This active cultural adventure weaves together the story of a people and a place as we witness the annual powwow of the Blackfeet Nation and hike in the grand landscapes they have called home for 10,000 years. With drumming, singing, and spectacular dances, the Blackfeet Powwow blends both the old and new traditions of a proud culture. Trip Leader Melissa Scott has spent significant time on the Blackfeet reservation and gives us an insider's access as we feel the intensity of the celebrations. Afterwards, we hike Rocky Mountain trails in Glacier National Park and savor stunning Montana sunsets. Overnights are in historic national park lodges.

Witnessing North American Indian Days Celebration

Our journey is a unique immersion into a culture that blends past traditions with the modern day. For these peoples, it is a time of celebration, a time of reuniting, a time of spirituality, a time of gratitude, a time of recognition, and a time for a little friendly competition, but most of all it is a time to be proud of who they are. This is an annual event specific to Plains Indian traditions and draws tribal members from all across the prairie regions of the US and Canada. In order to keep the focus of the event in the right place, alcohol is not sold anywhere on the reservation for the four days of the celebration.

The Blackfeet Powwow blends the old and new. We cannot expect things to be completely “traditional.” They no longer live in teepees, although the powwow grounds will be filled with them. Today, teepees are used for spiritual reasons, and at times like this, some people stay in them for the duration of the celebration. Most attendees will be dressed like typical Americans, but those who are participating in the dances will be wearing spectacular regalia adorned with stunning beadwork and feathers. The dancing and drumming/singing are framed as competitions, with winners receiving prizes. But for most of these participants, it is about more—it is about regaining and retaining a proud culture.

Each day of the celebration will include time for more traditional activities such as prayer, honoring individuals with “giveaways,” dancing, drumming, singing, a stick-game tournament, and Indian relay races. Probably the highlight for most visitors is the dancing, which is separated into men’s and women’s dances and then by age group. We will do our best to witness it all, from the power and athleticism of the men’s fancy dance or women’s shawl dance to the measured and purposeful traditional dance. No matter who is dancing, however, the drummers and singers provide the music that fuels the movement. The energy of the drumbeat coupled with singing will be unlike anything you’ve ever heard. It often fills your whole body and becomes like a heartbeat shared by all. Sometimes it is best to close your eyes and let the sound fill you up—let the energy flow right through you.

All of these experiences are interspersed with more modern things like a rodeo, Miss Blackfeet and princess pageants, a fun run, and a golf tournament, to name a few. There is no way to see everything, so we will focus on some of the highlights while also including things that the group may be more interested in. During the powwow, everyone on the reservation is completely caught up in the excitement and energy of the time—they are busy and distracted. We will try to incorporate visiting with a few participants as our visit progresses, but this will be an organic situation, one that will evolve in the moment.

The experience of witnessing the powwow is extremely difficult to describe. It is one that needs guidance and interpretation, internalized differently by each person, but there will be something for everyone’s interest. (Please note that it can also take a great deal of patience, as the schedule of events is often a loose guideline, so flexibility is our friend.)

DAY 1, GLACIER PARK INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT, MONTANA / GROUSE MOUNTAIN LODGE

Arrive this afternoon at Glacier Park International Airport, located halfway between Kalispell and Whitefish, Montana, and transfer to our lodge in Whitefish. This evening at our lodge, we meet for a Welcome Dinner and a trip orientation as we prepare for the week ahead. We'll learn about the uniqueness of Glacier National Park, host to species from five major biomes, and the people who have been inhabiting this area since the glaciers retreated at the end of the last Ice Age some 12,000 years ago. The experience of attending the largest, most impressive Blackfeet tribal event of the year can be overwhelming, so this evening, Melissa will share the knowledge and understanding necessary to receive the event in a meaningful and memorable manner. Overnight at Grouse Mountain Lodge in Whitefish, Montana...D

DAY 2, TWO MEDICINE VALLEY / MUSEUM OF THE PLAINS INDIANS / BLACKFEET POWWOW

After breakfast, we begin our journey east to Browning, traveling along the route of the old Great Northern Railway. On the way, we will learn about some of the other tribes who occupied the area west of the Continental Divide, their interactions with the Blackfeet, and the current status of these people. We cross the Continental Divide at Marias Pass, find out why its discovery was so difficult, then continue on to the Two Medicine Valley in the southeast corner of Glacier National Park. Our visit here helps us gain additional insight into the relationship the Blackfeet had to this land and why its loss has been mired in controversy and resentment by today's tribal members. After lunch, we venture on to Browning to visit the Museum of the Plains Indian. Later we'll head out to immerse ourselves in the sights and sounds of the powwow. Overnight at Glacier Park Lodge, Glacier's first grand hotel, built between 1913 and 1915...BLD

DAY 3, TWO MEDICINE VALLEY HIKES / OPTIONAL BLACKFEET POWWOW VISIT

Today we step back into the Two Medicine area to let loose some energy by exploring on foot. The park has more than 700 miles of maintained trails and the Two Medicine Valley has some beautiful offerings. We have most of the day to enjoy the quietude of the mountains and enjoy lunch by a mesmerizing waterfall before returning to the lodge in the afternoon. Dinner is on your own this evening. For those who did not get enough of the powwow the night before, there will be an option of returning this evening for a second chance to take it in. Overnight at Glacier Park Lodge...BL

