cops — about 75 — moved on them in orderly fashion.
 Four squads of 4 horse cops each also charged the almost 500 strikers.

The strikers retreated into Ecumenical House and neighboring yards and began to defend themselves with rocks and bottles.
 Police surrounded groups of students only to be surrounded themselves by other students in what seemed to be a chaotic pattern. Gradually the cops began to dominate the situation.
 I saw a sergeant personally pull back some cops attacking students on the Ecumenical House lawn. Supervising officers seemed to be urging restraint.
 But I saw a pig strike a student in the back with his club.
 A typical action involved a UPI reporter named Rhytter. A cop pokes him in the back with his club. The reporter turns saying "Dig it" pointing to his press pass. He gets poked in the stomach. As he turns to retreat he is again poked in the back.
 Now at 2:40 only about 200 strikers remain as the cops sweep them away from the campus. It looks mostly over as the first drops of rain start to fall.
 During the whole morning and

MAY BE THE RAIN IS THE DOWNER

by Phineas Israeli

Lack of bread may kill off the teachers' strike at SF State.
 Perhaps it was the rain, perhaps the cold, but no one on the AFT picket lines was very optimistic on Tuesday.
 The Trustees and their paymasters are cutting off the striking professors' salaries. The powers at State may soon just cut off the strikers' jobs.
 One professor on the picket line told BARB, "If they fire everyone then people may just leave and look for jobs, that's a possibility."
 Another bummer for the profs is the negotiations going on with the Trustees' legal henchmen.
 "They won't even throw bones to us," another professor told us. "These guys don't even want reform."
 If the AFT strike trip is turning into a real down, a super cop-out is not about to happen. Prof. Thalheimer assured BARB that the striking teachers will not return to work even if the Trustees do meet the AFT's teacher demands.
 "Nothing's gonna happen," he said flatly, "if they don't settle the student demands. There's no doubt about that."
 "The other thing we have to have is a no-reprisal assurance," he went on, "for professors, students and staff too."
 But if the Trustees have decided to let State die rather than turn over any of their power to the students, then the AFT's open-ended strike could mean forever. So when the bread runs out, the professors may feel they have to do the same.

 On the student front, Tuesday dripped by with a lull in the fighting. Thursday, of course, is the Tet Offensive. TWLF leaders were keeping their plans for the next march onto campus quite secret.
 It is a good hunch, however, that the tactics will be more guerilla-style than they were last Bloody Thursday when the strikers rallied en masse in the center of campus.
 Nor has the TWLF yet determined its policy for next semester's registration. But it seems clear that the striking students will have to do the registration thing in order to maintain their legal status as students.
 Of course no one knows yet how many of the strikers Happy Haya will try to suspend or expel. It now appears, however, that the power structure sees SF State as its domestic Vietnam. Holloway and Nineteenth is the place where Reagan and Alioto have to make their stand against wars of student liberation.
 SF State is no full-scale revolution yet, but stability and the status quo rest on the repressive mechanism's ability to destroy revolution in the bud.
 The pigs' search and destroy operations at State have failed to break the strike. The Trustees may now be placing their maniacal faith in a policy of weeding out every fucking 'dissident' on the college's rolls.
 The light at the end of the tunnel for Hayakawa is 100% scabs enrolled for next semester. But if he turns to that 'final solution' then Spring Registration may work out to be the Tac Squads Dienbienphu.

ON TRIPPING TO STATE

by Lippie

If you want a really strange trip, hitchhike over to San Francisco State and then back again.
 Ride over to State in a car with Nesbitt Crutchfield of the Black Student Union and then ride back with a State student from Berkeley.
 The ride over is in a car that has been given to the Third World Liberation Front for use in the strike.
 In the ride back you smoke a joint with a student who has just finished his Anthropology final.
 Walk around the library with

Roger Alvarado and his police escort.
 Then look at the black girl who is working at the Library check-out counter.
 See orientals studying in the Library. Go over to Ecumenical House and talk to another oriental who tells you about his Asian friend Lee Wyman, who spent time in jail while he needed seven stitches in his head.
 Talk to Florencio Medina, a Chicano who spends his time enlisting community support for the Strike.
 Then talk to a Latin whose father owns a ranch in Uruguay and he believes the Fifteen Demands are just but goes to school anyway.
 Talk to a black student who will tell you how it feels to run your ass off trying to get away from mounted pigs that are swinging a three foot club at your head.
 Then go back into the Library and see two black students stacking books.
 Talk to one of the girls who was hosed down in the Bryant Street jail last Friday.
 Listen to her describe how another blonde chick was forced to strip while two Tactical barbarians are in the room. They wave a large black billy club taunting, "Is this the right color?"

 Go into the Library or almost any classroom and see other blondes with their bearded boy friends and the books piled around them.
 Look at lists of people that have been busted at State. Realize that the sum of their sentences could be over a thousand years.
 Then hitchhike home with any one of a hundred State students going back to Berkeley.
 Smoke a couple of joints with them and listen to how they think the Third World demands should be implemented.
 Listen to them explain how they have to go to school because they are married and have a kid.
 They have rallied before Christmas and walked the picket lines the first week back in school.
 But now they are taking finals because their kid has to go to college some day.
 Hitchhike over to State and back and blow your mind.

NOTES ON UNDERHAND TACTICS

Ecumenical House, which has been a first aid station and information center for SF State strikers was suddenly closed Wednesday.
 BARB learned from picketers that they had been fighting "Up-Town" pressure for the past month to keep the campus ministry open. The House is financed by various Protestant Churches in the San Francisco community.
 Important people have been getting up-tight at the idea of a church organization being used to aid a person who gets his head split open.
 Meanwhile, organizations and students on State's campus itself are feeling the heavy hand of Hayakawa on their wind-pipes.

MISSED QUOTE

"A policeman is not a hog."
 Many people today dispute that fact. But certainly not the man who said it -- S. I. Hayakawa.
 This and many of his other famous quotes are now available in a booklet published by the Eastern Migrant Press. "The Quotations from Emperor Hayakawa" is available on the streets, 25 cents for student and workers, 50 cents for bourgeoisie.

 "His own words mark him as a man unable to relate his intellectual model of the world to reality," Ronnie Israel, one of the compilers of the book told BARB.
 However, the booklet lacks one of the Emperor's most famous quotes, "The only paper against me is the Berkeley BARB," (Chronicle January 2).

MERRITT STRIKE A QUIET AFFAIR

by Art Gottlieb

The Strike at Merritt College is still a quiet local affair.

The Administration headed by black President, Dr. Norvell Smith has sanctioned a three day support strike for solidarity with San Francisco State.

There are pickets but, Fred T. Smith, Merritt's student body President, told BARB, "There will be no violence unless bodily harm comes to the strikers"

To insure the protection of the strikers and other students, a security force has been organized. Rick Heide, one of the members of that force explained, "All the members of the Security Force are veterans from the service that belong to either the Black Student Union, SDS or the Chicano Student Union."

The big issue at Merritt is the tempest over the new hill campus. Most of the strikers are spending their time doing research to get an injunction from the courts to keep Merritt in the Flatlands where the Black Community is situated.

"If we want Merritt College burned to the ground" Fred Smith said "we don't have to call a Strike to do it"

Fred Smith told BARB Oakland pigs were on standby ready to move into Merritt at a moment's notice.

The blacks at Merritt have worked hard to create the Afro-American Studies degree that is a model for the nation.

Merritt is their College and they are waiting for the day in the near future when it will be MALCOLM X College, the first true Black College in this country.

'WE'RE CONCERNED'

by Rick Heide

Students at Merritt College in North Oakland got a chance to speak out in a unique week of classes, before the strike started this week. They spoke strongly for saving their school from the wrecking crane and supporting strikers at San Francisco State. It was education at its best.

For two days classes met as usual but the standard subject matter was ignored. Instead students, and their instructors, discussed campus issues, student-faculty relationships, and the 15 Demands at State.

"We're Concerned Week" grew out of demands by the Black Students Union and a student advisory committee. Dr. Norvell Smith, unlike some other college presidents, took the students seriously and supported their convocation.

As a result, all segments of the college got down to it and discussed pressing, meaningful issues. For many students it was the first time they had the chance to discuss topics directly related to them in a classroom. People of all shades of opinion and every conceivable background joined in the often heated debates.

At the end of these talks every class in the school selected a delegate. Those selected were representatives to a meeting held before the entire student body and staff in the auditorium. There, each delegate reported the results of his class discussion.

Support for the San Francisco State strike was almost unanimous. They felt the struggle for the 15 demands related to them and all other college students.

The greatest source of irritation to Merritt students was the planned site for their school. The Trustees intend to tear down the old campus on the flatlands. They plan to build a plastic palace on hard-to-reach Skyline Boulevard in the Oakland Hills.

The present campus on Grove Street, by contrast, is easily reached from both Oakland and Berkeley. It is on or near a number of bus lines and only a few feet from the BART lines. In addition, the proposed campus could handle less than half of Merritt's current enrollment, forcing many into other schools or out of college entirely. Those missing out would be, as usual, mainly Blacks, Third World people, and poor Whites from the lowlands. The assembly roared its approval time and again of speakers attacking the hill campus. They made it plain they want the college rebuilt on the current site, near the people. They don't want it on an isolated hilltop for the benefit and land values of a wealthy few.

As one student said, "We don't want all we've accomplished here to be torn down." The students hope to obtain an injunction to halt further work on the hill campus.

Other topics endorsed by the delegates included: elimination of the "F" grade, an inter-ethnic studies program, and teaching credentials for Afro-American studies graduates.

BUDGE REAGAN

The "No-Budge" Reagan-Hayakawa posturing on the student-teacher demands at San Francisco State is fading under growing support for the strikers from union officials and community leaders.

Impetus to the support for the Third World Liberation Front and the American Federation of Teachers comes from the Community conference to Support the SF State Strike.

The CCSFSS has called its endorsers and supporters from more than 150 Bay Area Labor and Community organizations to a rally at the San Francisco Labor Temple, 2940 16th St.; Sunday, Feb. 2; 3:00 p.m.

"There has been great response to the CCSFSS efforts to mobilize a large public attendance at the rally," said Executive Secretary Jim Gallagher.

He urged a massive turnout to "organize public action against Reagan's strike breaking injunction and to win wide public understanding and support behind the demands of both faculty and students."

In a significant development powerful Local 10 of the ILWU charged in its bulletin that "hypocrite Reagan is strikebreaker No. 1." It lauded the AFT for using "good trade union strategy" in balking the attempts of Hayakawa and Reagan to fire the teachers.

Local 10 has voted $100 weekly for three weeks to the strike. It is also organizing official delegations to the picket lines.

Some of the speakers at Sunday's rally will include Gary Hawkins, Pres., Local 1352, American Federation of Teachers; Larry Itliong, Asst. Dir., United Farm Workers and G. T. (Jake) Jacobs, Sec.-Treas., Local 1-561, Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers. Also speaking will be Dr. Carlton Goodlet, publisher, SUN REPORTER; Assemblyman Willie Brown and Morris Evenson, Painters Local 4.

The CCSFSS was initiated by Dr. Carleton Goodlet, Rev. Cecil Williams of Glide Memorial Church, and active members of the Peace and Freedom Party in the Bay Area.

FIGHTING TEACH

Dr. Nathan Hare

PROF NEVER WAS A PUNCH PULLER

by Phineas Israeli

"I told them I could always burn my doctorate and go back to picking cotton."

The man walking beside me at SF State says this very easily, but the statement seems only to hint at the commitment to dignity and freedom which lies beneath it.

Earlier he'd told me, "If I get fired here, I can go back to boxing again." When I responded with surprise, he explained, "A man can learn many things. I can hit a man as fast as I can type, a little faster in fact."

But I cannot envision this man withdrawing from the field of political combat in which he now lives.

His name is Dr. Nathan Hare. He authored the proposal for the Black Studies Department at SF State. When that department at last comes into existence he will be its director, chosen by the Black Students Union at State.

Before coming to State, Dr. Hare was fired from Howard University, which he calls "a colored school," because he tried to start a course in black history. Though he told the Administration at Howard he could always go back to picking cotton, he chose boxing instead.

"I'd become disenchanted with college life," Dr. Hare says of that period in his life. "I didn't want to teach sociology to white students. And I didn't want to be caught dead teaching at a Negro college if they remained as they were."

He accepted the BSU's invitation to come to SF State because "I thought this might be my last chance to get back into academic life in a way that I could bear. I didn't know Black Studies was going to spread around the country."

Dr. Hare emphasizes the distinction between Black Studies and "polka-dot studies programs. The white professors at Yale can dust off their old race relations courses and call it Black Studies, but Yale doesn't know what black studies is."

"You must teach revolutionary pluralism," he says, "or else you're wasting time."

What is revolutionary pluralism?

"An assimilationist wants the black race to take on the culture, even the physical characteristics, of the whites. They call it integration, it's really disintegration.

"The pluralist demands the right to remain as a separate group, such as the French-Canadians are doing, such as the Jews did until they got a foothold."

The relevancy of Black Studies is that it would work "to solve the problems of the black race, the black community here. It would teach black students to help exterminate racism and oppression. We want to black out the white racism."

