Alaska: Journey to Sitka

BY HISTORIC VESSEL, WITH KAYAKING, HIKING, AND CULTURAL ENCOUNTERS

The ultimate way to explore the wildlife-rich wilderness of Southeast Alaska is aboard a historic 8-guest wooden motor yacht. We offer four week-long journeys, each one bringing you to an incredible array of bays, intertidal zones, and remote villages between Sitka, Petersburg, and Juneau. Depending on the itinerary you choose, you might find yourself navigating through ice floes to a calving saltwater glacier or watching brown bears feast on the returning salmon. After each day's adventure, you'll come back to your cozy vessel to sit on the shaded back deck with a glass of wine and watch amazing wildlife in the long Alaskan twilight.

Itinerary

Please note: the captain and naturalist guide may make adjustments to the itinerary, including anchorages and hiking routes, depending on tides, local weather, and trail conditions.

DAY 1

ARRIVE AND EMBARK VESSEL

Depending on the date, you'll embark in the mid-morning or afternoon and make your way by vessel to your first anchorage. Please see pages 10-12 for more information on arrival and departure details...LD

About Sitka: This charming town surrounded by towering spruce forests was Russia's major Pacific trading port from 1804 until 1867, and before that, home to the Tlingit nation for 10,000 years. The blend of Russian and native culture makes Sitka unique, and its robust heritage is evident in the art galleries, architecture, and local museums. A stroll through town takes you past onion-domed St. Michael's Cathedral, part of Sitka's skyline for two centuries. The Tlingit heritage is visible in spectacular displays of masterfully carved Tlingit and Haida totems seen along pathways and in traditional dances held throughout the summer.

About Petersburg: This is the quintessential Alaskan fishing town, founded about a hundred years ago when Norwegian fisherman Peter Buschmann arrived and built a homestead and a cannery. Other Scandinavian settlers soon came and today "Little Norway" is the homeport to one of the most productive commercial fishing fleets in Alaska. The town is not a port of call for large cruise ships and is still a small, hospitable fishing community that proudly celebrates its Norwegian heritage. Main Street parallels the waterfront with its canneries and wharves.

About Juneau: Although the region around Juneau had been Tlingit for millennia, the town itself was founded in 1880 by gold seekers Joe Juneau and Richard Harris. Juneau was chosen as Alaska's capital in 1906 and has since become a bustling regional trading center. It's a thriving city with a small-town feel. Not many cities can claim a glacier in their back yard, but Juneau has the spectacular Mendenhall Glacier not far from its downtown.

DAYS 2-7

We will travel through canyons and fjords, stopping at beautiful anchorages at Admiralty, Baranof and Kupreanof islands, observing bears, whales, eagles and more along the way. Hiking or kayaking, accompanied by the on-board naturalist, we will learn about the fauna and flora of the area. Each trip varies depending on the weather; some highlights may include:

Stephens Passage: Sailing through waters frequented by humpback whales and orca, we will be on the lookout for their tell-tale blows. Finding our night's anchorage among the small bays and inlets that indent Admiralty Island, we will launch our kayaks and search for brown bears foraging along the shore.

TRIP DETAILS AT-A-GLANCE

Length:	8 days

HIGHLIGHTS

- Travel by historic small vessel into incredible coves and inlets where the big ships can't go
- Get close to wildlife as you kayak and hike with an on-board naturalist
- Enjoy delicious fresh cuisine served in the cozy wood-paneled salon
- See brown bears feeding, humpback whales spouting, and eagles soaring

Itinerary (Sitka to Petersburg, cont'd)

Warm Springs Bay: Anchored for a few hours, we hike the trail up to the lake that feeds the magnificent waterfall that drops into the head of the bay. On our way back from the lake, we can stop and soak in the natural hot pools overlooking the head of the falls. After taking our fill of the restorative waters, we return to ship and resume our journey.

Freshwater Bay: The ship will be anchoring in a small cove in front of an estuary system that supports a large population of brown bears. During fish runs, bears congregate near the entrance of a fish ladder that allows returning salmon access to their spawning streams, bypassing the dam built decades ago to support logging operations. We will explore the bay by kayak and then anchor our skiff in the stream at the foot of the falls where we may have an opportunity to watch and photograph brown bears sharing (not something bears often do) the bountiful returning salmon. From this stable base we can sit quietly, watch and photograph the gorging bears.

Baird / Le Conte / Dawes Glaciers: Each trip includes a visit to one or two glaciers. Each adventure is different, exploring the newly foliated outwash plain exposed by Baird Glacier's retreating ice, cruising as close as a quarter mile of Le Conte's or Dawes' calving glacier face.

Hidden Falls / Baranof Hot Springs / Admiralty Island: The day begins with a visit to Hidden Falls hatchery, where you can go ashore and tour the facility. When the salmon begin returning in late July, the brown bears also visit the stream near the hatchery to stock up on their fat reserves for the coming winter. Moving on, reach Baranof Hot Springs before lunch, with plenty of time to hike to Baranof Lake (approximately a mile round-trip). A post-hike soak in the hot spring pools will be a treat. By mid-afternoon, depart Warm Springs Bay and once again cross Chatham Strait, this time rounding Admiralty Island's southern tip to enter Stephens Passage. Anchor tonight in one of several deep bays that serrate Admiralty's southeast shoreline with time to launch the kayaks and poke along the edges of the cove.

