is virtue the only reward?

There comes a time for admitting when one is wrong, and this is mine. J. G. Oliver and Max Scherr were right when they scolded me for offering reward money for information leading to the conviction of the man who threw the firebomb at Sproul Plaza and later let black college student Wayne Greene face the attempted-murder rap that followed. The reward idea was immoral and antisocial, and I hereby retract it (contributios to the Reward Fund will now go to the Wayne Greene Defense Appeal, unless the donors instruct us to the contrary).

In my anger and outrage at the injustice I saw in Wayne's trial, I acted blindly. As a juror, I saw only that an obviously innocent man had been framed and was heading for San Quentin, and I was impulsively willing to RE-SORT TO ANY MEANS (e.g., offering reward money) to save Wayne from prison. The imorality was in my willingness to "resort to any means."

With this all in mind, I think the Oliver-Scherr position deserves some examination: The real reason that Oliver and Scherr found the reward offer distasteful was that neither regards that the white guy who threw the bomb did anything wrong or therefore deserves any punishment. All three of these men have evidently decided that the Establishment is so rotten that any means, even firebomb-throwing, can be justified.

I see now that "reward-offering" and "firebomb-throwing" are curiously alike: each is supposedly done in the interest of a worthy end some ultimate instite or sense of justice, their own feeling for what is right and what he stands for is one helluva to the proposal p rig' and "firebomb-throwing" are curiously alike; each is supposedly done in the interest of a worthy end, some ultimate justice or rightness. It's the old rationale of the end justifying the means. But there's no such thing as ends and means: there's only means, All you really amount to in this world is what you do. Each man becomes that means he uses.

So if you throw firebombs at CHP officers (or if you drop napalm on Vietnamese civilians, or if you fire buckshot at Berkeley citizens) in order, you say, to help create some Bright New World, then you are identifying yourself as a Between in Violence; that's the kind of person you have become. And liever in Violence; that's the kind of person you have become. And when we get our Bright New World, how can I know that you won't once more resort to violence as soon as some new circumstance displeases you? The only answer is that I can never know.

This is the real reason I retract my reward offer: I want out of the immoral ends-and-means bag -- I want no association with those who can so blithely rationalize their resort to violent means.

lent means.

As I look again at Mr. Oliver's letter, other details begin to brother me, He so vigorously de-fends that the firebomber should be protected from Establishment justice that he seems to be saying that the bomer's life is some how more valuable and worthwhile than Wayne's (which is what the bomber's friends are also in efpomber's friends are also in ef-fect saying by keeping quiet). Is this because the bomber is some-body so special? Is it maybe be-cause he's some professor's son, as I have heard it rumored on the street? Or is it maybe because he's white that Oliver figures it's more important for him to be saved important for him to be saved important for him to be saved than Wayne?

Well, I have an opinion on this, I happen to think that Wayne Greene's life, considering who he is and what he stands for, is one helluva lot more important to the world than the life of a gutless bastard who throws a bomb in the dark and then runs and hides. Is that indeed the act of a true revolutionary, as you imply, Mr. Oliver? I wonder.

But Mr. Oliver would have us believe that he himself is made of true revolutionary stock. If that is so, then he and others like him should closely examine their own sense of justice, their own feeling for what is right and what is wrong. Have they heard that "Revolutionaries accept full responsibility for their acts"? I respect that a true revolutionary is a whole man, that he has an integrity which could not permithim on his brothers to lie back in quiet guilty cowardice while anor his brothers to lie back in quiet guilty cowardice while another brother dies a slow death paying for an act he never committed.

In his letter; Mr. Oliver wrote:
"Whatever the actiontaken by anyone here (right or wrong) we as a community are responsible... we, not the pigs or their racist coruts, should provide the justice." What justice does Oliver have in mind? Twelve months have charged with attempted murder.

fFditor's Note: Mr. French is Editor's Note: Mr. French is missing the basic point. That is, that Wayne Greene is NOT the victim of a bomb-thrower. He is the victim of Establishment justice. The agents of the Establisment are determined to have a victim preferably a black one. Insment are determined to have a victim, preferably a black one. It is not revolutionary responsibility to turn over to The Man victims from among the people. It is revolutionary responsibility to liberate such victims. And that, of course, includes Wayne Greene.)

Dear BARB:

Although I was listed as a coconspirator and not indicted by the Federal Grand Jury on charges of crossing the state line for the purpose of the Democratic Party Convention, I was indicted by the Cook County Grand Jury on two felonious counts of aggravated battery and two counts of resisting arrest.

I am alleged to have struck the Deputy Superintendent of Police who was in charge of all Chicago police forces in the field during the convention week. The maximum sentence which could be imposed upon me by the court would amount to twelve years in the amount to twelve years in the Illinois State prison. These are the most serious charges developed by the Daley machine in Chicago against the demonstration leaders. My trial date has been continued until July 31. REVOLUTION NO GAME

FROM SOMEWHERE IN THE THIRD WORLD Eldridge Cleaver sent this message through the underground.

One way of understanding what's going on, on the college campuses and the high school campuses in the United States today, is to take a look at what the essence of edu-cation is all about. Basically an education is simply passing on the heritage, learning, the wisdom and the technology of human history, passing it on to the coming generations. We want this information to be passed on to enable and to help mankind to continue to survive and to cope with our environment. In terms of surviving and coping with our environment, basically, we have two worlds to deal with. We have the natural world - the task of surviving against the given world, for which technology has been designed, this has to do with the natural resources, the task of ekeing a living from the earth it-self. And on the other hand we have the social world, the social sit-uation. And in both of these worlds we are in the habit of talking about, well we have an antagonistic orientation to our natural environment, we speak about the natural enemies of man, including everything from animals to the weather, but these elements have been given the label of enemy because they will kill people, we have to be able to harness these forces, we have to be able to adapt to the natural situation so that our survival will be enhanced, and for this purpose, science and technology, agriculture, industry all of these categories have been developed through practice by mankind coping with this physical environment.