Dr. Hare disagrees with the idea that the existence of a true black studies department in a college like State or Cal would have the effect of muting black militancy.

"Black Studies will give the students a sense of collective destiny," he explains. Participation in the black community is a crucial aspect of many of the courses listed in the proposal he wrote up at State.

Why set up black studies programs in the existing Universities, within the racist system?

"Ideally it could be done outside the universities," Dr. Hare feels. "But we don't have enough money to set up our own schools, the white man wouldn't recognize them anyway."

Then there is the matter of a certain debt America owes to the black people. "We're not even talking yet about paying reparations, back pay for the work we were forced to do and fines for kidnapping us from Africa."

Dr. Hare sees the struggle for black studies as an essential part of the black liberation movement. "Social change is cumulative, it has a domino effect, just like Reagan says -- he's right about that."

Unlike the Establishment's academic leader at State, Hayakawa, Dr. Hare regards college as "a microcosm for the society at large," and wishes to break down "the invidious distinction between campus and community."

About the relationship between black studies and more obviously political aspects of the black liberation movement, Dr. Hare says dryly, "I don't think it's to be regarded as a training ground for Pantherism, because the Panthers haven't set up a prerequisite course for joining them."

"We teach the students to be relevant to the community," he adds. "If the Panthers do that ..."

I asked Dr. Hare about the future of the struggle at State. "Some of us will suffer," he said, his voice growing heavier.

"Some will lose their jobs, some will lose their boyfriends and girlfriends, some will go to jail, maybe some will get killed, unfortunately."

"In the long run, by struggling here we will lessen the degree of suffering and hurt that would otherwise accrue for centuries."

He paused for a moment, as if to grimace inwardly at the magnitude of the shit the people at State are being hit with.

"We're very much concerned about the fate of the people here, afternoon action the AFT picket line of 20 to 30 teachers continued in its monotonous round in front of the campus, apparently unaware of the action surrounding it.

Earlier at 1:40 Hari Dillon said he considered the students had won a tactical victory because they successfully ignored a court injunction ordering them to allow only five pickets five feet apart at each entrance. Nothing like this took place.

During the day I learned of five busts, in contrast to last week's mass arrest.

Third World leaders said this is the way it would be. And they said it like it is.

The Third World Liberation Front set the stage for action to come with their announcement that "We will march back on campus, Thursday. There is no room in the Strike for pacifism or non-violence."

By Wednesday the people that were busted last week were swelling picket lines but there was an eerie calm as most students were finished with finals, and all that was left was strikers and the Tac Squad.

ANTI-WAR GI'S AND STUDENT

Anti-war GI's and civilians should get together, says the newly formed GI-Student Action Committee in Berkeley.

The group plans to organize legal aid for GI's, co-ordinate plans for the April 6 GI-Civilian Protest March and distribute anti-war papers on military bases.

"We will also be a social and recreational center for soldiers," Miss Gene Savage, local co-ordinator told BARB.

The first meeting of the Committee will be Sunday, February 2 at Stiles Hall at 2 p.m.

opinion that is not expressly pro-administration are getting warning phone calls from administration secretaries. The loss of space on campus is the threat being used.

Students arrested during the strike are receiving "Dear Recipient" letters from the administration. The letter states bluntly that federal grants and loans are being reviewed. Under an amendment to the Higher Education Bill, any student "disobeying the laws or regulations of the institutions," may lose his grant and/or loan.

Other students who are striking are facing bad grades and exclusion from credential programs, according to Student Government President Russell Bass.

Harrassment also includes the return of papers for spelling errors by administration secretaries. "Teachers on the picket lines will get such a hard time," one T.A. told Barb, "that they won't be able to stay on even when the strike is over."

The real test of Hayakawa's antics will come in the Spring registration, though. All strike leaders and striking students contacted say they are going to register for the Spring semester.

but the greatest obligation of all of us is to the fate of the people who will come later."

Dr. Hare expects the struggle at State to spread around the country over the next couple of years, "in a more extreme degree, in fact."

"I do think that there's going to be victory for the cause of black studies," Dr. Hare told me. "There's no way to turn it back."

SLOW?

Daily Gater, watch out... again. The San Francisco State College student newspaper has put the pigs uptight. A xeroxed notice posted in the S. F. Hall of Justice invited police officers "concerned" about Gater's "derogatory articles" to discuss the matter at a Peace Officers' Association meeting last week.

Just think, two years ago it was black students who beat up Gater staff for derogatory writing.

ONE MAN'S (non-violent) LIKE, WAR

by Sgt Pepper

"Is that a marijuana cigarette?" asked Pat Michaels, of Chan 7.

Sgt Sunshine, about to go to jail Monday for nine months for lighting up a joint on the steps of the Hall of Justice last Easter, must have come up with the wrong answer.

"Nobody knows for sure. It's none of Uncle Sam's business what is in a man's cigarette," replied former SF Police Sgt Richard Bergess.

His answer Friday, Jan 24, brought the following actions as related to BARB in an exclusive interview...

1) Less than an hour after this show was taped, the producer called Sgt Sunshine, wanting to know what was in "that red cigarette."

2) At midnight, "an anonymous party" phoned Bergess and announced that "four plainclothesmen" were viewing the taped show and had "cut out that part dealing with the red cigarette." Further, the cops "might bust" Bergess that night.

3) Early Saturday afternoon, an "animal control officer" from Contra Costa County appeared at Bergess' house in the Lafayette area to ask about "the license" for Sgt Sunshine's huge police dog, Brutus.

4) From 4 to 8 pm, Saturday, his home was invaded by nine Contra Costa Deputies, armed with a warrant and cocked shotguns. They handcuffed his wife, Paulette, and arrested her on a narc charge. They took the police dog to the pound, and were going to take Sgt Sunshine's two sons "into custody," but left them with friendly neighbors.

How many jails does a man have to go, how many busts must he take?

Sgt Pepper asked Sgt Sunshine this question. "Me and the US government have locked horns in an all-out war, and one of us is not going to make it," he replied.

The US government is not about to be defeated, but then, neither is Sgt Sunshine. The outcome should be interesting.

Bergess, a tall, slender, black-eyed intense personality (Cary Grant with brains), is 36 years of age, has two sons, ages 8 and 11 (from a previous marriage), and is wedded to "Princess Paulette", 22.

"We were married recently in a head ceremony," said Sgt Sunshine. "It was out in the woods and the snow -- it was beautiful."

Sgt Pepper asked him when he decided not to stay a cop.

"When I started dropping acid, June 1967," he answered.

"Without being cynical, could one say 'I dropped acid and found God'?"

"That's about it," replied Sgt Sunshine. He said he "got into police work" in the first place to "do something" for people. He experienced the frustrations of any person in such a situation, and by taking LSD he found "another way."

He said, "There are religious overtones in this whole scene. I'll do whatever is good for the revolution." To him, the revolution is the right of an individual to be just that.

He identifies with the "lowest of the low -- a wino." He said he rejects bail as a "rich man's way" of getting out of jail. "If they get me, I want to be placed in the same cell with a wino," he said.

after climbing over the six-foot wire fence that surrounds it and my swimming-pool.

"They had their shotguns cocked. They found my small safe in which I keep family papers and documents. On this safe I have a sign: 'Warning -- This safe is booby-trapped; do not heat or jar.' It actually isn't."

"They sent for a bomb-squad who drilled a hole in it and found there was nothing inside. They unbolted the safe from the floor and took it with them."

"They took my hunting rifle and my .45 pistol. I was on the US Airforce pistol-team in 1952. Since I dropped acid I'm totally non-violent. I don't hunt or shoot, since 1965, my last hunting trip with two SF policemen, Thomas Burns and Sgt Edward McDonough."

Sgt Sunshine said his house was

It was pointed out that Gandhi felt the same way about the untouchables. Bergess' face relaxed for a moment, then he said, "Yeah -- that's it."

He told BARB about his wife's bust Saturday (he was not at home at the time).

"They had a warrant from Judge Volk. Sgt Volk led the raid. They kicked in all the doors of my house

"constantly monitored by two TV cameras mounted on a telephone pole across the street."

This one-man invasion of the continental United States seems to be watched by nearly everybody in the United States which, of course, is the way Sgt Sunshine wants it.

The world watched Gandhi drive the British out of India.

"OUT OF THE MOUTHS..."

Dear Sirs,

High Schools! Don't start there in your criticism of the Oakland Public Schools. Start at the grammar school level!

I removed my daughter (1st grade, Emerson Public School, Oakland) from school upon finding out that her teacher had, that day, washed a 6 year old girl's mouth out with "powdered soap" (which must have been a detergent) as a punishment. The teacher HAD NOT heard this girl say the word "motherfucker." The teacher was told by another 6 year old student that the girl had said this word. So the teacher picked this torturous punishment on hear-say evidence. All the students witnessed the punishment. I might add the child was black. Upon hearing of this incident I wrote a letter to the teacher explaining to her that the language the children use is a result of their living with adults who use similar language and it is very unreasonable to persecute a child because of the sort of environment he was born into. Indeed, this word was deeply a part of a culture Oakland has successfully persecuted for some time. I was very angry, very reasonable and specific. I also explained to her that if any of the powdered soap had been inhaled the child could very easily have had an abscessed lung as a result.

The result was an apologetic letter from the teacher, explaining that she was very over-worked because she was the head of some church committee for which she had been spending her evenings for several weeks. She was also going to be married soon and was trying to get everything organized for that celebration as well ... and she had just lost her temper.

At that point I was working as an assistant librarian in a high school. Soon before Martin Luther King had been killed. Our high school was explosive with tension. I chose not to threaten my job by publicizing the incident. I withdrew my daughter and entered her in a private school.

If this has happened once to the black children, it must have happened a thousand times.

So don't just get into the high school problems with your newspaper exposure of our establishment. Start with the children.

"Out of the mouths of babes ..."

Please don't use my name.

CHARGE POISONING

An issue more desperate than wage matters -- that of the effects of pesticides in use by the crop owners -- has brought about another demand by farmworkers for the owners to commence negotiations.

The use of poisonous pesticides by land owners is causing permanent damage to the health of those who harvest the crops, charged the United Farmworkers in a recent statement to the owners.

"We will not tolerate the systematic poisoning of our people. Even if we cannot get together on other problems, we will be damned ... and we should be ... if we will permit human beings to sustain permanent damage to their health from economic poisons," UFWOC leader Cesar Chavez stated.

"We are willing to meet with your representatives on the sole issue of pesticides, even if you are not prepared to begin full scale collective bargaining at present."

The farmworkers have attempted previously to bring the use of dangerous pesticides to the attention of the public, only to be denied access to vital public records regarding their use through a Kern County court injunction sealing the records.

BARB'S MISSION MISSION WAS NOT SO IMPOSSIBLE

By Rocky Racoon

The cops are confused, the press is confused, even most of the kids are confused at Mission High School.

Tuesday morning the phone rings. It's BARB's editor. "Get on over to Mission High School," he says. "Yeah, yeah, later."

A few more Z's and the phone rings again. This time it's BARB's photographer. Was I planning to cover the Mission High School thing? We decide to meet at 11:15 a.m. across from the school.

Thirty minutes late, I rendezvous with the photographer who has been testing his patience waiting in the rain. We decide to have coffee since nothing is happening. The Good Karma Cafe is closed until 6 p.m. and the Dine-A-Mite Cafe on the opposite corner is serving only through the window because the kids busted up the joint the day before and stole some coins.

The photographer says let's walk around the block, which we do, and the rain lets up a little. As we rap we discuss cops and agree that not all cops are pigs and not all pigs are cops. A few of them we like even.

Shortly, we are again walking directly in front of the old high school on the far side of the street. A cop gets out of the backseat of a patrol car and stops us.

He spots the camera and asks if we are newsmen or what. We tell him we are. "What paper?" he asks.

"The BARB," we tell him. Then ever so politely he quotes that section of the city code reminding us it is unlawful to be on or near school property etc. He suggests if we don't vanish fast we might get busted.

The cop is cool but stubborn. The photographer responds likewise.

The cop asks for credentials. I produce two legitimate out of state press passes. He turns them over and studies them. The fotog has nothing to show. (Chief Cahill refuses to recognize BARB). He says he is a free lancer. The cop is unhappy with this and again warns if we don't beat it we might land in jail.

Spectators create trouble because kids sensing an audience feel compelled to put on a show, the cop explains. Later we learn that black and Chicano leaders were also barred to the campus.

A long-haired white kid interrupts to tell the cop it's cool and nothing will happen that afternoon. He gives the implication that things happen only on cue.

"You can make a flat ass statement that nothing will happen?" demands the cop.

"Yeah," says the kid. "Nothing will happen this afternoon."

The rotund cop, wearing a black raincoat, says he wants to shake the kids' hand. He puts him down for predicting the action (which incidentally proved accurate).

"How do you know nothing will happen?" we ask.

"Because the Black Students, the Spanish speaking students and the rest of us all agree to cool it," he says.

Black and Chicano leaders had urged the students to stop fighting one another and unite against a common foe.