Tenakee Springs: This is a unique community of homesteaders and vacation home owners drawn to this remote area by its mineral hot springs. We will explore this charming village individually or in small groups and then regathering at the general store or bakery, to return to the ship, hoist anchor and get underway for our evening's destination; a sheltered bay near the outflow of a mountain lake. Once securely anchored, we go ashore and walk the 3-mile round trip trail to the lake.

DAY 8

DISEMBARK AND DEPART

Make your way to the final landing. Bid farewell to the Captain and crew, disembark, and catch homeward-bound flights...B

Please Note: These adventures are not exclusive Wilderness Travel departures and it's possible you may be joined by other passengers. However, the small size of the vessel makes for an intimate and convivial journey among like-minded travelers.

Westward

We are delighted to invite you aboard this unique and historic 86-foot wooden vessel. A “gentleman’s yacht” designed specifically for exploration, she is ideal for discovering the wonders of Alaska and the Sea of Cortez. You’ll find a lovely wood-paneled salon aboard—a great space where we can unroll the charts and share the route you’ve explored that day and discuss the adventures that lie ahead. There is a spacious covered back deck, the ultimate spot for watching marine life (think whales, seals, and more!) as you relax with a glass of wine or a cup of hot chocolate. You won’t believe the meals that our on-board chef produces from the galley, including fresh-baked goods and wonderful fish from the bounty of the surrounding seas. There are four cabins, each with a double bunk below and a single bunk above, accommodating either couples or friends traveling together. Each of the cabins has its own private en suite bathroom with a sink, toilet, and shower.

With the vessel’s relatively small size, shallow draft, and yet powerful engine, we’ll be able to explore remote coves and islands by day, and at night we can enjoy beautiful secluded anchorages. As you may have guessed, we absolutely love this vessel for the incredible adventures it makes possible, but do keep in mind that she is a relatively small vessel, and set your expectations accordingly. The cabins are well designed but will be far smaller than what you would find on a massive cruise ship. We find her intimate size (just eight passengers!) absolutely perfect.

Launched in 1924 as the flagship of the Alaska Coast Hunting and Cruising Company, the vessel pioneered hunting, fishing, and adventure travel in remote regions of Washington, British Columbia, and Alaska for over 20 years (including serving such VIPs as Bing Crosby, Walt Disney, John Wayne, and Marjorie Merriweather Post). During World War II, she served as a patrol boat off the California coast, then post-war was converted to a private yacht and charter vessel. She has benefitted from continuous upgrades to her engine, systems, structure, and accommodations, including an extensive rebuild in 2005–2006 that created the four guest cabins she has today, and full below decks refit in 2015 that added private bathrooms to each cabin. She is listed with the US National Register of Historic Places. Since each double cabin also has both a double and a single bunk, it is possible for a family of three to book a cabin. We look forward to welcoming you aboard!

Trip Details

WHAT THE TRIP IS LIKE

This trip is Level 1+, easy to moderate, according to our trip grading system. You'll explore remote coastlines and fjords by day, then enjoy the comfort of the ship in the evening for good food, fine company, and a comfortable cabin. With just a few hours of cruising each day, there is plenty of time for walking, wildlife watching, or sea kayaking all in the company of an on-board naturalist who shares insights into the local botany, natural history, and native culture.

The three hikes average 3-5 miles each, round trip. The Thomas Bay hike is in a rainforest with uneven terrain (exposed roots, slate steps, and a good boardwalk). The Baird Glacier hike is over small rocks and stones, spongy lichen beds, and sand. For the Warm Springs hike on Baranof Island, you walk a narrow, muddy trail with exposed roots and some portions covered by planks.

You should be ready for a variety of weather conditions. Layered clothing works best in the changing weather conditions typical of the Pacific Northwest Coast and Southeast Alaska. Layers are easier to pack and more versatile than a single heavy coat. Don't bring down jackets or ski clothes (they don't dry well in the damp climate). Good rain gear is essential; it will enable you to remain comfortable in the wind or rain. Bring your high rubber boots (or use the ones provided on board) for wading and for use in the kayaks and small boats (you will wear these everywhere you go).

No previous kayaking experience is required. Unlike whitewater kayaking, sea kayaking skills can be learned quickly and easily. The waters kayaked in are protected from the open ocean and are generally calm. It is not the intention to kayak on stormy days or when sea conditions are truly "rough" with high winds and waves (such occasions are infrequent in these waters during the summer). Nevertheless, unpredictability is the rule for the weather in Alaska, and good kayaking weather throughout cannot be guaranteed. And with such a comfortable "mother ship," you can always opt out of any kayaking or hiking to enjoy a cup of hot chocolate and the great views from on board.

Complimentary beer and wine is offered on board. You are welcome to bring any special wines, liquors, and mixers you enjoy. Soft drinks, coffee, and tea are always available.

WEATHER

Be prepared for temperatures ranging from the low 30sF to a high of 70F. Southern Alaska has a marine climate, which means rain is to be expected at some point on every trip. The rain itself is often a gentle mist, casting an aura of magic and mystery over the land. We hope for sunshine but recommend that you plan for wet, cool weather. You will be comfortable as long as your rain gear is adequate! Calf-high rubber boots are a necessity.

CHOOSING THE RIGHT TRIP

Adventure travel often involves exotic destinations, unusual levels of physical exertion, or activities you may not have participated in previously. We work hard to help you choose the right trip for you, paying attention to your individual interests, abilities, and needs. If you have questions about the level of comfort or any of the activities described in this itinerary, please call Wilderness Travel at 1-800-368-2794 and ask for the North America Manager or email us at northamerica@wildernesstravel.com.