We're also in the habit of speaking about certain things that happen the social situation that are hostile and inimical to the prospect of survival for mankind, and we also label these with the same designations as enemy. The distinction between the struggle for survival against the physical environment, and the struggle against the antagonistic forces and situations in the social realm is a very important distinction to make, because often the struggle in the social relam is really the only struggle that many people are caught up in, because they're not directly involved in struggling against the physical environment, but their survival depends upon struggling within the social realm, in terms of how the economy is organized, how the political system is organized, and how the social system itself is organized, so that many of our lives are played out against this background of strug-gling against the way that we help organize civilization.

The struggle against the physical environment, of course, is primary. we have organized our social situation in order to cope with the physical environment. The way that we organize agriculture, the way that we organize industry, the way that we organize the economy as a whole, the way that we organize the political situation, all of this historically has been towards facilitating and better enabling us to cope with the physical environment. Now that over the centuries a very complex situation has developed, at this point I think it would be useful to clarify a little terminology - the best terminology I know of, for discussing this distinction between the struggle against the physical environment and the struggle against the - I should say within the physical environment and within the social environment is the terminology developed by Marx, and he designates the struggle against or within the physical environment as taking place within the economic base of society. And upon the economic base of society is erected the superstructure of society. So that the struggle within the social realm takes place within the super-structure and the struggle in the physical realm takes place within the economic base. Now in the economic base we find the natural resources, the technology, industry, all the machines and the tools and the means that mankind has developed for coping with the physical environment are designated as the means of production, the means of producing material wealth, goods and commodities from the natural resources themselves.

Now all of the institutions of society, everything from the educational facilities to the hospitals, the postal service, everything that you think of as belonging to the organized aspect of society takes place within the superstructure. This is our lives that have been built and sustained by our means of producing the material wealth. Let's get to the essence of an education. In a very simple structured social organization, where technology and learning has not become complex, it would be possible for one's father or one's uncle to pass on the technology. Your father could teach you how to fish or your father could teach you how to deal with the rudimentary agricultural level. He could teach you how to hunt with a spear or a rock, or a bow and arrow. But as the situation becomes more complex and as the level of information and knowledge and understanding of the environment increases, to the extent that it requires people to specialize in passing on this information, this is where the problem really sets in. When it was necessary for people to be designated as teachers and to specialize in or devote all their time to passing on this information, then the learning situation itself had to be centralized, schools, universities what have you, were developed so that the maximum use of a man's time and energy could be made under the situation, under the circumstances. Now you can readily understand how in a very uncomplex social situation it would be understood by the community, by everybody involved in the social unit, that these places or institutions of learning were there to serve and to benefit the community as a whole. It would be absurd for a teacher or one who is charged with administering the learning process as a whole - it would be absurd for him to alienate himself from the community as a whole or to claim this as his own personal property, or to claim that he owns the body of information that is a heritage to mankind, this would be absurd, it would not be tolerated by the community and probably those charged with disseminating this information would not be - they never dreamed that they could get it they would take a period of time to alienate the learning process from the community and consider it as his own private property. Of course I have been talking about this as though society was an organism in which people were in harmony with each other, in which they cooperated with each other and in which they were not waging wars of aggression against each other and not in conflict with each other. But in actual fact and in terms of human history, this has not been the case.

In human history, we see that society has been broken up into classes, into antagonistic ethnic groups that struggle against each other for survival as they see it. They enslave each other and make their living at the expense of other groups, special interest groups are formed etc. So that in reality we have to look at our own situation have to look at the situation that exists in the economic base in terms of the class struggle, also in terms of the ethnic struggles that have gone on. And so that when we look at our own situation today we find and confine ourselves to the United States of America, we find that those who are very powerful in our society because of their relationship to the means of production, because they are rich, because they own the factories, because they own the natural resources, so that they have an advantage in the social situation. They are able to gain control of all the institutions in society, they're able to appoint people, who themselves may not be rich, or may not own stock, or any control over

Behind this bullshit is the fact that Johnson paid $32,000 for the old house at 1733 Francisco, tore it down a year ago and built four townhouses for another $80,000. He is renting the three-bedroom townhouses for $250 a month each.

Johnson has also tried to get the

Another big point in the Pioneer man can be a modern pioneer by building his own home and using his sweat as equity in the house. This would lower the cost of the house, bringing home ownership within the reach of even low income families. The sweat equity would amount to one-third of the house cost.

Walter F. Funk, vice president of Pioneer Homes, told BARB that the home buyer would have his work valued at $5 an hour.

Part of Johnson's plan is to have the buyers finance these homes under a federal mortgage program (Section 235 of National Housing Act) which hasn't had any money for a year and a half - and won't get any money for at least another year. another year.

If that isn't enough, it would take a $195 a week income to keep up all the payments on the house, even with the one-third equity, according to Federal Housing Administration figures.

The most totally replusive thing about Ronnie are those lies. He squawks about the silent majority. But when they voted (silently) on the UC campus, in a tightly controlled election they declared themselves solidly behind the People's Park and in opposition to Ronnie baby.

So baby Ronnie faces off reality with lies. "It was a trick. The ballot box was stuffed. They were confused."