Members of the Peace and Freedom Movement urged students to fight against racism in their schools just as the students at San Francisco State have.

The cop is still anxiously waiting for us to leave.

How about that television crew down the street, we ask him. And how about those guys from the Chronicle and the Examiner who just went inside the building?

"They're all right," says the cop. "We know those guys. The regular press is okay."

We wandered on, but hung week in the Kern County Superior Court to have the injunction dropped. The farmworkers are questioning the right of the court to make the injunction. What the owners have to hide?

around, and didn't get busted.

We talk to a carload of Chicano students listening to Spanish radio. "What's happening?" we ask them. We had heard rumors of a walkout, a picket line, possibly more violence. "We don't know man," they answer. They knew nothing of the demands for a more practical English curriculum.

We talk to some black students smoking a joint in an alcove. They don't really know what is happening either. The trouble began with a fight between a Chicano and a black they thought. Two guys got jumped and their friends got into the action. The cops came and things happened.

Another student says the Black Students Union wants to get rid of teacher's aides who provide too much harassment in the corridors.

A cop car approaches; the kids split.

The violence appears to be misdirected at this point.

Black and Chicano leaders are trying to get together to explain who the real enemies are.

Mothers meanwhile protest that none of the students are getting the kind of education they deserve.

HIP COP JOB OPS OPEN UP

The BBC Police Patrol, which has been following the cops around on Telly for months, wants to give the Berkeley P.D. a new look.

"The police say they have a recruiting problem," explains Esther Zicklin, a veteran, groovy police watching chick, "and we want to help them. Since we haven't been able to dislodge the cops from Telegraph Avenue, why not have street people police their own area by becoming hip cops?"

Would any street people be willing to switch sides in the hip-straight, people-police war?

"Obviously not," Esther flashed back. "We won't change what's inside our heads. But some of us, black and white, whose minds have been opened by all that's come down in the past few years, some of us must join the police department so that the police cannot stay as they are."

BARB saw one hang-up: How do hip people get past the straight entrance requirements?

Esther laid it out, "Lots of us meet the legal qualifications set by police department recruiting materials. If they try to eliminate us because we're sane or because we don't believe that the use of force and authority are a policeman's only tools, we should fight that. You shouldn't have to look and act like Marshall Dillon to be a cop."

"And if some street people get through and become peace men, not cops, maybe the scene on the Avenue won't be so bad. How can we lose by trying?" Esther smiled.

The BBC Police Patrol will be leafleting the Avenue with its own version of police recruiting literature as they observe the cops on Friday and Saturday nights.

The Berkeley P.D. says there are more than 30 openings for officers right now. What would happen if 30 hip men, with flowing beards and hair walked in and asked to take the examination, right now? At least there'd be some solid test cases for court, if the doors stayed closed. Think about it.

DAMPED BUT NOT DOWNED

THE INSIDE

By Jon Jacobson

Hosed down, cold, without food, and subjected to dehumanizing abuse by callous guards and matrons well over a hundred arrested women tried to make public their ordeal this week.

Monday representatives of the women arrested at S.F. State January 23, gave a press conference for the straight media.

"We were disappointed at the coverage," Carmen Carrillo, a part-time instructor at State told BARB. "If there hadn't been daughters of the white middle-class there, the media would have ignored the injustice we suffered completely," she charged.

BARB talked to ten of the women about their night behind bars.

"It was a horrible experience," said one. "But I'm glad it happened. We learned first-hand what Third World people suffer every day."

The hosing down was the most blatant outrage they suffered. The ruckus began when one student, Elizabeth Donnerberg was taken and placed in solitary. The cops contend she refused to give them any information.

"That's a lie," she later charged. "As I was being led away I yelled at the top of my lungs, 'I didn't refuse to give my name and address. It's a lie!'"

She was put in a small complete-

Other girls started to bang on the walls of their cell and chanted, "Let her out! Let her out!"

The noise was so loud it could be heard by demonstrators outside the building. Cops tried to bribe the women with food to keep them quiet, but to no avail.

"Suddenly something began to happen," Betty Bishop, a Berkeley teacher told BARB. "I was in the back and shut my eyes expecting tear gas. Water hit me in the face. Then pandemonium broke loose. People were screaming and running. The water came from one side, then from the other."

"There was no place to escape," Bette Bentzman a history student at State said. "Some put up coats for protection but soon the whole cell was soaked."

A cop rushed out madly with his stick at the nearest woman. Other prisoners pushed him away, Betty Bishop recalled.

After the high-pressure hosing Liz Donnerberg was taken out of solitary. But no blankets were there were not even enough mattresses to sleep on. A window was opened by guards letting in the cold night air. Despite pleas no food was provided to the prisoners.

Police Captain Peter Conroy of the City Prison later claimed the cell was hosed because prisoners had urinated on the floor.

All the women to whom BARB talked were extremely incensed at the accusation.

"The charge is ridiculous," Cheryl Morrow a senior in anthropology said. "There is absolutely no truth in it."

"I was shocked to hear that fabrication," Betty Bishop said. "I feel so powerless. So many people will believe the word of one cop instead of a hundred strikers."

Throughout the long day, from the time they were arrested at Hayakawa's police campus, till they were released the next morning, the women had to endure constant verbal sexual abuse and harassment from horny pigs and lesbian-type matrons. Snide comments and propositions were ever-present. "I wouldn't like that one" or "I'll give you the best screw you ever had" the cops would say.

Epithets such as Bitch, Animal, Whore and Hot Tamale were especially reserved for Third World women.

Carmen Carrillo charged black, brown, and yellow women were further humiliated by being forced to undress totally to be searched while white women were not forced to do this.

"One sister was refused medical aid for eleven hours," Miss Carrillo further stated.

None of the prisoners were advised of their legal constitutional rights nor informed of the charges against them. They were also refused the customary two phone calls. This was corroborated by all the women to whom BARB talked.

"After what went on there I believe almost anything said about cops," Helen Cook, an older Berkeley mother said.

"I didn't call them pigs before," Betty Bishop said, "But they certainly acted like pigs."

"When we were arrested a pig told me, 'We're going to take you all to the ovens,'" Bette Bentzman said. She recalled him as a S.F. cop with badge number 1724.

"The experience crystalized my feelings," Carmen Carrillo said. "Now I'm more committed than ever in the struggle against racism."

The Guatemala-born student reiterated how white women forced to go cold and hungry were made aware in a single night what Third World people suffer all their lives.

Most of the regular prisoners in the jail were prostitutes from minority groups. "They understood we all were in there under the same racist system," said Carmen. It was beautiful.

"We shared cigarettes and talked with them," Cheryl Morrow recounted. "They were interested in what we had to say about the strike."

"I completely agree with the Panther program for freeing all imprisoned blacks," Cheryl continued. "It's so absolutely dehumanizing how people are treated in there."

None of the women were discouraged or dissuaded by their brutal experience. All vowed to be back on campus for this Thursday's mass action.

'I WAS A MALE CRACKER'

by Stew Albert
technical consultation by Gumbo

I am a male cracker, a chauvinist sitting inside his plantation dreams of superiority. In the movement my state of mind is typical. Cut off from all society's imprisoning securities, we men have nothing to hang on to but our own ego bloated testicles.

I first heard the term male chauvinism when I was in the Progressive Labor Party. I was always brought up by redfaced women and freaky-eyed men. The best guys in the party laughed at it in private and always joked at how the party's leader, Milt Rosen, treated his wife like private property.

When looking through an abstraction, everyone always said we would have to do something about women being outside the party's brain and inside its kitchen, but as long as I was a member the women's position in PL remained prone.

The Cultural revolution hasn't liberated women any better than the mini-Maoists. Hippies can be the worst offenders, their brains sometimes jumbled by the most hung-up aspects of Asian culture, they raise their chicks' cleaning up after them to the level of cosmic Karma.

At political meetings men's loud voices are gags stuffed down women's throats. Women give up trying to be heard and fall into a dazed boredom intertwined by an occasional irrational statement. If blacks used to shuffle because they consciously wanted to slow down the Man's production line of garbage, I think women are silly at meetings as an almost conscious form of sabotage because to the male mouth they are otherwise invisible.

Check out the Communist and Trotskyist sects, the number of women in leadership positions could be counted on the fingers of an amputee's hand. The Comrade's Women cook for the May Day picnic.

A Women's Liberation Movement is now on the set, and it attacks all the bad shit -- the Miss America Contest, Vogue Magazine, bra, beauty parlor woman as polished object bag, and, in the movement, the chick as Meeting Maid.

The Lib groups to raise women's consciousness, but the problem is that none of them have projected an image of what a free woman would be like. It's the same with the rest of the Left, never telling anyone what life will be like after the revolution, except in negative terms of what won't be there.

In reality the thing is that we have no idea of what a free human being will be like because none has ever existed. Every other form of life recreates at its maximum energy, and jungle animals are not castrated, but man in his struggle to exist has created institutions that keep him physically alive while fucking up his soul.

After we shovel the shit off the road, we are going to have to face an indefinitely indifferent universe, and, our relationship to that universe will give men and women the chance of being human. Life will become pure theatre, without script writer or prompter, playfully omnipotent. Every existential urge will be acted out, to dominate, be submissive, and be one with nature -- this is the holy trinity of freedom.

The worst aspect of male chauvinism is that it locks men and women in fixed roles, a repetitious and boring melodrama. Castrated in this degenerate pig society we cling to the bars of our cells and call it power.

We must deal with the present and create the future out of it. The cardboard roles must be ripped apart. I dream of freedom while Gumbo cooks dinner. In clinging to chauvinism, I keep a foot in the mother country of privilege.

Around me the women are organizing, they sound bitchy, sometimes like a nagging mother. When the oppressed rebel, there is always ugliness -- the other side of having your dinner cooked for you.

There can be a revolution in this country if those who are ripped off by the system stop looking for others to rip off and join together to destroy the factories that have produced our common chains.

Brothers and Sisters of the Movement -- we must in our small groups and communes create our dreams of freedom. For the revolution to come it must begin today.

For me this means learning to make my favorite meat sauce, and realizing that if I can't cook it, I'm not entitled to eat it.

STILL AT IT

Lt. Sue Schnall, the Navy nurse who helped bomb various Bay Area military installations with leaflets announcing the GI March last October, is now standing her court-martial, which started Thursday, January 30th.

She is charged with violating two rules of the military code: wearing her uniform while taking part in anti-war activities, and dropping the leaflets from a plane over the RANGER, Treasure Island, and other bases, which is considered "conduct unfit for an officer".

Sue took a break from ironing her uniform for her appearance the following morning to rap with BARB Wednesday night.

She told us that although the court martial was expected to last only a few days, "anything could happen". As an officer she is liable for any amount of punishment that the hearing board members (five to twelve officers chosen by Admiral McCudden from the

GENERAL STRIKE!

by Bob Avakian

The sleeping giant is beginning to stir. The Contra Costa Central Labor Council voted Wednesday to call a General Strike of all organized workers in the county. The strike call came in response to continued acts of piggery on the part of "your local police" who have been acted as a goon squad for the Standard and Shell Oil plants in Richmond and Martinez.

The General strike will begin next week. The exact time the strike will take effect will not be determined for a couple of days. But meanwhile, a mass demonstration has been called for 7 a.m. Monday morning in front of the main gate of the Standard Oil plant in Richmond.

Drawing inspiration from the strikers at State, the leaders of the workers strike against Standard are calling on students and everyone else in the movement to come out Monday morning to help "shut it down."

For some time now, there has been a lot of abstract talk in the movement about relating to the working class. Here is a chance to do it for real. And to push the Rockefellers one step closer to the wall--with all its gigantic financial empire that oppresses everyone from workers at the Standard plants to students at Columbia, to black people in the U.S. and Africa.

Semester break starts next week at State; so it will be possible to concentrate troops in Richmond Monday for a one-day offensive. And it won't be lonely if things get heavy: hundreds of oil workers will be there, along with workers from other unions, including Longshoremens and Teamsters.

To get to the Standard plant main gate, take the Nimitz Freeway north to highway 17 north (Hoffman Blvd., San Rafael Bridge). Follow 17 through Richmond toward the San Rafael Bridge. The Standard Ave. exit off the highway (to the right) just before you get to the freeway leading to the Bridge Toll Gate. There is a Standard station along Standard Ave. just at the point of the exit. For further information call 237-7284.

INSIDE THE OIL STRIKE

by Bob Avakian

A group of angry oil workers and their wives, came to the Richmond City Council to demand an end to the brutality of the Richmond cops, only to find that they were "not on the agenda." So they simply shouted down the meeting until this oversight was corrected, and Jake Jacobs, Secretary - Treasurer of the Oil Chemical and Atomic Workers local 1-561 was allowed to address the Council.

Jacobs had a personal as well as a collective grievance against the Standard Oil Goon Squad, which goes by the name of the Richmond PD.

On the preceding Thursday (Jan 23) two pickets at the Standard plant were arrested by Richmond cops for "felony rock-throwing" (I never heard of it either, but it carries an automatic one-year sentence.) When Jacobs went down to bail the two men out, he was stomped on and arrested by five of Richmond's finest.

