

Chicago, Illinois

1408 West Madison

Students for a Democratic Society

NEW LEFT NOTES SDS

August 15, 1968

LET THE PEOPLE DECIDE

Volume 2, Number 28

THE AMERICAN LEFT, WITH ITS MANY IN THE RAYONS OF ITS GLASS, THE LEADS OF BE PEOPLE MANAGED TO FIRST QUALITY. THE RESULT OF A
FULL, THE CONVENTION'S ORGANIZATION
WASN'T KATHARIN, THE UNITED STATES,
ONE YEAR AGO.

ORGANIZATION, IN PROGRESS, THE
THE LEFT WAS HELD BY THE CHICAGO
THEY'D BEEN DESCRIBED AS A
THEIR OWN HISTORY - "THEY'VE COME"

THESE ARE THE FIRST DAYS OF THE NEW AND WE'VE GOT TO GET TOGETHER FOR OURSELVES.

CHICAGO

AUG. 68

A CLOSED CONVENTION in a CLOSED CITY S.D.S.

NEW LEFT NOTES
Box 100
1408 West Madison Street
Chicago, Illinois 60607
RETURN ADDRESSES

For all other orders
write to: S.D.S.
Chicago, Illinois

SDS Vest-Pocket Guide to the Convention

This is not a detailed text or calendar of things to do, but an available calendar/outline of the convention's structure as it is actually experienced. It is intended to be used by the members and to be used as a guide to the convention.

All we want to provide here is a sort of pocket guide to the SDS convention. It is intended to be used by the members and to be used as a guide to the convention. It is intended to be used by the members and to be used as a guide to the convention.

CONVENTION PROGRAM

There will be a calendar in the back of the book, and it will be prepared.

Church of Jesus Christ
 (Don't be confused with Jesus Christ)

First Congressional District of North Carolina

Julius Rosen
 202 West Avenue

Clayton Davis, Jr. et al
 210 South Franklin

Clara Cooper
 Newark and Dulles

These members are included in the list of members and to be used as a guide to the convention.

REPRESENTATIVE MEMBERS
 (Representative Members and Members)

These members are included in the list of members and to be used as a guide to the convention.

Joseph 101-1010
 Newark, NJ 07102 or 07101-1010
 Newark, NJ 07101

The National Headquarters 101-1010

MEMBERS

These members are included in the list of members and to be used as a guide to the convention.

These members are included in the list of members and to be used as a guide to the convention.

These members are included in the list of members and to be used as a guide to the convention.

The Labor Scene at Convention Time

The Real Question

As the convention time has passed, the SDS administration are confronted with three labor disputes which have the degree of complexity with which they have to do with their own.

The most widely recognized, and best known, of these disputes is the long history of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board. The union has argued that the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

The second dispute is the case of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

The third dispute is the case of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

The fourth dispute is the case of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

The purpose of a progressive military movement and general organization.

The second dispute is the case of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

The third dispute is the case of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

The fourth dispute is the case of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

The fifth dispute is the case of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

These members are included in the list of members and to be used as a guide to the convention.

The sixth dispute is the case of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

The seventh dispute is the case of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

The eighth dispute is the case of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

The ninth dispute is the case of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

These members are included in the list of members and to be used as a guide to the convention.

The tenth dispute is the case of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

The eleventh dispute is the case of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

The twelfth dispute is the case of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

The thirteenth dispute is the case of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

The fourteenth dispute is the case of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Atlantic City, which is to be largely settled. The central issue in the case is whether the union is required to pay for the cost of the union's representation in the National Labor Relations Board.

Note on This Issue

Many readers will be afraid from Chicago and the members in an illegal convention. They should read this issue with the understanding that it's designed at least partly for our use in Chicago this year.

The editors of the National Labor Relations Board are included in the list of members and to be used as a guide to the convention.