TWLF strategy now centers around seeing that Third Worlders acceptable to students are appointed to coordinate the four ethnic divisions within the department (Black Studies, Chicano, Asian-

"If we can get a wedge in, then we can drive harder," then explained. Huen feels it will take several years to see if its basic demands are met by the university. The scenes on the Convention floor were out of a reactionary newspaper cartoon satirizing the New Left. The PL and anti-PL factions waved fists and red books at each other and drowned out rival speeches by shouting Mao mao mao tse tung (PL) and Ho Ho Chi Minh (anti-PL). The rivals came at times to moderate blows but usually the fights were orally fixated.

The source of this mad hell was PL's belief that their enemies were going to stack the convention. PL responded by bringing every body they could to the meeting. It turned out to be paramoia and PL had a heavily disproportionate representation.

Six of Los 7 de La Raza are in jail but their brothers and sisters in San Francisco's Mission District are getting it together. The young Latinos have been indicted for murder in the death of Joe Brodnik, an undercover cop known in the Mission for the two-foot rubber hose he reportedly often carried. Though Brodnik was shot with his partner's gun, Los Siete have already been found guilty by Mayor Alioto ("A bunch of punks") and the establishment press, which refers to them as hoodlums, thieves, and narcotics addicts.

NATURE NO CURE FOR PIG'S HANG-UPS

Some peoples' minds have been warped so badly they can never escape from their insane roles. Eight students learned that lesson during a camping trip to Russian River last weekend.

River last weekend.

Away from the asphalt and pollution of the city some of the Bay Area students were enjoying a nude swim in a secluded cove, feeling relaxed and close to nature. Suddenly wham! The joy of getting it all together

"It's nice when people with op-posing views can get together and talk," Tommie Smothers told us last week.

last week.

Tommie got a chance to speak with one of the opposition as a cop pulled us over in front of KPIK. Looking about slyly and imploring people not to panic, he left the car and approached the cop. His face went through his repertoire of little boy apolegetics as he spoke to the Man; "Is there anything I can say -- Like I'm sorry." Nothing...we got the ticket. the ticket.

I remember the silly Smothers from early high school listening. The silliness is still there marked now by a nervousness, and an urgency to erupting ideas as the outcast of the wasteland roams the country trying to get back on the tube on his own terms and trying to get the tube turned back

The eight year old awareness will cease once the great repression begins and they'll have ness will cease once the great repression begins and they'll have nothing but the environment of in-formation supplied to them to judge from. If we don't gain control of the media of TV in the next three to five years then it's all over."

Tommie feels that TV has been deserted by the very people that should be trying to save it, trying to save it with their eyes turned toward the role that it could, and must, play in the future. He feels that it's easy for us to fall into the trap of thinking that we've got all of the angles covered and that everything will work out.

But looking at history, he thinks,

"What are your specials going to be like Tommie?" With the gleeful expression of little boy stupidhood, he expounds: "There's going to be a lot of heavy sexual things and excitement with people like Billy Graham and Richard Nixon. Actually, I'm with the CIA and it's all a government plot. I'm watching you people." He flashes a squinty-eyed expression to the KPIX newslady.

But deeper concerns that prompt him. "The artist has the responsibility of reflecting what's happening in society. TV has been resisting because they're still living back in the 50's when nothing was happening so there was nothing to reflect."

One reason for all of the things that Tommie is doing is the need

"One trouble is that the networks only like people who talk nice to them," Smothers said, following with the profound proof.

"You say Hee-Haw." Enough said.

I asked Tom about the use of our live killer rock and roll on the TV. Assessing the effective force that it carried in our cul-

"Rock bands, for the most part, have no idea how to use TV effectively. They give little thought to the area of TV presentation and the camera crews aren't hip enough the canteracrews aren't np enough to be constantly on top of the solos and the breaks -- the best action. Rock bands should be much more aware of this and plan accord-ingly." Bands of the revolution, take note.

After Tommie left, something from New Orleans Jim Garrison echoed in my mind. "When this country becomes a tyranny, it will do so not through the use of guns but through use of the media."

But I didn't understand just how real the whole thing of species-extinction was -- is -- till on the afternoon of the first day of the summer solstice I held in my hand one of those not-good-enough, no-longer-thick- enough pelican eggs from Anacapa Island. It's utterly incredible, then, that five people last week could get together and hold a press conference in defense of DDT. Four of them are on the UC-Berkeley faculty, which explains why even a cautious person like Sen, Fulbright uses the phrase "military-industrial-academic complex,"

David Perlman pointed out in the June 24 SF Chronicle that there's no real scientific controversy about DDT at all. "The real struggle," Perlman said, "is economic and political; An industry is fighting for its economic

Question: "Why is DDT found in so many places?"
Trick Answer: "Because there an incredibly delicate method for detecting it. It will measure one drop in ten tank cars. This is why there has been all this meaningless fuss about DDT in mothers' milk, penguins, etc. Modern analytical techniques could detect DDT in one city lot if one pound were spread over the entire U.S.A."
Okay. The first sentence is true. The second sentence is tricky: one

The second sentence is tricky: one drop in ten tank cars sounds small relative amount of male sex hormone (testosterone) present in a healthy male Homo sapiens. Many of us obviously would miss that one part testosterone per billion. The third sentence is even trick-ier because it implies mer trace-

The amount of DDT in just one of those wilted pelican eggs is two billion times higher than the minimum detectable amount trickily described in sentence four. The fourth sentence also is misleading in that it's presently technically impossible to pick up the DDT molecules in that "city lot" and bring them together to record

Five Gi's in the Fort Dix (New Jersey) Stockade have been charged with "conspiracy to riot" in the wake of a rebellion in that jail. Two of the five are organizers for the American Serviceman's Union (ASU), which publishes the "Bond", an underground Gipaper. Many other Gi's in the stockade have been charged with riot, inciting to riot, and destruction of government property.