"I know there may be individuals on the Richmond police force who are fair - minded and honest," Jacobs told the Council, "But those five who beat me up unnecessarily are just what I have heard other people calling the police these days: Pigs!"

He added that despite the City Council's promise of two weeks earlier to "study" the union's charges of police brutality, nothing had changed, and as far as the oil workers were concerned "The Richmond police are in the hip-pocket of Standard Oil." It was clear that this was also the oil workers' assessment of the Richmond City Council

When Mao-tse-tung wrote "The masses are the real heroes," he knew what he was talking about. Anyone who doubts this should come out here to Richmond, and walk the picket line with the oil workers.

These men, and their wives--many of whom put in at least equal time on the picket line--know they are up against one of the giants of American capital. Many of the old - timers were around in 1948 when "Bid Daddy," as they call Standard Oil, won a protracted battle with the same union. In that strike, police repeatedly used tear gas and clubs to break up picket lines, but the union held out for almost three months.

Standard's objective then was not to resist the immediate strike demands, but to break the union. Once this was accomplished Standard divided the men up by encouraging as many as 10 different unions to come in and organize different parts of the plant and by setting up a couple of its own "company unions."

BARRISH AND PARTNER, Dorothy Torres, smile to keep from crying as calls to bail SF State activists deluged them last week. photo by Gottlieb

by Art Gottlieb

"You are beautiful. It was you that met us with sandwiches, hot coffee, orange juice and shared your cigarettes with us."

That was Terry Alt's feeling toward Barrish Bail Bonds when he was released from the Bryant Street Jail early Friday morning.

Margaret Leahy, who works with both Barrish and the strike told BARB, "We were up from Thursday morning to six o'clock Saturday morning when the last students were released on bail."

"There were so many people busted," Dorothy Torres, the pretty partner of Jerry Barrish told BARB, "that at first we couldn't get all their names because the court clerks didn't even have them all."

"We would get calls from parents describing a blonde male in a red sweater and we would have to hunt him down."

The small office across from the Hall of Justice was crowded all night Thursday and all day Friday.

A few people would get released and were met by a vigil of supporters before going over to Barrish for coffee or a warm blanket.

Dorothy would then go running back across the street with bail and papers for a few more.

"The cops didn't hassle me too much," she explained, "but when I saw all the windows shaking on the sixth floor I was afraid all the students would end up with felonies."

Barrish has been bailing State people out since last year as well as arrestees in the Auto-Row sit-ins, the Sheraton-Palace busts and the Free Speech Movement.

Everyone was able to get out on bail by Saturday morning because of their help.

Credit is possible. But as Dorothy explained, "If we give a discount of one penny the State would close us down."

"Somebody from the Justice Department was here to see us already," Jerry Barrish told BARB.

Money is still needed to cover bail for those arrested last Thursday.

There will be benefits for the Strike fund both Friday and Sunday nights.

Friday at 8 p.m., John Handy will lead a bill that includes Big Black Combo and Oscar Brown Jr. Tickets are $2.00 at the Harding Theatre, 616 Divisadero St., San Francisco.

Sunday night for $2.00 you can get into both the Blue Swan and Fellowship Church benefits. The Flamin' Groovies, Erik Erikson, the Mime Troupe, the Black and White Apple, and more will be there.

The Blue Swan Coffee House is at 2111 Polk and Broadway and the Fellowship Church is at 2041 Larkin and Broadway, in San Francisco.

white pressure

Its a crime to say that the San Francisco Police Department is infected with racism, and pigs beating heads.

That's what two S. F. cops found out last week when the big wheels of the SFPD heard about their interviews with the GATOR, the SF State paper.

Officers Palmer Jackson and Richard Honguisto, both detailed to the Community Relations Unit, and members of the Officers for Justice, put down the Tac Squad and other pigs during an interview with reporters.

The shit hit the fan later in the week, when the Police Officers Association heard the news. 90% of the SF cops belong to the union a group that believes ("after God, then George Wallace," says the OFJ).

The POA put the pressure on Cahill, the Police Commission, and Alioto, to nail their asses.

The Officers of Justice, the small union that Honguisto and Jackson helped found, defended the two.

In a statement made this week, the OFJ said "it was inevitable that the POA would make a move against Jackson and Honguisto."

"Most of the recent prosecution of white SF cops for maiming and killing citizens has come out of the efforts of the Community Relations Unit that both Jackson and Honguisto are in. Along with others, these two have spent off-duty hours helping to gather evidence against cops who have abused their badge and gun..."

The OFJ statement further urged concerned persons to write or call on Alioto demanding that he should call the heat off the two. Meanwhile, the heat is on; Honguisto's on vacation (even the cops can't find him...) and Jackson is playing it cool. Police harassment is a bummer of reality to them, too.

PERILS OF BARB VENDING

Get that profane paper out of here! And yourself too! That's the message Candy and Jim got from their landlady when they were told to move recently.

Candy and Jim make a living selling the BARB in San Francisco. Now they are losing their pad in the Herbert Hotel at 161 Powell Street because of their occupation.

"We always paid our rent on time, had no crashers, and didn't even use any dope," Candy told BARB. "But recently a new landlady took over, and she just doesn't dig the paper."

The first action of the new landlady was to raise the rent and ask the BARB vendors to vacate. "But we were going to move anyway," Candy said, "The place has cockroaches and the water doesn't work."

BORN FREE

by Rocky Racon

A few weeks ago, a child was born free in a San Francisco communal flat. The state has no record of its existence.

The baby was delivered by the father and a nurse, acting as a friend.

When a mother gives birth to an infant in a hospital, the baby's birth is routinely recorded and a birth certificate is issued. Usually, as a precaution, the child's footprints are recorded. The state then has a permanent record of the existence of this new human being so that he might enjoy the many "benefits" society affords him.

"We want our son to be free, unprogrammed and completely unidentified with the state," says the child's young father.

"He will not go to public schools unless he wants to." He will not require a social security card because he will not seek employment unless he wants to. The boy will learn a handcraft from his father.

The parents say they plan to raise their son in the forest until he is old enough to know his own mind. "He can leave whenever he wants," they say.

The boy will not be forced to register for the draft because the state will not know he is alive.

If the child becomes sick, his parents plan to nurse him with herbs and rely on medical care outside officialdom's forms. "He will not get sick from the foul city air because he will be in the country," says the father.

The boy even has the option to keep his foreskin. And if he is ever busted? "He will tell them he's from another planet," advises the father.

Now will King Herod send his troops to search out this child born without a number?

MEN NEEDED, PLENTY GIRLS

Plenty girls, not enough men. That's the problem the Peace and Freedom Players have for their next production, "Trips for Peace."

Last week mostly girls were at the tryout, mainly as a result of a BARB notice, they said. Now there is a desperate need for male actors and technicians. Final readings are Monday, February 3 at 260 Valencia in San Francisco at 7:30. Call 626-5084 for info.

COUNCIL LIBERALS COP OUT, SO WHAT ELSE IS NEW?

As BARB predicted last week, Berkeley's "liberal" City Council bowed to reactionary pressure from its city bureaucracy and refused to place the Better Berkeley Council's three Charter Amendments on the April municipal election ballot.

It took until 1:30 A.M. for the Council to finish its hatchet job, with command performances by trembling-voiced City Manager Hanley and a red-faced City Attorney Anderson. Hanley, in a tear-jerking performance that left not a dry leg in the house, obviously felt that his role as City Manager was being challenged.

"The Ombudsman concept was meant to protect against the power of the Swedish Kings," he sniped, so why does Berkeley need such a complaint officer to investigate citizen charges of abuses and misconduct by city employees?

The City Attorney, who by the way is employed by the City Manager not the City Council, produced a consistently right-wing interpretation of the law. Even Councilman Zack Brown, from the Co-op Credit Union, was annoyed at Attorney Anderson's up-tight reasoning. However, when Brown questioned Anderson's view he was slapped down like a naughty child who should be seen and not heard. "The City administration," Anderson sneered, "is more complicated than running a credit union."

Strangely enough, only Black Councilman Sweeney, who is put down by people for his vacillating attitude towards police abuses, was willing to attack Anderson's bullshit and try to shovel it aside. Maybe the increasing pressure in black neighborhoods for a Civilian Review Board for police is starting to be felt even by Sweeney.

As usual, John DeBonehead kept up a steady stream of Birch Society - type noise and insult throughout the proceedings. Other Council members and even our Mayor, Horatio Alger Johnson, found DeBonehead an embarrassment and wished he would get lost -- but he didn't. "Don't let these agitators fool you. They plan to destroy our fine police department. This Citizen's Advocate is a Civilian Review Board in disguise."

When the vote finally came down, Berkeley's castrated liberal City Council had been whipped back into line, and voted down a last chance for compromise with the left. They threw their future in with the right-wing, though the excuses were legalistic and financial.

"Too much money." "Need more time to study." "Conflict with the City Manager." "Oh dear."

BBC's proposal for a Citizen's Advocate was the only one of the three amendments that the Council even bothered to consider seriously even so, Mayor Johnson threatened twice to adjourn the meeting because it was after midnight. (The Public Discussion on Charter Amendments was scheduled for 9 P.M. but didn't begin until 10:30 while the City Council screwed around with minor business.)

The Advocate Amendment was presented and defended by Ken Kawaichi, Legal Coordinator for ACLU, Professor Leitman who is Ombudsman for the U.C. Berkeley campus, Joseph Grodin, a well-known S.F. lawyer who lives in Berkeley, and Al Silbowitz, BBC Chairman.

The Council Chamber was well sprinkled with BBC, CNP, and Berkeley Coalition personalities, including U.C. History Prof. Charlie Sellers and Loni Hancock, the announced Coalition candidates for City Council. They all might as well have stayed home.

If BBC does not have the number of signatures necessary to qualify its Amendments for the April ballot the plan now is to continue collecting names for the Peralta Election ballot in June.

GRAND CANYON TRIP SOURED BY THE MAN

Even in the vastness of the Grand Canyon you cannot be free. The Man and his ugly laws are everywhere.

Eight Bay Area youths found that out after traveling to Arizona recently. Four of them are still in jail in Flagstaff.

"We spent 3 days in cramped unheated cells, all for less than an ounce of pot," Kiki Johnson, one of the group told BARB. They took them, 4 girls and 4 guys, of the Canyon by helicopter at night. "Even the pilot said he was scared."

Earlier, the group enjoyed itself camping and exploring the bottom of the canyon for several days. Then Sunday, January 11 on the way up they rested at a halfway station. There they met a maintenance ranger who was quite friendly.

"We even offered him some of our food," Kiki said. In payment for their kindness he radioed in a helicopter.

They searched us for stolen goods and found a small amount of grass," Kiki related. Three other copters flew in to fly out the eight young "dangerous criminals." "The rangers said it cost $2,000 just to get us out of there," she said.

After spending the night at the Grand Canyon Station jail the group was taken to Flagstaff. "It was terrible, the girls were kept separated and we didn't know what was happening. For three days we weren't able to use the phone," Kiki recalled.

"The cops abused us verbally," she said. "They said we weren't

P&F TO GET IT TOGETHER

The Alameda County Peace and Freedom party will try to get itself together Saturday, February 1.

An all day conference in Berkeley will deal with such topics as police activities, rent control, tax reform and housing, and how to relate these issues to the April municipal elections and beyond.

The convention at Unitarian Fellowship Hall, Cedar and Bonita, will get under way with registration at 8:15 am. For information call Judy Baston at 658-3006, or 392-1602.

GARRISON WON'T PAY OFF

"A major defense of (Clay Shaw's attorneys" will be that Jim Garrison "pays" his witnesses, says Reverend Raymond Broshears of the Church of God in San Francisco.

Shaw is currently on trial in New Orleans for his alleged participation in "a conspiracy" to murder President Kennedy the New Orleans District Attorney claims he has uncovered.

The minister made this charge in a statement he gave the BARB this week after, he says, a "friend" of Shaw's telephoned him and made the accusation of a "payoff." Broshears, who himself gave testimony last August before Jim Garrison and his staff about his knowledge of the events surrounding the assassination, vigorously denied the "payoff" charge.

Of himself, he said: "James Garrison never offered me one penny for coming to New Orleans, and I want to say this, that other calls have been made to me of the same nature, and I am sure this is going to be a major defense of Shaw's attorneys, that Garrison pays his witnesses."

He added: "one person has already confessed that he made false statements about Mr. Garrison, and many more persons will be found out before this is over."

The normally friendly relations Broshears has enjoyed with his friends in the homophile community in San Francisco have become like "ice". Broshears stated, because many of his associates know Clay Shaw personally and wish no evil to befall him.

According to Broshears they look on Shaw as "one of us" and claim that "Garrison hates homosexuals and wants to destroy Shaw." They point to Broshears as helping Garrison in his vendetta effort which is one reason, Broshears believes, threats have been made against his life.

Broshears said that it doesn't matter in this case whether Shaw is "gay" or not, for "justice must be served." It isn't important, he maintained, what the sex life of a person is, and warned against the homosexual being made the "jew of Nazi Germany in America."

"The power hungry need scapegoats," he declared, "to make up for their own lack of adequacy and the homosexual is a natural.