DAY 4, MANY GLACIER VALLEY / GLACIER NATIONAL PARK / TRAIL HIKE

Bidding farewell to the Two Medicine area, we'll travel north to Many Glacier, with majestic mountains (known as the "Backbone of the World" to the Blackfeet) on our left and the endlessness of the Great Plains on our right. The Many Glacier Valley is tucked away on the east side of Glacier National Park and known for its aquamarine lakes, icy glaciers, and abundant wildlife. We take time to enjoy a relaxing lunch before heading out to stretch out legs on one of the many trails in the valley. Dinner on your own. Overnight at Great Bear Lodge...BL

DAY 5, GLACIER NATIONAL PARK / SWIFTCURRENT AND JOSEPHINE LAKES / TRAIL HIKES

Early mornings in Many Glacier are a sight to behold, so those who want to brave those wee hours will be invited to join Melissa on the shores of Swiftcurrent Lake to soak in the beauty—and perhaps snap a few award-winning images. After breakfast, we glide across Swiftcurrent and Josephine Lakes on two of the national park's historic wooden sightseeing boats. Not only is this a wonderful experience to add to our Glacier Park journey, it also gets us a few miles further along our way, allowing access to trails that can lead us into Glacier's higher reaches or perhaps to one of her stunning teal-blue lakes fed by the glaciers above. After a full day out on the trails, we relax on the porch of the lodge and enjoy a tasty beverage while scanning the hillsides for wildlife. Overnight at Great Bear Lodge...BLD

DAY 6, GOING-TO-THE-SUN ROAD / CONTINENTAL DIVIDE AT LOGAN PASS

Our last full day in Glacier National Park takes us over the Continental Divide at Logan Pass. We arrive early to beat the crowds and get in a nice hike before things get too busy, then continue on down the west side of the pass, taking our time to stop and enjoy the scenery. Historic Lake McDonald Lodge, built in 1913 and nestled in a tranquil cedar forest along the shores of Glacier National Park's largest lake, is the destination for our final night. Time permitting, we may have time to take a leisurely walk around the Trail of the Cedars or even make it to Avalanche Lake as a final farewell to the park. We gather for our Farewell Dinner this evening...BLD

DAY 7, DEPART

Following a relaxing breakfast, we depart this incredible place by winding slowly down the road along the shores of the lake as we make our way to the airport and flights home...B

It was designated a National Historic Landmark in 1987. Guest rooms are rustic, yet comfortable, with modest amenities. Melissa completed her degree in Environmental Science Education and has dedicated her career to inspiring conservation through relevant, firsthand encounters with the natural world. Her knowledge of the region's ecosystem and wildlife is unsurpassed! Melissa is also an accomplished photographer and enjoys helping guests capture exceptional images of nature and wildlife. So, wherever you are exploring, you can be sure she is excited to share her knowledge and enthusiasm with you.

What the Trip is Like

WHAT THE TRIP IS LIKE

The trip is Level 3, Moderate, according to our trip grading system. There are hikes on 4 out of 7 of the days and you will need to be comfortable hiking 7 miles in a day and up to 1,200 feet of elevation gain in a day. Please note that your guide may make adjustments to the itinerary and hiking routes, depending on local weather, trail conditions, and availability.

TERRAIN

Hikes cover a variety of terrain and are usually on well-marked trails. Terrain will vary from dry, rocky slopes to alpine meadows to marshy paths through dense forest. There may be hikes on uneven surfaces, occasionally over loose scree, and sections of steep ascent or descent.

GETTING IN SHAPE

We strongly urge you to train for your trip, as your enjoyment will be highly dependent on your level of fitness. The best training for a hike is to hike, especially over hills or rough terrain. Next best are running, swimming, bicycling, or other cardiovascular exercises. Stair-climbing machines are excellent preparation for hiking uphill. Your feet should also be well prepared—make sure your hiking boots are sturdy, comfortable, and thoroughly broken-in.

WEATHER

In May and June, daytime temperatures average in the 60Fs, dropping to the 30Fs at night. In early June, the annual snow removal project on Going-to-the-Sun Road begins. July and August is the peak season for visitors, with daytime temperatures averaging in the 70Fs and 80Fs and nights that can drop into the 40Fs. Glacier's weather is highly variable and can be extreme. Hikers setting out on a warm summer day should still bring along raingear and lots of extra clothing. Dressing in layers is key. September and October are beautiful months to visit if you enjoy fall foliage displays and temperatures are moderate, with days in the 60Fs and cool nights into the 40Fs, but some businesses and stores close after Labor Day and rain is more likely at this time of year.

ACCOMMODATIONS

All our hotels are chosen for their local history and central location. Because some of them are in historic buildings, the rooms may not conform to uniform standards, but we hope you will enjoy them for their charm and local color. Single rooms can be requested, but are not always available, due to the limited space in some of our hotels. If you require a single room, please make the request as early as possible.

CHOOSING THE RIGHT TRIP

Adventure travel often involves exotic destinations, unusual levels of physical exertion, or activities you may not have participated in previously. We work hard to help you choose the right trip for you, paying attention to your individual interests, abilities, and needs. If you have questions about the level of comfort or any of the activities described in this itinerary, please call Wilderness Travel at 1-800-368-2794 and ask for the North America Manager or email us at northamerica@wildernesstravel.com.