The rebellion occurred on June 5th, after the prisoners had been literally treated like dogs, according to the Bond. The men were made to stand in the sun for five hours, and then had to wait in line for three more hours for dinner.

POLICE CRIME NEVER PAYS

To the Editor:

The overground newspapers have portrayed the loss of the City of Berkeley's 'riot insurance' as some kind of disaster for the city. In fact it is a great opportunity to switch from a system of legal roulette to a system of just com-pensation to victims of police mal-practice, false arrest, brutality,

In recent years the Berkeley City Council has followed the prac-tice of uniformly rejecting all claims filed against it for police malpractice, without making any investigations into the merits of the case. These cases were always referred to the city's insurance company to be defended. Suits against the police have been handled by the insurance company lawyers in exactly the same fashion as automobile collision cases or any other civil law suits. They were settled or tried purely on the basis of the prediction of the law-yers as to the final outcome in a jury trial.

The calculus made by the insurance company lawyers in deciding whether or not to settle a case, and for how much, was "how much money will a jury of upper middle class Oakland citizens award to this person for what the police results in a very low figure. The rules of evidence in such trials are oriented around attempting to prove loss of money or loss of income. It is very difficult to obtain damages for intangibles, the humiliation, deprivation of constitutional rights, etc.

By allowing claims for damages against the police to be handled by the insurance company, the city has taken the position that they will pay as little as they can pos-sibly get away with after stalling with pay as interest usely can loss sibly get away with after stalling the case as long as they can. They have excused this by saying that they are required to do thid by the insurance company. In fact, it is the responsibility of the City Council to weigh each claim on its true social merit and to make prompt and just compensation to the aggrieved citizen.

Now that the city has lost its insurance, it can do what many other cities, including Oakland, already do which is to be self-insuring and handle claims against the police itself.

An insurance company charges a premium high enough to cover all the claims that it is likely to have to pay out on account of suits active the the contract of the contract of the country of the count

The recent experience of this community makes it clear that we have precious few protections against police malpractice.

We should demand that the City Council immediately adopt a procedure so that it and it alone is responsible for awarding fair compensation to the victims of illegal see p. 20 clothes pigs in a Lake Merrit men's room, arrested, and died a day later.

PROFESSOR'S WIFE VOWS TO AVENGE HUSBAND'S DEATH

Jensen told BARB Wednesday that an investigation has begun and should not take longer than "a couple of weeks".

On Tuesday Mrs. Caplan repeated to BARB the charge she had made earlier to the mass media: that her husband was murdered by plainclothesmen whom he thought were robbing him.

Officially, Caplan died of natural causes. "They say he died from a stroke," Mrs. Caplan said bitterly. "I say, what caused that stroke? That beating!"

Philip Caplan was arrested on Wednesday at a public toilet in the park at Lake Merritt. Chief Gain of the Oakland police announced on Monday that Caplan was seen masturbating in a public toilet by a plainclothes officer.

Ralph Nathanson, the Caplans' lawyer claims that Caplan was completely innocent of any such charge, that the plainclothesman did not adequately identify himself to Caplan, and that Caplan was subdued brutally by the two toilet thugs.

Mrs. Caplan further charges that e officer and his partner began beat her husband after he told to beat her husband and them he was a professor.

After his arraignment, on Tues day of last week, Caplan col-lapsed. At 11 a.m. Saturday he died.

Caplan's widow responded to Chief Gain's report to the press by saying with bitter irony, "The whole thing's exonerated. My husband's a dirty man." (Throughout her conversation with BARB Mrs. Caplan spoke of her late husband in the present tense.)
She promises to bring her husband's death "to the attention of everyone in the United States in everyone in the United States in order to expose the corruption of the police department in Oakland."

The late professor's friends, ex-students and colleagues from outside California, Mrs. Caplan added, "are organizing a campaign to investigate the Oakland police."

Attorney Nathanson, himself a friend of Dr. Caplan, told BARB that if the claim against the city, which he is filing today, is rejected, then he will begin a civil lawsuit against the city.

Mrs. Caplan told BARB something about her husband's involvement in racial issues (he was also a public opponent of the War in Vietnam).

As a teacher at the University of Southern Alabama, Dr. Caplan against Lurleen Wallace," Frances Caplan explained,

"Despite harassment, he was kept there (at U.S.A.) for three years because he had the sympathies of the students and college president.
"But you can't do much in Mobile, Alabama," she added.
After Mobile, Caplan taught at Yoorhess College in South Carolina, a school for black students. Had he lived, he would have begun in the fall to teach at a college for black students in Georgia.

"He believed in the essential goodness of man and was des-troyed," Mrs. Caplan said, "The cops out here are a law unto themselves -- that's law and order."

the means of production or the natural resources, but because of their educational capabilities they are able to be appointed to positions of managing society. But at the top of the social organization in the United States, we have a ruling class and because of the wealth of this ruling class, it is able to dominate American society, determine who is appointed for instance to the judicial system, the judges, able to determine who is appointed to the Board of Regents to administer the colleges, able to determine who is elected to office, because they control the wealth, and we all know that it's necessary to have vast amounts of money at one's disposal in order money at one's disposal in order to wage a political campaign.