"In Germany they sent the Jews to the ovens, in America they shall 'witch hunt' the homosexuals to mental institutions as Dr. Max Rafferty suggested during his recent campaign for the U. S. Senate.

"GEORGE Wallace also made an issue of the perverts who are destroying America; the deviates, Wallace screamed, are all commies and are destroying our country."

At this point Broshears became adamant in defense of the homophile community. "As many homosexuals have died in defense of this country as have the so-called heterosexuals," he said.

Broshears concluded with the speculation that Shaw's defense could conceivably make a "great issue" of the sex make-up of Garrison's witnesses. But, said Broshears, as a rejoinder, "before they cast stones maybe they had best run tests on the defense witnesses."

HOMOS TO VOTE

The direction of the homosexual movement in Northern California, may hang on an election in early February.

The Society for Individual Rights (SIR), is holding its elections for president and editor of Vector, the Society's monthly magazine on February 5. The editorship position is hotly contested by two candidates with deeply divergent outlooks.

One of the candidates, Guy Straight sees a need to emphasize more sex in the magazine. "Vector should be sold in the smut shops of any state," his platform statement says.

"What's more important is self respect," Leo Lawrence, the other candidate told BARB. "With that everything else can be achieved." Lawrence is a news editor for KGO in San Francisco. He plans to upgrade the magazine with name writers, raise important issues, and lessen the emphasis on nudity. Straight also plans to get big name writers for the monthly.

"Sixty nine is going to be a gay year," Lawrence said. "We want to make political changes from Nixon on down. We want to declare war on public ignorance of homosexuality."

Lawrence wants to get young blood on the staff of Vector, "people not afraid of Alioto or Sacramento." Eventually he thinks the magazine can be for homosexuals what Life and Look are for the straights.

Lawrence is presently working on a book entitled "My Struggle to Become a Man," in which he is using his own life to exemplify what might happen in society if the stigma against homosexuals is removed.

"San Francisco is the gay capital of the country," he says, "many here don't feel guilty. But in other communities a lot of gay life exists underground. People are still afraid."

Lawrence is quite open about himself, and even wears a "Gay is Good" button on his sweater. "I want to use my writing ability to help the gay community, rather than uptight straights," he told BARB.

Of the approximately 500 Bay Area members of SIR several hundred are expected to vote in the election.

HARD TIMES AHEAD FOR HIP CABBIES

Berkeley's hip taxi company is facing hard times.

Taxi Unlimited, a co-op outfit of 4 cabs and 15 drivers is in financial trouble. Because of increased auto insurance rates the company needs to have a lot of bread by February 7, or be extinct.

"We even do errands and pick up children from school," Janice Karones, a daytime dispatcher told BARB, in describing the services of Taxi Unlimited. She said even old ladies, who are at first uptight about the appearance of the drivers, come back because of the courteous service.

Those who would like to keep hip and friendly taxi drivers alive in Berkeley can open a charge account by sending advance deposits to Taxi Unlimited, Box 203, Berkeley 94701. Or call 841-2345.

GILBERT SHELTON

FINAL JURY FOR 7

by Art Goldberg

The jury that will decide the case of the Oakland Seven has finally been chosen.

The final juror was accepted shortly after Wednesday morning's recess when chief defense counsel Charles Garry rose to inform Judge George W. Phillips that the defense was "passing."

Just before the recess, assistant District Attorney Lowell Jensen had "passed," that is, indicated that he had no more peremptory challenges to make. Garry's move ended the two and a half week game of chess between Jensen and the three defense attorneys.

The jury that was finally chosen consisted of eight men and four women. One of the men is black and one is oriental. Garry had apparently been determined to get as many blacks on the jury as he could. Jensen had been just as resolute in keeping blacks off.

The one black man on the jury has a son in Vietnam who has written to him that antiwar demonstrations "don't do the morale any good."

Jensen also made a point of keeping people from Berkeley off the jury, causing defense co-counsel Richard Hodge to comment:

"There is no geographical representation on that jury at all. The DA has systematically excluded people from the northern half of the county. This county is split politically, the same way the state of California is. The southern half is much more conservative."

The irony is, said Hodge, that the case is going to be decided by people predominantly from the southern half of Alameda County, although the incident occurred in the northern half.

Asked why the defense accepted such a jury, Hodge replied: "It was the best we could hope for under the circumstances. Those panels of prospective jurors were just loaded with people from San Leandro and places down south."

Garry appeared to be less concerned. "It is almost impossible to get a fair trial in a political case," he said, "unless you have a jury of twelve morons with no political opinions at all. One or two bigots who lie always manage to sneak on a jury anyway."

Asked why he wanted as many blacks as possible on the jury, Garry replied: "Because black people know what police brutality is, and they know about wars against people of color. They also have experienced 'law enforcement'."

Garry also pointed out that the 1966 voter registration lists from which the jury panels were drawn completed eliminated the prospect of jurors in the 21-23 year-old age range, and severely cut down on jurors who would be under thirty. All of the Oakland Seven are under thirty.

The actual presentation of the case to the jury is not expected to begin until late Monday or sometime Tuesday, when Jensen and Garry will both make their opening statements. Before then, four alternate jurors will be chosen, and some key points of law will be argued.

The question of the admissibility into evidence of the Nuremberg "Principles," and the matter of "selective prosecutions" will probably be argued on Monday. The defense contends that under the principles laid down at Nuremberg, individuals are obliged to oppose illegal acts by their own governments. They contend that since this is accepted international law, it is automatically U.S., and therefore California law.

Thus far, no trial involving anti-Vietnam war activists has allowed the Nuremberg principles to be used in criminal trials, although the Army court-martial that convicted Dr. Edward Levy did hear some evidence to that effect.

The Seven also contend that they were "selected" for prosecution by the DA out of the thousands who demonstrated during Stop The Draft Week, because they are all political activists.

GI'S LIVES DEPEND ON PROTEST POWER

Everyone is upset about the hard-nosed attitude of the top Army brass against the Presidio stockade inmates charged with mutiny.

"The only chance they have is persistent community support," Brian Drolet of the National Committee to Defend Military Prisoners told a support crowd of 300 Tuesday in front of the Presidio. "They're facing a lifetime in prison while we only stand out here for a few hours," he reminded the crowd.

"It's been clear from the start the 27 have been selected as examples for all anti-war soldiers," Terrence Hallinan, attorney for 17 of the men told BARB this week. He has been in the forefront of the legal fight for the soldiers since the October 14 sit-in which sparked the case.

Captain Richard Millard, the hearing officer for the first six to go to trial recommended against mutiny charges. Any Army psychiatrist said several of the men are unadaptable to military life and should be discharged.

The only concession the command made is to ask for life sentences instead of the death penalty as the maximum penalty.

"We urgently request that charges against the men be dropped," says a statement released

Tuesday morning by 35 religious leaders throughout the country. The group, which included 9 bishops, stressed the age of the soldiers (most are under 21) and condemned as inappropriate the serious charges placed against the men for demonstration against illegal conditions with the stockade.

"People in the East are equally outraged by this," theologian Harvey Cox, now at Harvard, said at Tuesday's rally. He spoke for more civil rights for GIs and for getting ROTC off college campuses.

Another speaker, Phil Drath, former congressional candidate from Marin County, pointed out how people are forced to become more radical because the State is so repressive in keeping the status quo.

There were no cops at the rally. Only a few MP's watched from the gate. Later about 100 protesters tried to get inside the courtroom, which seats only 40.

Inside the courtroom defense counsels sought a continuance on the grounds they hadn't enough time to prepare their cases. They had been caught unprepared, expecting the Army to go along with the recommendations by the pre-trial hearing officer. The court granted a continuance to Thursday.

The six men facing trial are Larry Zaino, Larry Reidel, John Colip, Louis Oczepenski, Edward Yost, and Richard Dodd.

The prosecutor is Captain John F. Novinger. Final decision as to the fate of the soldiers rests with 10 members of the general court-martial and the presiding military judge Lt. Col. George R. Robinson.

Meanwhile Hallinan is waiting for a ruling by U.S. District Court Judge Stanley Weigel on the Army's response about conditions in the stockade. Hallinan has asked the civil court to intervene because all other avenues of grievance have been exhausted. The Army in turn contends military officers were not approached about the grievances.

"It's only an absurd stalling tactic on their part," Hallinan said angrily. "They are well aware we've tried every recourse possible to correct the conditions inside the brig."

UNATTENDED STRIKERS CHARGES MEDICS AND HOSPITALS WITH NEGLIGENCE

In a scathing letter released to BARB Thursday, the SF State Legal Defense Committee attacked the American Medical, and Hospital, Associations for their lack of concern with atrocities committed at San Francisco State.

"The existing medical community in San Francisco is more of a hindrance than a help in obtaining proper medical treatment, follow-up examinations, X-Rays and laboratory tests, says the letter with reference to medical needs of injured strikers.

"Your shocking professional, perhaps criminal negligence, should be exposed to all the people," continues the letter, signed by Bob English on behalf of the Committee.

Getting down to specifics, English relates how "Dr. Ellis Sox, Director of Public Health had originally agreed to have all the injuries examined at City and County General Hospital and special arrangements were made for this purpose. However, he and the hospital Administrator, Mr. Swanson, refused to implement any such arrangements and Dr. Sox also exercised his authority to permit the use of MACE on campus without providing any effective restrictions."

English further states, "Shortly after the campus massacres, the Office of Economic Opportunity ordered its Mission District Shotwell Clinic not to treat anyone involved at San Francisco State. About this time Dr. George Stuart, who agreed to treat people at his home, lost his job at the Clinic."

After several phone calls to the University of California Medical Center, which has the best laboratory facilities in Northern California, English says he was flatly refused help in any way "other than recommend that I go to the San Francisco Medical Society."

English also points out that the S.F. Medical Society Executive Committee voted to "publicly commend Dr. Hayakawa for his repressive actions."

The letter tells how other doctors and Clinics refused to help, saying "If the people wanted to demonstrate they should be prepared to suffer the physical and financial consequences."

St. Luke's and Mt. Zion and the Black Man's Free Clinic are commended by English for the service they have provided. He also states that about 35 internists, MDs and specialists have agreed to provide free care.

The letter is directed to The President of the AMA and AHA. It reminds them, "Any doctor in the world is bound by his profession to give treatment on a priority basis to those that need it most regardless of his political beliefs."

English urges Dr. Mark Berke, the president of the Hospital Association; and Dr. Dwight Wilbur, president of the Medical Association to come to the campus any day.

"The responsibility for attending to the present and future numbers of casualties should not be left to the victims," English states, and continues:

"I will not be surprised on the day when strikers are gunned down by police who have already learned that no one with any power in this country will prevent them from using any form of violence."

"The community is totally unprepared in terms of medical facilities to handle the situations of mass casualties from people-police confrontations which probably will be happening in the Bay Area and the country for many years to come in increasing intensity," the letter charges. "Just what would your people do if 2000 people were shot and clubbed on the campus tomorrow?"

"I therefore request that in your positions of authority and influence you assist expanding the panels of doctors, lab facilities and hospitals needed to serve in the event of mass casualties, as a result of political confrontation in the Bay Area."

CLERIC SWEATS OVER MONEY

The money changers did a turn-about on an Oakland man of god several weeks ago. When it was all over he was bruised and battered by cops, his brand new car ripped off by the secret service, and facing a federal forgery rap.

Late Wednesday, January 15 Father Clinton Taliaferro of the Eastern Rite Catholic Church was returning from a visit in San Leandro. He stopped for gas, and paid with a ten dollar bill just returned from a loan. Shortly afterward a cop pulled him over.

"I thought it a routine traffic stop," Taliaferro later told BARB. "While I was looking down for my driver's license I heard a click-click noise. I looked up. There was a shotgun pointed at my nose. The cop said 'Blink and its all over,'" the minister related.

Taliaferro and the two other occupants were lined up against the car and searched. A cop pulled a wad of $10 bills from the minister's pocket and declared, "That's counterfeit."

"I was shocked," Taliaferro said. While handcuffed in back of the patrol car and sensing he could get in deeper trouble, he decided to eat the phoney bills. "But they saw me," he told BARB, "one grabbed me by the throat, another by the windpipe. One by the nose. They beat my mouth with a leather strap till I opened it," he said, his face still swollen from the ordeal.

That was just the beginning of the minister's troubles. After a night in San Leandro jail he was taken to the Federal Building in San Francisco. Because his car, a 1968 Camero, was supposedly used in a federal crime it was impounded by the Secret Service.

Finally out on bail the minister returned home to his apartment to find another surprise. His door had been kicked open and his place ransacked. On the desk was a search warrant from the Secret Service. The landlord asked Taliaferro, his wife and 16 month old son to vacate. So in three days the minister had almost lost everything.

Taliaferro has contacted the ACLU for help. "The cops have ripped people like this all the time," the minister said. "Somebody should do something."

FLASH!

Army-inspired restraining order's jury Thursday at noon, prohibited the Oakland 7 from setting foot on the Presidio Army Base, Friday, January 31. To support the GI's facing mutiny charges. The 7 had vowed to attend the trial. They will attend the rally.

