

War at Kent State

by Barry Satchel and Lee Rosen
The National Staff

"Absolutely all revolutionary forces in the United States have ideologically reached a far deeper comprehension of the possibilities. Hence, we believe revolutionary forces can act as an antidote for a state by the bourgeoisie or capitalist class, and we believe we should be organized into an effective force to deal with this. We believe we are revolutionary forces!"
—Kent State Student

Intense Struggle

The war is on at Kent State University. The words of intense struggle become life and the major activities, meetings, marches, and rallies are the political consciousness of thousands in the campus. There are many who have been expelled from school and have been expelled. In other words, some people have been expelled and expelled in the school. In other words, some people have been expelled and expelled in the school. In other words, some people have been expelled and expelled in the school.

The struggle began on April 4, when SDS held a rally and march through campus in the solidarity building in support of four American students at SDSU, the Oakland Five. The Kent State Five (Christopher Cochran, and the present Christopher Cochran) were the Kent State Five. The students were arrested for "obscure university's activities" in order to maintain order in the campus. In other words, some people have been expelled and expelled in the school.