Black records. position, Black people, Mexican-Americans, Puerto Ricans, In-dians, Eskimos virtually every Americans, Puerto Ricans, Indians, Eskimos virtually every ethnic group including poor white people and also middle class college students, we all find ourselves in the position where our lives are manipulated and controlled by those who have this advantaged social position. So that we have to struggle in order to survive, but we're not struggling against the natural environment, our struggle is not in reality taking place against nature itself, we're place against nature itself, we're not struggling against the earth, but we are struggling against the way society has been organized. We're struggling against those who have organized society to their advantage, in order to continue their con-trol and rule of the entire social unit. I'ts very important for us to understand that we are called upon to wage this struggle with the same desperation, and the same "do or die" necessity that a caveman in some forgotten time in human his-tory had to struggle against the natural elements, in reality, our adversaries are other men, other adversaries are other men, other women and other social classes. In terms of the racial strife within the United States our class struggle is often hidden by our ethnic is often hidden by our ethnic struggle, we are manipulated along the color line as well as along the class line. We are exploited economically, and we are discriminated against racially also. Today, as always, the struggle of the exploited people within the United States is taking place on all fronts, but the most sensational and explosive clashes are being centered and focused more and more on the and focused more and more on the college campuses, and on the high school campuses. We understand that those who control the mind can control the body, so that those who are interested in keeping people in oppressed positions and then dominating their perspective and their outlook on life, understand that it's necessary for them to control the learning process in order to brainwash people, in order to camouflage the true nature of the society. So they can sanctify their system, teach the exploited people and the oppressed people to virtually love the system that's exploiting and oppressing them. So that they have an interest in seeing to it that the content of the curriculum is to their liking, and that it does not expose the true nature of the decadent and racist society that we live in. On the other hand, the exploited and learning process in order to brainthe other hand, the exploited and oppressed people have the opposite interest. They have an interest in exposing the true nature of the society and in educating themselves and their children on the nature of the struggle and in transferring to them the means for waging the struggle so they can be aware of the level of the struggle, of the progress and the history of the struggle and the nature of the enemy and the true vulnerability of the enemy, in other words we want to be able to teach ourselves and our children the necessity for struggling against this ruling class. What we have to realize above all else, is that our enemy, and that which we in fact are struggling against is not an individual college president or high school principal, or a board of regents or the board of education, but it's the entire social structure, we're struggling against the capitalist system, which organized itself in a way that purchases our lives, that exploits us, and forces us into position where we have to wage a struggle against the social organization in order to survive.

the social organization in order to survive. One of the techniques or one of the weapons that the enemy uses against us in our struggle is to turn words against us, to define our struggle in terms that places our struggle in a bad light, so that the word revolution is given a bad name, is looked upon as a negative term, but what it means and what it means to us is that we are trying to change a system that has historically enslaved our people, has continually exploited us, has discriminated against us, and made our lives miserable, and kept us under-developed and kept us blind, and kept us in a form of slavery, one form of slavery or another. Of course, our struggle has continually forced the slavemaster to modify the terms of the slavery, but every modification that has been made has only been made because the slavemaster found it necessary to make a few minor adjustments in order to continue his exploitation of us on a new level. So the process of breaking out of slavery, the process of breaking out of slavery, the process of breaking out of a sect of social arrangements, of a social organization that is killing us, this process is named revolution, we are revoliting and rebelling and moving against a system that is our enemy. So that to us the word revolution should be a beautiful word, because it's a word that promises us hope, that promises us a better life and we should not be ashamed to call ourselves revolutionaries.

We are a revolutionary people, our very social situation forces us to be revolutionary people, if we're not going to be revolutionary people, we have to accept the designation as satisfied slaves, if we aren't satisfied, then that means we have a revolutionary consciousness. It's important for us to be consciously revolutionary, to understand that we are revolutionaries, and to understand that it's right for us to be revolutionaries, and that in fact the enemies are the ones who are wrong.

The enemy uses words against us, talks about 'crime in the street', talks about 'disorders', talks about 'law and order' all of these are smoke screens, these words are smoke screens, these words are smoke screens, in order to confuse us, in order to create conflicts between the various exploited groups and to turn them against each other. It's the old technique of divide and conquer, in fact, what we need and what - if we had any sense at all - what we would be working for is to create an alliance between all the exploited people within the society, so that we could join together to create machinery, so we could coordinate our struggle, coordinate our attack against the capitalist system, and to destroy it. Because as long as the capitalist system exists, by its very nature some people would have to be exploited in order for others to be rich and poweful, while the others are powerless and in an oppressed position. So that it's a glorious term - revolution is a glorious term - revolution is a glorious term, it's a term to be proud of, and we should know that we are morally right, we are right in every sense of the term, that the oppressor is the one who is wrong and that the oppressor has no rights, which the oppressed are bound to respect. History is on our side, and justice is on our side, and it's only aquestion of removing from positions of power, those who are able to judge our struggle, and to pass out judgement that denounce us and that deny us our true petuate a system of exploitation, on the one hand it's designed to keep black people and so called minorities ignorant, and on the other hand it's designed to keep the masses of white students in harmony with this system. To keep them supporting the system, to indoctrinate them to fight the wars, that protect the system, and that extend the influence and the power of the system.