In spite of the notices, the Oakland 7 said they will toe the white line at the rally gate (Lyon and Lombard) and will publicly burn their restraining notices.

The 7 received the orders as they walked out of the Alameda County Courtroom in Oakland, where they are presently standing trial on conspiracy charges.

As BARB goes to press, the rally in support of the Presidio 7 is still scheduled at 12 noon, Friday. It is sponsored by the Committee for Concerned Clergy and Laymen.

LEARY HONORS PICKETS

"I don't want picket lines broken for me," Tim Leary told BARB this week.

So 5 lectures sponsored by Free University of Berkeley and set for UC's Pauley Ballroom next week will be held instead at Martin Luther King School Auditorium, 1781 Rose (at Grant) in Berkeley. The dates have been set ahead also because of the UC strike.

Wednesday, February 12 Leary will talk on Psychedelic Psychology: How to Turn On; February 14 on The Psychedelic Marriage; How to Tune In; February 18 on The Psychedelic Community; How to Drop Out; February 20 on The Hedonistic Revolution; and February 22 on The Hedonic Society of 2001. All classes are to begin at 8 p.m.

This may be Leary's last appearance in Berkeley for a long time. The Supreme Court decision on his 30 year pot sentence is to come down soon. If the sentence is reversed, Leary will visit India for an indefinite stay.

COMMUNE-ISM CAN WIN

by Lee Felsenstein
Barb Military Editor

The trouble with Newsreel, and this is an odd slant, because that trouble points out to me at least, where the Left and the underground press is at. Newsreel's efforts, in a number of underground papers have been praised sky high. Newsreel is in, and a lot of space has been devoted to it.

I haven't written about Newsreel for fear of helping to crush (as if I could have the power to do such a thing) its young and tender buddings. Now it is a year old, and I have a few seemingly unkind things to say. In the long run they may prove to be kind, but now I scarcely imagine anybody on the Left or in Newsreel will appreciate them too much.

Newsreel is a group, or rather a collection of groups of people making films from a radical left point of view about the revolution (should I use capital letters for this thing I hardly understand in lower case?). There are Newsreels in New York, in Chicago, in San Francisco, and I don't know where else.

Newsreel makes and distributes its own films, and hardly a week goes by when they don't put on a screening for themselves somewhere in the Bay Area. Newsreel is a necessary film production unit, necessary to counter the conspiracy of the mass media. Today, the most important source of news is the evening news sent forth into the ether by CBS and NBC. These official government agencies serve the PR purposes of the administration. They cloak their bias in thinly disguised ostensibly objective film reports.

Only a monkey, or the bulk of the American people, could be fooled. I have nothing against monkeys, enjoying to watch them at the zoo, having spent many hours staring into the eyes of the Gorilla Gorillas located around the world, so there is not much point in my putting them down with such an invidious comparison. In fact, there is more compassion in the eyes of a gorilla than in the eyes of, for example, William F. Buckley, but I don't have to tell you that.

So Newsreel should exist to counter the mass media crap. At one time I thought NBC and CBS (and little brother ABC) were to the Right, but now I have begun to understand, and with some horror, that these networks reflect very well where Mr. and Mrs. Mooch are at.

Really then, the news networks are squarely at the center (maybe Left) of the American political spectrum. We shouldn't be put off by the threatened congressional investigations because of the Chicago coverage. Walter was, after all, only concerned because his own were being stomped upon. I have never heard him cry for either a dead GI or a burnt Vietnamese baby. He is impartial.

That leaves me with Newsreel. There is no doubt that they are needed to give the news from what I consider to be a more respectable framework. I started to say that there was a connection between the coverage of New Left politics in general, and the underground press coverage of Newsreel in particular.

On reason why the Left in this country is so weak is that it's paranoid (what an evil word) that it hates itself, or parts of itself with as much passion as it hates the Enemy. There may be more hate directed inward than there is outward.

Part of this comes from the utter frustration the left must feel. We tend to forget our accomplishments, and if we can recognize them they seem very tiny compared to the general disintegration that surrounds us. There really is no way to tell whether or not all the demonstrations, for example, have helped produce the Paris Peace talks, and if they have, things are going at a snail's pace anyway. It's hard to take credit for anything, and the gains seem slight.

It's easier to lash out at each other. If the FBI and police agencies in this country recognized this to its full measure, they would all get a lot more rest at night.

There is a difference between criticism and lashing at parts of

Let's say that Hayakawa and all his imitators in other colleges carry out their worst implied threat and expel everyone who has indicated an unfavorable opinion. Where would that leave you? If it frightens you, forget about revolution and go into retail merchandising. You were never where it was at.

If your reaction is one of interested speculation, let's speculate together.

University reform can only be a means to revolution, never a revolutionary end in itself. Once you secure the campus you have just begun. Castro was approached by some students shortly after he had taken power and was asked about starting a "revolutionary university."

The students didn't take his advice. This is typical. Far too many students who consider themselves revolutionaries are terrified of leaving the campus.

Academic life has its attractions to radicals. It provides a community of persons with similar outlooks and interests. It provides opportunities for education through action on the campus; conflict with the administration teaches the radical valuable lessons about establishments.

It also provides excuses for inaction in meaningful areas. The student radical for the most part will retreat to his routine when the choice is presented of real action or continuation of studies.

While some radicals are studying to obtain tangible skills of use to the movement (medicine, law, engineering), most fall into the large category of students whose major is of little importance except as a route to a degree. Such a degree is good only as a white-collar "union card!"

Radicals have no business wanting in on the establishment, especially at the expense of radicalism. The answer is to do it yourself, not under the Man's subsidy.

Therefore, they must be willing to forego the meaningless diploma when it comes down to the crunch. They must, drop out and still retain all of the aspects of campus life which are of help.

Let's envision what I will call Revolutionary Communes, each consisting of from ten to thirty people who live near each other. Not that they do not necessarily live with each other, as this can raise more problems than it solves.

The members would derive their existence however they best could do so. A majority would work at a variety of jobs. Jobs, yes; careers, no. The members must be sufficiently committed to place the revolution first. The commune would be the manifestation of the revolution.

The members of each commune would share some specific interest relevant to the revolution. They would organize their own mini-universities to learn what they felt they needed to know.

Obviously instructors would have to come in part from outside; preferably from other communes, but if necessary from wherever they could be recruited.

When the commune wished to take action, it would be most likely to act in more relevant directions than are presently being taken on campus. Many communes would co-ordinate their activities and some would specialize (supply, communications, agitprop, leaflet production and distribution, etc.)

Thus the communes could form a decentralized revolutionary organization within which members could maintain the close contact which is so vital for sustained militancy. It would be a substantial and yet invisible organization, capable of explosive activity or dormancy as the situation demanded.

The closest example at hand might be the "centrals" of the Free Speech Movement at Berkeley. The FSM never had a storefront office until the action was all over. During its creative period all activity was organized from the apartments of participants.

The original "FSM Central" at 2536 College (now torn down) became a beehive, with two phones and an average staff of six people including a maternal type who commandeered the kitchen to turn out meals for all who wished to eat at the time. Food money came from the campus donations.

There always seemed to be two members of the Steering Committee sacked out in the front room and there was always someone at the phone. Later in the course of events, other centrals

RECORD RAP

WOTZAT SMELL?

by Jef Jaisun

What may possibly be classed as the worst record of 1969 arrived this week. (Already?)

It is called the Live Adventures of Mike Bloomfield and Al Kooper, and anyone who listens to FM rock has probably heard a good deal of it. The double lp set consists of jams led by Bloomfield and Kooper with such illustrious guests as Carlos Santana and Elvin Bishop. Cover by Norman Rockwell.(!)

With names like these it seems hard to conceive that the product would be poor. But that's exactly why it is poor--it's no longer a musician's game but a name game.

The current name game began several years ago, before most of its contestants were nationally or internationally recognized. In the early days of the Chicago white blues boom some of the young southsiders were lucky enough to get recording contracts. These included Paul Butterfield, Charlie Musselwhite, and Barry Goldberg.

Riding in on the coattails of these people were the members of their bands. Butterfield featured Bloomfield and Bishop, Harvey Mandel was the guitar standout in Musselwhite's group, and Goldberg, who was Musselwhite's organist, also cut an lp on his own.

One common denominator for several of these lps was the "guest" appearance of the member(s) of a brother band on the sessions of another. Most notably it was Musselwhite, Goldberg and Mandel who did this frequently.

With the group break-up fiasco of late 1967 and 1968 a lot was said of certain stars' ego problems. The Electric Flag seemed to have no end to its personality clashes. The result was a very short life span and an obvious lack of creatively new material despite the two lps which the group produced.

But somewhere along the line someone initiated the phrase

"super-star" and proceeded to include in that category such personages as Bloomfield, Buddy Miles, Kooper, Bishop, and virtually everyone else who had in some way won admiration and critical acclaim in the pop music world.

Roughly about the same time the idea of jamming came to prominence, ie, a bunch of cats getting together and just playing whatever happens to come out. Through some bungle unequalled in the history of pop-blues music, a decision was made to record this type of thing for commercial sales.

The results were the first "Super Session" lp, a lot of rehashed material, none of which was really original, and generally the whole thing was a bore. Unfortunately for the direction of new music it was also a successful seller.

Now we are graced with the second lp in the series, The Live Adventures of Mike Bloomfield and Al Kooper. The musicians' terminology for this lp is "SOS" --same old shit.

None of the cuts are outstandingly good; few are even as good as mediocre. None of the material is new. The vocals for the most part are poor, and the musicianship ranges from above average (thanks to some nice but infrequent licks by Michael) to virtual rock bottom.

It is interesting to note that the "stars" themselves don't regard the lp too highly. Both Bloomfield and Kooper include speeches and liner notes on the record which, regardless of their intended functions, serve only as the cop-outs that they (the speeches) really are.

The whole thing only goes to prove that there is no such thing as a "super-star"; it's a bull-shit myth. I've heard better jams at the Fillmore on Tuesday nights. It also proves, however, that if you've got a name you can get away with just about anything.

I've seen better groups break up because they couldn't get a gig after they've worked hard on their own thing for months and years. The members of the Kooper-Bloomfield jam spent three days in rehearsal. THREE DAYS!

But Graham is sharp and he knows what will draw. In fact he's got a similar act booked as the headliner early next month, this time including Nick The Greek Gravenites. Nick has written alot of fine songs and it would be nice if we could hear them in some semblance of arrangement.

If not, kindly unplug the tape deck.

AD RAP: Excellently informed sources in San Francisco say that Grace has NOT left the Airplane to sign with Elektra or whatever. "Pure Jive . . ."

Condolences to Zappa and the Mothers. After four years of successfully avoiding Top Ugly 40 radio their greasy cut of "Deser!" from Ruben and the Jets lp made #39 on the KIOA, Des Moines, Iowa 9 plus 40. It jumped from #47 the previous week. Zappa accepts it as the realization of the great American Dream -- "abject failure."

Patrons of the packed Avalon Ballroom last weekend were hassled by the City heat for ID at the door. There is an ordinance requiring ballers to be 18. Good advice is to either cop some kind of ID or bring a note from mommy and daddy (SIC) . . .

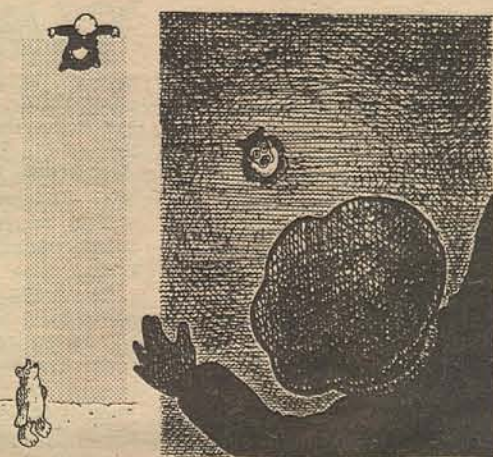

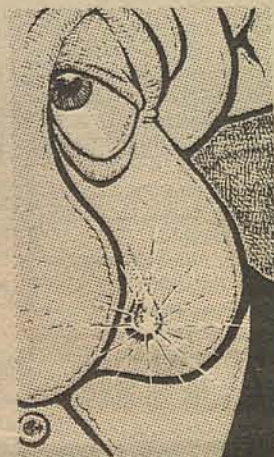

The Family Dog had to cancel out of Winterland last week but is planning future happenings. It only goes to further support my theory that no show that has Tim Hardin booked ever really happens . . .

Matthew Katz is suing It's a Beautiful Day for a million dollars over the rights to the group's name. Actions speak louder than words, and therefore I have no comment.

THE MASTER UNMASKED?

By Jean Hochsberg

Buster Keaton, the slight small figure whose mask-like face and puppet-like movement and carriage could express a range of emotion and action which has never been surpassed; the master of comic timing, the sight gag, the fade; the brilliant performer who not only executed all of his own stunt work but also directed, wrote, and edited most of his films; the nearly forgotten genius whose work has been locked in vaults for the past twenty five years, with the exception of a very few films circulated by the Museum of Modern Art -- for the first time in years a comprehensive selection of his works may be seen locally at the Telegraph Repertory Cinema Theater.