So that we're all becoming conscious of the evil of the system, conscious of the fact that this system can no longer survive we have a historic opportunity for attacking the system and destroying it at its root. So that all of the manipulations that the capitalists and the watch-dogs of the capitalists go through are designed to destroy the revolutionary member from the exploited classes sitting on the Supreme Court, in the halls of Congress and in the Executive Branch of the Government, then these revolutionaries in office would give out revolutionary decisions, the revolutionaries on the benches of the court would give out revolutionary decisions on court cases, so that the capitalist and the racist police would be judged wrong, and they would be the ones who would be sent to prison, they would be the ones who would be forced to raise a hundred thousand dollars in order to get out on bail, in other words, the oppressed people have to take control of the government, they have to take control of the government, they have to take control of the state, so that in their hands, these instruments of power would be turned against the exploiters, the exploitative system would be dismantled and we could build another system that would not be based on a 'dog-eat dog' epic of competition, of corrupt methods of exploiting people. It would be based on how best to organize the industries, the means of production in order to give everybody a good life. So that our struggle to gain black studies departments on college campuses, our struggles to have black studies added to the curriculum across the nation, this is a struggle that the enemy sees as a grave danger. The enemy also recognizes the struggle of young white people on the college campuses, and high schools as a grave danger, and heis right, it is a grave danger, because what we realize is that the education that is being given out are designed to per-thrust of the movement, it designates as criminals those who are in the forefront of the struggle, and those who are guiding the struggle.

Historically the struggle in the educational arena, in terms of black people, have been waged from, on the one hand the slavemaster not even wanting black people to learn how to read and write, to black peple, on the other hand learning how to read and write, and then the struggle transposed itself over into what black people were allowed to read and write, until today black people have reached a point where they want to control totally what they read and write, and this has been a steady struggle against the opposition of the slavemaster, it's been defeat after defeat for the slavemaster, until now we have burst into consciousness, until now we have realized the necessity of taking control over our education, and when you see this long line of progression from the struggle to become literate to the struggle to become literate to that struggle to become literate to the struggle to heavy to control totally the education, we can see the true nature of the opposition that we face, so that all of these racists and liberals who are opposing our moves today, to gain control of our education, they are nothing but the descendants of the outright racist slavemaster who opposed us in our attempts to learn how to read and write on the plantation during the days of slavery. So that all of their rhetoric, all of their arguments, all of the changes that they go through, in the last analysis are a continuation of the desire and the necessity of the slavemaster, of keeping us ignorant and unable to manipulate ideas, because in order to organize a revolutionary struggle, we must be able to do this. We must have knowledge of ourselves and our enemy, and of the situations that we find ourselves, in order to organize a true revolution to move against them.

One of the great dangers that our revolutionary struggle faces, perhaps the greatest danger is that we historically have tended to compartmentalize our struggle, that is, we get hung up on one aspect of the struggle, without having an overall revolutionary perspective and to realize that the struggle that we wage is against the total social organism. That today when we're hung up on struggling against the way that the educational institutions are controlled, we focus all of our attention and all of our energy on the educational system, and we don't realize - or our tactics and our strategy would seem to indicate that we don't realize - that this is only one aspect of our struggle and that the same people who control the educational facilities, control the rest of the social structure, everything from the economy, the judiciary, the political parties, the political instruments, every aspect of society is in the same hands. So that we need a broader strategy, a revolutionary strategy that aims at overthrowing the rule of this class as a whole, and not just to be going through changes on the college campuses.

The repression against the movement, that the United States is now moving, is not a sign of strength on the part of the ruling class, but rather the sign of weakness of the ruling class, and a sign of the strength and effectiveness of the movement. All of the lies, the subterfuges, the hypocrisy of the ruling class has been exposed that, they can no longer hope to control or manipulate the movement bywords alone, they have to resort to the brutal, repressive forces of the police department. The movement itself has drawn several lessons from this reaction of repression by the ruling class, in the first instance, the clear cut nature of power in the United States is being revealed and the racist policies of the ruling class. On the one hand the rebellion of Black students and black people thoroughly exposes the racist policies of the administration of the various colleges and high schools, and on the other hand the repression that the black - that the allies of blacks are receiving it's really incorrect to speak of the white section of the movement as being the allies of blacks, because in reality there is no such thing as a black movement and a white movement in the United States, these are merely categories of thought, that only have reality in terms of the lines that the ruling class itself have drawn and are implementing amongst the people, because the United States is a sea of thought, that only have reality in terms of the lines that the ruling class, it's one single structure, and the whole drama of the black liberation struggle, and the revolutionary struggle in the white community is being played out on one stage. Because of the division has the ruling class, here's not a ruling class for blacks and a ruling class for whites, but there's one single ruling class, there's not a ruling class for blacks and a ruling class for blacks and a ruling class for black the struggle for liberation.

One of the great weaknesses in the movement at this particular time, is in the campus focus of the attack upon the ruling class and the power of the ruling class, And this has to, do with the compartmentalized thinking of the traditional American society in which the college community and the college campus is viewed as something seperate and distinct from the rest of the community, The college is not really looked upon as a part of the community, people who are not concerned with themselves going to college or who have no children in college feel as what's going on, on the campus is none of their business, but nothing could be farther from the truth, because in reality, your colleges, all institutions that have been set aside to perpetuate the human heritage, and to pass on human wisdom, the know-ledge, and technical skills for the further development of society and civilization. And every single individual living in a given society has a stake in what goes on, on the college campuses, they have a stake in seeing to it that what happens on the campus is proper, and that the best interest of all the community is being served. On the

that the best interest of all the community is being served. On the other hand, the attacks focused on the college campuses serve to expose the nature of power in the United States, because when you look at the composition of the board of regents and administrations, and councils that control the colleges, we find them replete with military men, retired generals, foundation personnel, and big businessmen. So that we could say that the boards that administer the universities are a good barometer, or a clear barometer of the stratification of power in the society as a whole. We don't see poor people represented on the boards of administration of the institutions of learning, this is be-see poor people represented on the boards of administration of the institutions of learning, this is because in the society beyond the college campus, poor people do not exercise or possess any power, if they did have the power, they would be in a position to see to it that some of their members were appointed to these boards. But those who control the economy, those who control the various sources and levels of power in the community and around it, are able to have their lackeys and their flunkies appointed to administer these institutions of learning. So that this needs to be brought out much more clearly and prought home to the community, because the composition of the boards brought home to the community, because the composition of the boards of administration of the institutions of learning indicate clearly, the powerlessness of the various sectors of society. A connection needs to be made between the college campus and the community so that the repression and the tactics of the ruling class would be defeated, by the total community being involved.

As long as the pigs are able to vamp on the college campuses and to commit mass arrests, and brutality commit mass arrests, and brutality against the students and there is no against the students and there is no solid and massive community support, then they will be able to get away with this, and slowly but surely they will be able to grind the movement to a halt by cutting off wave after wave of leadership, and hounding the leadership, and hounding the leadership out of existence. It's a mistake to think that the ruling class cannot be successful if a proper response is not made from the movement, this is a mis-from the movement, this is a mistake that's been made time and time again in the various revolutionary struggles around the world. There have been cases of the revolutionary movement being very highly advanced.

advanced, very well organized, much more organized than we are in the United States, with a higher theoretical understanding, and with very good party machinery, etc. and they have been crushed because the power structure would resort to unlimited.

The Panthers conducted a further investigation into Bill's case and decided beyond a reasonable doubt that Brent was not an agent. Things became a lot clearer when a bunch of ex-Panther stoolies began singing Pig composed songs. Brent refused to have anything to Party criticized itself and stated publicly Bill was not a Pig.

I knew a little bit of Bill Brent. He was a very serious cat, a guy who had the ten point program memorized word for word. Bill wrote poetry and songs and could quote Eldridge and Huey like the Bible. He seemed to be a combination of hard and soft, a skilled knife fighter who was close and gentle with Children.

universal education for the people. What it has been providing is universal brainwashing that masquerades as universal education, the quality of the-education is contemptible, it's inhumane, and it's only geared to provide a level of intelligence or a level of competence that will enable the product of the educational system to become war material, to be exploited by the capitalistic economic entities within the United States. So what we're into today is not best interests of the community as a whole, and no longer in the interest of the crosswork monopolies that are being administered by racists and by pigs who only want to exploit people and sentence people to be cogs in a wheel. In the final analysis, the struggle that is now going on, on the college campuses, cannot be settled on the college campuses, it has to be settled in the community, because those that sit on the boards of adsettled in the community, because those that sit on the boards of administration of the colleges do not derive their power from the fact that they're sitting on the board but rather, they sit on the board because they have power in the community. Their power is based in the economic institutions of society and other institutions of society and other institutions that are lety and other institutions that are part of the power structure, and because of their relation to these sources of power, they're able to appointed to these positions of administration. So that we have to administration. So that we have to destroy their power in the community, and we're not reformists, we're not in the movement to reform the curriculum of a given university or a given college or to have a Black Student's Union recognized at a given high school. We ognized at a given high school. We are revolutionaries, and as revolu-tionaries, our goal is the trans-formation of the American social

In order totransform the American social order, we have to destroy the present structure of power in the United States, we have to overthrow the government. For too long we've been intimidated into not speaking out clearly what our task is, our task is the overthrow of the government, it has to be understood as being nothing but the instrument of the ruling class. The courts, the congress, the legislature and the executive branches of the state and federal government are nothing but instruments in the hands of the ruling class, to see after the affairs of the ruling class, In order to transform the Ameriafter the affairs of the ruling class, and to conduct the life of society in the interest of the ruling class. So we're out to destroy this, to smash this machinery and to erect new machinery, but new machinery cannot be erected until the present machinery is destroyed. It is not the task of revolutionaries to keep their heads with the key wendering. their heads up in the sky, wondering about what they would do, when they're in power, what they haved do at the present time is to have their mind centered on destruction, we're out to destroy the present machinery of the ruling class, that is our task and that's what we must is our task and that's what we must be about. And we say that we will do this by any means necessary. We must do this by the only means possible, because the only means possible is the means that's necessary, and the only means possible is the violent overthrow of the machinery of the oppressive ruling class. That means that we will not allow the ruling class to use brutality and force upon us, without using the same force and brutality upon them. We must destroy their institutions from which they derive their power, a given college president may have his power as a result of being involved in a corporation. We must attack him on the ation. We must attack him on the campus but we must also pursue him off campus and attack him in his lar, the lair of his power, in his corporations, this could be through boycotts of the products of that corporation, or through the physical destruction of the property of that corporation, or the physical alienation of him as an individual.

We must not get into a bag of thinking that we're involved in a game, a revolution is not a game, it is a war. We're involved in a war - a people's war against those who oppress the people, and this is the war in the clearest sense of the word. It is only that our resistance is under-developed, the repression is over-developed and it is our resistance that is under-developed, because the ruling class has arsenals of the materials of has arsenals of the materials of war to unleash upon us, and they're only using these timidmaterials at this particular time, because our resistance to their aggression has heretofore been timid.

ALL ABOUT

We all knew that Senator Mc Clellan wasn't very smart. But no one knew until last week, how hard-

McClellan and other pigs around the country have been screaming these past few months about how outrageous the Black Panther Party They've raided over thirty was. They've raided over thirty Panther offices, they've convened secret federal grand juries, and they've endlessly oinked to the press about the Panthers.

Last week, they had to produce something to back up their bluster. Naturally, they first paraded out the usual complement of policemen, all of whom proved they knew very little about the Black Panther Party.

Party.
Finally, last Wednesday, they gave us Larry Clayton Powell, whom they tried to pass off as a former Panther captain, and his wife Jean. The Powells told some lurid tales about the Panthers that made big headlines in the Bay Area.