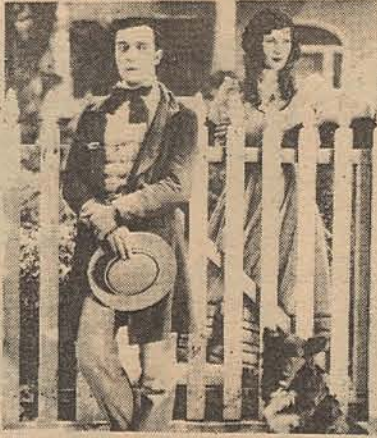

Keaton's work is characterized by integrated movements of objects (including props, bits of costume, animals, machines, vehicles, natural forces, and human beings) engaged in a series of actions furthering the development of plot. This treatment does not imply contempt for humanity but rather that man, animals, machines, and the natural world function as actors engaged in total commitment to the dictates of the action.

All response and relationship is conceived and expressed as movement, so that one can speak literally of Keaton's films as comic ballets of human and inhuman, animate and inanimate objects.

In his feature length films the structure generally possesses the following format. Keaton leaves an accustomed place, travels to a radically different environment, arrives in an unpleasant manner to find himself an alien in an incomprehensible world. The action then centers upon his attempt to adjust or survive and the series of situations which enable him to earn his desired goal.

The journey may be used as the vehicle to transport Keaton from the accustomed environment of the predictable to the cultural disorientation he faces as an alien in a foreign environment. The distance and difficulty of the trip and

In GO WEST (1925) the box-car of the train is both an uncomfortable cell and a symbol of his exile, the distance and duration of his journey is shown by a diminishing loaf of bread and sausage. When he reaches his destination he is spewed forth in a potato barrel by the action of the train.

The train functions as an active participant in the film "OUR HOSPITALITY" (1923). As it journeys from the North to the South, it passes from a straight-forward journey through a friendly environment to a point where it and its passengers are subjected to an increasingly hostile and primitive environment. Upon its arrival Keaton is violently ejected by the action of the environment upon the train.

Visual motifs and symbols are enmeshed in the film's structure. An object will be treated realistically in earlier scenes, then used throughout the action, picking up associations and inter-relationships along the way, each time moving further from realism into the world of expressionism where more and more incongruous events proceed with artistic inevitability leading Keaton, as director and performer, and his viewer to the brink of the absurd.

This may take the form of a visual leit-motif. In GO WEST a red bandana develops as a symbol from one of exile (it carries his few possessions) to unsuccessful adaptation to new environment (the cowboy's neckerchief) to its final extension in the form of a red devil's suit in which he leads a procession of 350 head of cattle through downtown Los Angeles.

A train takes on the role of deus ex machina in OUR HOSPITALITY. His journey brings him to the South, where he, as the last surviving member of the McKay family, becomes the sole target for his hereditary enemies the Canfields. The train is the only possible means of escape from the South and the situation. It repeatedly rescues him, even severing the rope which ties him to an armed and dangerous Canfield.

When Keaton is plunged with the fuel car into a cataract, he employs the car as a boat which he paddles with a shovel until the car is smashed upon the rocks. The combined action of the rope and one of the boards from the wreckage are not only responsible for saving his life but also enable him to rescue the woman he loves (a Canfield) and end the feud.

FROM CUBA TO THE COMRADES

(Pete Camejo, 29, of the Socialist Workers Party recently announced his candidacy for the Berkeley City Council elections in April. His brother Antonio is also a candidate for the City Council. This letter from him has just arrived from Cuba.)

TO THE BERKELEY COMMUNITY

Hotel Havana Libre
Havana, Cuba
Territorio Libre de America

Dear Friends:

The first thing that strikes you when you have been in Cuba for even only a day or two is the fantastic feeling of internationalism which permeates the people here.

Almost as fast as I have asked questions about the situation down here, I have been deluged with inquiries about the struggle at S. F. State. The Cubans identify with the struggle of Black and Third World people for self-determination back in the States, for this, precisely, was what they struggled for and won just ten years ago. They have fought and continue to fight for the right to run their own country in the interest of the working people of Cuba without the outside control of the United States which in the past brought only poverty and misery for the majority of the Cuban people.

It has been hard to adjust to the fact that the people in uniform here are on your side. The police force in Cuba is unarmed and by law may not use force in making an arrest. They must convince you to come with them. There are, of course, people with guns in Cuba, but these are the Cuban masses themselves, armed through the militias at the factories, schools, and farms.

Workers can be seen standing guard at every factory to defend them from CIA attempts at sabotage.

To the Third World Liberation Front convey my fraternal greetings and those of the Cuban people. We encourage you to continue your struggle for the right to determine and control your education in your own interest. Yours is but part of a world struggle against the ruling class of the United States. Your victory will be the victory of oppressed people around the world.

ness of fantasy, inexorably following their own logical progression. Keaton not only uses those elements in theater and film which are traditionally known as dynamic builds toward climatic action; but also adds a new progression -- an expanding range

At Last - A Real Magazine For Gay Guys Who Have No Hangups

Queen's Quarterly

Written by gay guys for gay guys — QUEEN'S QUARTERLY deals with all subjects of vital interest to real men. Here's what one subscriber says: "It's about time someone came along with a real magazine for gay guys who have no axes to grind, no hangups, no apologies about being gay. All other magazines assume we're sex maniacs with one-track minds. QUEEN'S QUARTERLY understands we're motivated by sex — but also that we're people with intelligence and more feeling than our straight counterparts. The articles and pictures are great — not for femmes but for masculine guys who know what they want and are man enough to get it. The name of your magazine must have been chosen with tongue-in-cheek — because there's nothing daft about your approach. Three cheers and a long life to you . . . it's about time we stopped apologizing about ourselves!" Signed: Jack Dralik, New York, N.Y.

QUEEN'S QUARTERLY is published four times a year. Each issue contains in-depth articles written from the gay guy's point of view. Many articles are profusely illustrated. In consideration of our young readers who still live at home, QUEEN'S QUARTERLY is sent via first-class mail in plain, sealed envelopes. Not available at newsstands.

OUR STAFF OF SEXUAL geniuses see the world as a pleasure garden of erotic delight. They have put together a collection of sex toys which are a remarkable realization of 20th century technology. Recent developments in the rubber and plastic industry have made all this possible. They have created toys of pain and pleasure and devices for love play, as well as erotic recreations from the past. The ultimate purpose of this research is to make your sexual encounters more rewarding. They think sex should be fun. They also feel that their unique inventions will blow your mind and will add a whole new dimension to your sex experience. If you're over 21 and have 25¢ handy you are eligible to receive a catalogue of twentieth century sex equipment.

BESTIALITY
by Dr. Cauldwell
A comprehensive study of what is perhaps man's oldest perversion — the use of animals as sex partners. Every facet of bestiality is explored insightfully, including the animals used, the methods employed, and an analysis of those persons — men and women — who are bestialists. Through the dozens of case histories you will gain penetrating insights into those practicing sex acts with animals.

AN UNDERGROUND MAGAZINE OF THE VICTORIAN ERA!

THE PEARL

Originally published as a monthly journal, it was privately circulated among a group of secret sensualists. Now read about the suppressed side of Victorian life. The wild orgies, and 19th century version of the "love-ins." This is an actual facsimile edition of the unobtainable rare three volumes of PEARL (July 1879 to December 1880.) It's a literary masterpiece which must be read to be believed.

Sexual Anatomy

What the field of sexology has needed for a long time is an authoritative economical book illustrating the sexual organs, and their functions, with unretouched, actual photos, not just drawings. Here it is! Edited by Joseph Dow, M.D. Contents include: physiology of erection; variations in sizes of penes (with average size as well as the largest sizes ever recorded); circumcision (both male and female); penile amputation; deforming the penis for increased coital satisfaction; the testicles; castration.

A Study of Adult/Child Sexual Relations PEDOPHILIA

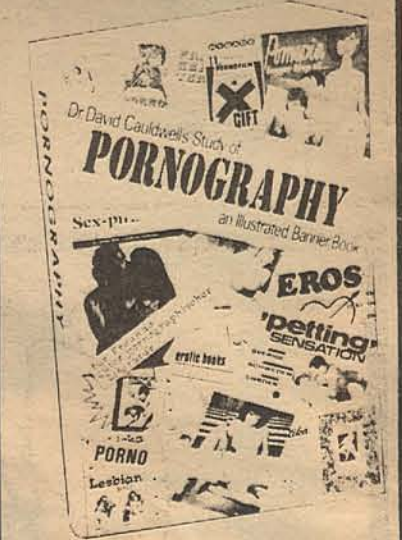

by John F. Trimble, Ph.D.
A sharp focus on adult-child sex relations with special emphasis upon pedophilic practices throughout the civilized world. Twenty-one fully detailed case histories show the extent of this sex practice throughout the United States, Europe, India and the Orient. Fully illustrated with both black and white, as well as color reproductions, this is the most comprehensive and up to date book available today.

Gay Sisters

WHAT HER "TEACHERS" DIDN'T KNOW ABOUT THE EXOTIC... SHE TAUGHT THEM!

ORIGINAL UN-RETOUCHED VERSION WITH UNRESTRICTED FULL VIEWS — 8MM BLACK & WHITE 219 FT. — $25.00

No subject seems to conjure up a more lurid impression than pornography. It is one of the most controversial and misunderstood words in the English language. Like all evil, pornography seems to be more in the eye of the beholder than anywhere else. No doubt some will find evil in this book, either in the text or the drawings and photos. This can be partially explained by the fact that it is possible to present today words and phrases, as well as pictures, which would have been suppressed only a few years ago. These include examples of erotic offerings from countries where pornography is legal. Dr. Cauldwell strips away all false notions and impressions regarding the subject and replaces them with facts and logic. The result is a text which fully explains the subject, without a word changed or deleted from the original printing. Included in this publishing is a reprinting of an example of classical Japanese erotica — The Nightless City. This is the story of the Lily, the fabled Gisha girl who rose from orphan to mistress of the Mikado. This, too, is presented in completely unexpurgated form. All the poetry of the Orient is captured in this beautiful, frank, erotic tale. Yet, there are still those who call it pornography.

ALL THE FACTS ABOUT FELLATIO, CUNILINGUS, ANILINGUS, etc.

by R. J. Hagerman
Actual Case Histories, reveal exactly what couples do during mouth-genital sexual acts! How they do it, what they feel, why they perform oral-sex acts! These Case Histories include Men and Women, Men and Men, and Women and Women!! Fascinating portions of this book include: Advantages of Oral Love; Oral Love & Incest; Sex-Driven Orality; Soixante-Neuf or "69"; Techniques of Oral Love; The Mouth of the Male Homosexual; The Mouth of the Lesbian; Anilingus; Oral Love-To Do or Not To Do!!! In Addition—special sections detail examples of Oral Love in erotic literature, reproducing complete, unexpurgated portions of "MY SECRET LIFE," "THE LASCIVIOUS HYPOCRITE," "PHILOSOPHIES OF THE BEDROOM," and more! At last, a book which bares to the world, the unvarnished truth about Oral Love and Lovemaking!

 of "divide and conquer" has proved very successful for the company and in this present struggle there are many regular employees scabbing for fear their union will not protect their jobs if they strike.

Still, the solidarity of the striking oil workers is very strong and they are prepared for another protracted war with The Rockefeller-controlled monopoly. There are accounts of workers' raiding parties that follow Standard trucks out of the plant and greet them with anything from slingshots to rifles. You may have read in the straight press last week about the mysterious attack on the Standard Oil dock in San Francisco.

Many of the oil workers express admiration for the striking students and teachers at S.F. State. As we left the Council meeting, a woman picket--one of the most militant persons in the strike--asked me, "Don't they have an injunction against them picketing over there at San Francisco State." I said, "Yeah, but they just ignore it."

You hear that!" she chided several union men, "They just ignore the injunctions." (A few days after the strike started, Standard got an injunction limiting pickets to five at any one site.)

Another worker told me, "I wish they would bring those students back out here, they did a lot of good."

He was referring to a group of S.F. State and Cal students who came out to join the oil workers' picket line and got Standard so uptight that they called down the Richmond dogs, who beat and MACED several people, including several women with small kids.

Even the most militant workers say that the strike cannot be won without the help of other unions and political forces. After the first instance of pig brutality--which actually went down at the Shell plant at Martinez, which is also still out on strike--the Contra Costa Labor Council threatened a county-wide general strike and set Jan. 29 (this Wednesday) as the deadline for its decision.

Since then the Richmond cops have gotten in on the act, and when Jacobs addressed the Richmond City Council, he told them that there was no point in talking to them anymore and implied that he would push hard for the general strike. "I just came here to make our position clear," he concluded.

A number of us in the area, working people from several different unions, have formed a Solidarity Committee to support the oil workers. We have passed out leaflets on the lines, in the union hall, and in the community, linking the fight against Standard to the struggle of students and black people in this country, and working people in other countries, against the same class enemy. We gave out "Support the Strike" buttons (with the fist), explaining that they were made up for S.F. State, but they're good for this strike, too. Our 100 buttons were gone in two days.