Area.

The McClellan Committee doesn't care if the testimony was true or not. It has created the necessary hysteria in which the pigs will have a freer hand, they hope.

Now listen to this about Larry Powell. Early this year, Powell and another Panther, Wendell Wade, held up a night club in Oakland, and were arrested. The Panland, and were arrested. The Panland.

Wade, held up a night club in Oakland, and were arrested. The Panthers refused to bail them out, and threw them out of the party for "acts of banditry".

Powell and Wade spent three months in jail awaiting trial. Wade was convicted of armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon. He was sentenced to from five years to life and began his sentence on May 6, 1969.

On May 5, the day before he was to go to Vacaville, Wade wrote to Panther chairman Bobby Seale.
"Everything was wrong in what I did," Wade wrote, "but I am not a renegade. I've caught hell from the pigs, from the party and from my lawyer.
"Larry Powell copped (pleaded guilty) to one count of armed robbery. He had been meeting with a (police agent). They bailed him out. He joined the other side along with (Tommie) Jones. The only reason I am here is because someone snitched on me."
Wade's prophesy was not long reason I am here is because someone snitched on me."

Wade's prophesy was not long in coming true. On May 10, Larry Powell pleaded guilty to one count of armed robbery. He was sentenced 'to eight months in prison, with three years probation. (Wade, who didn't make any deals got five to life.) Shortly afterward, Powell's sentence was further reduced to three months in prison, the time he had already served awaiting trial.

In effect, Powell was given a suspended sentence for participating in the same robbery as Wade did. You don't have to be Sherlock Holmes to figure out why. A little more than a month after he was released from prison, Larry Powell was testifying before the McClellan Committee.

been in some trouble with the pigs down there," Seale said.

Panther chief of staff David Hilliard had stronger words for Powell. "He's a viperous, lying scoundrel," Hilliard said. "He's lying, everybody knows he's lying. He came into the party as an agent and that's what he is now."

Hilliard specifically denied Powell's charge, that he had wrested control of the party from Seale. "Anyone who's familiar with the Black Panther Party knows that Bobby's the chairman," Hilliard said.

Bobby's the chairman," Hilliard said.

Seale and Hilliard also noted that beginning in January of this year, the party had expelled 100 people in the Bay Area, and 100 people in the Los Angeles area for "acts of banditry" and other actions detrimental to the party and to the black community.

If you don't quite believe that the pigs would trade Powell a long prison term for testimony, listen to this from Charles R. Garry.

After the shootout last April 6 in Oakland in which Bobby Hutton was killed and Eldridge Cleaver wounded, Carry said, the Oakland Police Department approached each one of the other six Panthers indicted along with Eldridge and offered them a deal to testify

District Attorney Lowell Jensen has failed in two attempts to pin a rap on Warren Wells for the shootout. Both trials ended in hung juries.

On Wednesday, Panther Bursey, who ran for Berkeley City Council with Bill Miller this spring, went on trial for the shootout at the Alameda County Courthouse as the Coulder Lorsey reaching tries to Alameda County Controlled as the Coakley-Jensen machine tries to jail a Panther for the death of Bobby Hutton & the exile of Eldridge Cleaver. VICTIMS NEEDED

Two victims of police brutality are needed by the Berkeley-Albany ACLU.

The ACLU has photos and several witnesses who saw a police attack on two young men May 20, but the victims haven't come forward as of yet. The assault occured in front of Swenson's Ice cream shop on Durant (between Bowditch and Telly), at about 5 pm.

The witnesses and pictures document two men being beaten to the ground by a group of Berkeley cops. One pig continued his assault, with fists and club, even after his victim lay helpless on the ground.

All this evidence can be a good weapon against the cops in court, only if the victims will come forward. They are asked to call the The ACLU has photos and sev-ward. They are asked to call the ACLU at 548-1322 of 548-0921 for more information.

TWA flight #154 was packed with students, mothers and children. Five days later the same plane would be hijacked to Cuba, but now the big jet continued on its normal course between Oakland and New York City.

A cardboard box containing a dog suddenly burst open in the row of seats in front and to the left of ours. Out popped a nervous miniature schnauzer who immediately jumped onto the lap of its master, a young Army captain. The stewardesses searched for a new cardboard box and I settled back in my chair, plugged in the stereo headphones and flipped from one to another of the 8 music channels. Bubble gum music on one, travel tunes on another, cha-chas, classical, etc.

I tuned to Hayden's Surprise Symphony, closed my eyes and soon had a pleasant sensation of floating above the clouds. My laboratory assistant played peekaboo games with a child in front of us. Occasionally I would open my eyes to see blond hair and a pair of small blue eyes peering from the side or top of her seat.

A crew member swung a movie screen into place and soon we were watching "Otley", starging Tom Courtenay. Good scenes we were watching "Otley", starging Tom Courtenay. Good scenes of England, funny references to grass. A spy story soon unfolded and the passengers watched avidly as hapless Courtenay received one beating after another.

Even the pretty blond child's attention was caught now by the film. A villain aimed his longbarreled pistol at Courtenay and pulled the trigger. A tremendous explosion blew the villain to small bloody bits. Courtenay grimaced and blinked as he looked at the pieces of body scattered about the subway station.

The children and I watched as beatings and killings continued in living color. Near the end of the film, a huge bus was backed slow-

But there was no nudity that I can recall so the film was suitable for all ages. Films have been generally available only 60 years or so and we hardly know what effects movies and television produce. Mandalas? Try sitting in a room facing a TV set and see if you can avoid looking at the image.