One oil worker who was enthusiastic about our leaflets suggested: "You guys must know a lot of students... Why don't you get them involved in this strike, too." This Sunday afternoon at the San Francisco Labor Temple, Jake Jacobs will join other local labor leaders at a rally in support of the striking teachers AND students at State. Monday morning, between 7 and 8 is a crucial time for picketing at the main gate of the Standard plant. It will be a very good time to start building a real alliance between students and other people in the movement and working class people. And there will still be time to get back to State, or Cal, to join the picket lines there.

If you can't make that set, we'll be picketing gas stations in Berkeley, Richmond and San Francisco all next week. And picketing goes on round the clock at the Standard plant. You are always welcome by the workers. For further information please call 237-7284.

STRIKE FEVER

By Phinas Israeli

Strike fever hit Berkeley Wednesday and the blaze has hardly begun.

Wave after wave of striking students marched around and through the UC campus shouting slogans of defiance at pigs and scabs alike.

Exactly one week after the Third World Liberation Front began a strike for self-determination the campus came alive with the rhythms of revolution.

As Manuel Gomez, a Chicano leader from Hayward State, was to say later in the afternoon: "Respond humanly, think creatively and continue to have tension in your guts."

"Because that's living, that's living!"

The TWLF policy of gradually building the strike with as much white support as possible began to pay off at high noon.

A few minutes earlier, the pigs invaded the campus. They drove a peaceful picket line at the main entrance to the campus and then took up positions there, at Bancroft and Telly. Soon they were stationed at Sather Gate and Wheeler Hall as well.

Thousands of students, stunned by the sudden swine occupation, milled around the unwanted officers, waiting to see what would happen.

At one o'clock it happened. Hundreds of students -- black, brown, yellow and white -- emerged from a Third World convocation in Room 11, Wheeler Hall.

Row after row, they marched through Sather Gate, their fists raised in unity, chanting On Strike! Shut It Down.

It was like magic. Hundreds of white students joined the line. Suddenly people knew who their brothers were and what they had to do.

The endless line circled Sproul Hall and came back through the center of campus. The pigs didn't dare get in the people's way.

The students then improved their path by promenading down Bancroft in front of the University. On and on the crowd paraded, adding Dwinelle Hall, a huge classroom building, to its route.

A squad of bewildered pigs emerged from the Sproul Hall basement to show the flag in Dwinelle. But the line had already moved on. Nearly two thousand strong, the students strode through Parrows Hall, another classroom container, to confront the scabs with the reality of the strike.

Mobile and disciplined, proud and determined, the march of the strikers shook the campus to the bones of student apathy and ignorance.

In an hour's time a mass movement had gotten itself together at Cal. The patterns of the struggle at SF State now design the images of UC Berkeley.

The beautiful march ended in a convocation in Pauley Ballroom. Third World speakers told exactly where the strike was at.

"The people are not asking for anything," Don Davis, a black spokesman for the TWLF said. "They are demanding what is theirs."

"We have nothing but our minds and our bodies," Davis said, "and we will put them on the line and stop this machine. It has to be stopped."

Jeff Leong, another TWLF spokesman, denounced the Administration's claim that it cannot find the bread for a Third World College.

Twenty-two million dollars has been appropriated, Leong charged, for the University's Urban Crisis Program. Only $400,000 from that sum will be used for community work, he claimed, and the rest would go for research and scholarship.

"We want that money," Leong demanded. "We know how to use it."

Earlier in the beautiful day BARB had a short interview with a plainclothes pig at Sather Gate. He said that the police had occupied Wheeler Hall because they had gotten a tip that a firebomb had been thrown into it.

"The police were disrupting the classes," he said, because they had to get the students out in case Wheeler was going to burn.

called the Third World Liberation Front a "miniscule minority." The bullshit rots putrid in the Berkeley sun.

The third World rebels, joined by their white brother students are going to shut Cal down. And win the demands.

Our officer of the law failed to mention that none of the pigs saw it as their duty to warn the Third World convocation going on in Wheeler that they might be about to fry.

But then the dedicated cop asked us a question, "Have you ever seen Hogan's Heroes, the television show?" he inquired.

"There's a big fat German sergeant in the show who keeps saying, 'I know nothing, I know nothing.'"

"Well, that's my position," he explained. "I know nothing, except what I'm told."

Everybody on campus Wednesday knew that Heyns had made a crucial mistake. The Machiavellian Manipulator called the pigs on campus at a time when the Third World was meeting in Wheeler, far from the madding crowd.

And the pigs themselves looked bewildered and disoriented. They stood in their circles pretending they were elsewhere. Mobs of previously non-striking students clustered around the occupying army.

At times it seemed as if the students thought if they waited long enough the pigs would simply

HORSESHIT HAS ALL THESE UNWILLING READERS

Horseshit Magazine has readers who are disgusted by its violent, gutter language; by its perverse, shocking ideas; by its immersion in every form of sex. Well, then, why do they read such a magazine? Because they think that the things Horseshit says are true. What happens is that someone picks up a copy of Horseshit and flips through it. Then, willing or not, he finds himself reading it. You see, even though there are people who dislike Horseshit, no one has ever claimed that it was dull. The usual reaction is just the opposite. Some people get violently angry. Others explode. Yet they read every word in it, complaining all the while. So here's a magazine that's diametrically opposed to every conventional idea, and yet people read it, and reluctantly admit that it's true. If you think wild-eyed, revolutionary raving upsets people, you're wrong. What shocks most Americans is the plain, unadorned truth. They're used to lies and nonsense, it's the truth that's new and strange and frightening to them. Try Horseshit and you'll see.

QUESTION: Would you please explain what tachycardia is? I am undergoing treatment by an analyst for anxiety which is causing tachycardia in my heart. However, neither he nor my M.D. will explain tachycardia to me.

I also wonder if getting stoned on grass would be detrimental to me?
My analyst doesn't care if I smoke weed. The tachycardia doesn't occur when I'm stoned, but sometimes happens when I'm crashing or just relaxing but never when I am up tight, so I am confused as to its being caused by anxiety. Can you explain?

ANSWER: Tachycardia means simply a rapid heart beat and is a symptom, not a disease. Apparently your physician has ruled out any organic cause for this condition.
Paroxysmal tachycardia is a condition in which the heart beat becomes rapid (perhaps 140 beats per minute), often without a known cause. The increased rate in itself may cause anxiety but usually is not harmful unless it persists for 12 hours or more. People with this condition should be under the care of a physician. Until medical advice is received, the patient should lie down and rest. Sometimes, putting one's fingers down the back of the throat and gagging will stop an attack of paroxysmal tachycardia.

Marijuana may increase the heart rate slightly in some individuals but the drug usually acts to relieve anxiety. Don't forget your unconscious. You may be uptight when you're not aware of it.

QUESTION: Recently, friends and I turned onto a drug popular with poets and literati generations ago, nitrous oxide. We found the experience to be among the most religious we have encountered with the strongest of the psychedelics.
I could easily see how it could be called simply "laughing gas" but if one knows where to go, it can take you to the void, the threshold of death, "IT," "Ohm" or whatever it all means to you.

Anyway, we took in alternate tokens of N2O and air, passing the tank around the room or sometimes taking two or three hits consecutively until either we were too far beyond to handle the mechanical valve, or until it was felt that we might not be getting enough oxygen to the brain anymore.

Thus my question is, what are the potential dangers involved in the use of nitrous oxide this way?
Would a person become anesthetized before damage would occur?

OM SHANTI

ANSWER: Nitrous oxide was a popular turn-on for medical students at least as early as 1808.
Later in the 19th century carnival side-shows offered "laughing gas" at 5¢ a whiff. Today it is one of the most widely used anesthetics and it is a curious fact that almost every person who has had a general anesthetic, i.e., "put to sleep," has gone on a far-out psychedelic trip.

The chief danger in the use of nitrous oxide for highs is death by asphyxiation. This could occur if a person strapped an anesthesia mask around his head, attached it to the tank, and turned the tank and himself on. Death is caused not from the effects of the gas but from lack of oxygen while the person is unconscious.

Another common danger, and one greatly feared by anesthe-tists, could be caused by eating just before using the gas. Nitrous oxide causes a significant number of people to be nauseated. Vomiting while under the effects of the gas could cause food to be aspirated into the lungs. Taking the gas directly from the tank might cause painful freezing of the lips or possibly the larynx.

Other dangers are theoretically possible but uncommon. Nothing is known about possible harm from chronic use of nitrous oxide. For most people it just seems to be a gas.

people. Sure the Newsreel man said, but he goes on, he know's he's learning, he'll make another film. I submit that's a shitty way to learn how to do anything. I submit that that's how to make lousy bread, lousy paintings, lousy dresses, and lousy films, and experience bears this out. Bridges are better made by groups of people, and houses too, but that's not the way to build a film.

Newsreel does not sign its films with any credit but Newsreel. Under such working conditions, this is entirely appropriate. Newsreel has totally succumbed to the credit card IBM machine assembly line technique without even beginning to understand what has happened. How can you expect a filmmaking unit working within such hideous constraints to produce inspired works, which must in turn, inspire the hope for a new world?

Maybe it's too much to dream, but there are films I have not agreed with at all, that have moved me more than anything Newsreel proliferated, from a Press Central (a basement with phones and mimeo with attendants) to a Sleep Central where a weary activist could crash in peace.

No extra rent, no real difficulty recruiting staffs, round-the-clock activity and no measureable alienation. This was the sort of base which enabled the Steering Committee and Executive Committee to meet virtually full time and "out-general" the administration.

The FSM centrals were prototype communes under action conditions. Since that time the Berkeley movement has fallen back on stodgier methods and fallen into a morass of noncreativity. Berkeley, the epicenter of the student revolt, hasn't had a success since.

Perhaps a general purge of the universities might be the best thing yet for the revolutionary movement.

12th Naval District) want to give. When asked what she thought the outcome might be, all she could say was "I really don't know. We'll just have to wait and see."

Sue has spent most of her time, including this past week, nursing out at the Oakland Naval Hospital, where most of the patients are returnees from Vietnam.

She talked a bit about the general feeling of those men regarding the scene and the war. "Their attitudes vary . . . too many of the men have lost too much over there; their buddies, parts of themselves. Many try to blank out their feelings and memories; but the majority are unhappy with the war . . . they just don't believe in it."

Neither does Sue Schnall, as her trial commences for her anti-war activities. Sue's court-martial is open to the public, starting at 9 AM each day as long as it lasts. It is being held in Building 178, on Treasure Island Navy Base.

has produced. THE BIRTH OF A NATION is one such example, and THE TRIUMPH OF THE WILL is another. I hated myself for rooting for the Klan, but Griffith's power as a filmmaker was such that he made me do it. I hated being awed by the Nazis, but Reifentahl's gifts were such that I had no choice.

Maybe it's too much to dream, but I'd like to see Newsreel come close, close even to the Huntley-Brinkley News, which moves me more than Newsreel films.

I had meant to write about FUSES by Carolee Schneemann, which will be playing at the Tele Rep's Cine Evolution Series this Wednesday. This is the best fucking film I've seen in a pig's year.

 But the black faculty said to him, "I know you can make it here." He flunked out the first quarter, but now has a solid 3.5 grade point average. The point, he told us, is that he always had the potential to learn, but the white man was not exactly eager to help him develop it.

 This is why the Third World people in the Third World College must have the power to set the policies for admitting students into the College, he explained.

KRISHNA MURTI

World renowned philosopher, author and teacher, J. Krishnamurti, will deliver his last series of public talks in the United States in Berkeley next week. His talks, at the Berkeley Community Theater, on February 3, 4, 5, and 6 will begin at 8 pm and will be broadcast live by the series' sponsor, KPFA-FM (94.1).

The TWLF at Cal recognizes that "we're at war. Not in the traditional sense, but on a highly political level."
 The TW leaders believe that through the convocations, the picketing and the leaflets that they are "slowly getting through to the white students."
 The strike was not a coffee-house inspiration, its leaders make clear. It will go on until the TWLF is satisfied that its demands are being implemented.

Nor is the strike a moral witness type thing. The aim, in the words of the TWLF leadership, is to "Close it down."

"We can go around and turn out classes," they explained, "or we can ask them to listen."

On Monday the Berkeley students were still being asked to listen. But BARB got the impression that the TWLF does not intend to remain indefinitely in the 'responsible' phase of its strike.

The outlook is this: that the strike will continue and intensify until the clock on the Campanile begins to toll the Chimes of Freedom for the Third World students.

 get the message and doubletime it off campus. And at times it seemed as if the students regarded the cops as new toys to play with, although it wasn't clear just how the game went.

But in the end the pigs were escorted off campus by a mob of students incensed at the Chancellor's unwanted gift.

Though Heyns certainly pulled a boner, it had to come. The people are committed to liberation, the oppressors to repression.

The same power structure which ordered the brutalization of the striking students at SF State, on Wednesday ordered its armed servants to block off Sather Gate.

There is a new sense of struggle in the air at Cal. A mature, determined student movement is striving to complete its embryonic journey.

"We're not here just to fight," Jeff Leong said. "We're here to win."
