2026 Spain Eclipse Program

Join us in northern Spain in 2026 to experience a total solar eclipse as it sweeps across the Iberian Peninsula. Our exclusive viewing location atop a hilltop winery aligns with the eclipse's centerline. Chosen in collaboration with esteemed eclipse meteorologist Jay Anderson, it promises the finest weather and sweeping views across the flat Meseta Norte—we should be in for a visual treat. Because the total eclipse will occur low on the horizon just one hour shy of sunset, we can look forward to a number of effects being different from when totality is high overhead. Intensified atmospheric scattering should greatly enhance the colors of the surrounding horizon, and the setting sun will appear magnified by the “moon illusion.” Throughout the program, we'll enjoy insightful talks on eclipses and cosmic wonders curated by our distinguished lecturer Dr. Alex Filippenko, Professor of Astronomy at UC Berkeley.

OUR EXPERT ASTRONOMER ALEX FILIPPENKO, PHD

A name familiar to many, Dr. Filippenko is a celebrated professor at UC Berkeley, revered for his expertise in the fields of exploding stars, active galaxies, and universal expansion. His accolades are numerous, and notably, he's been voted “Best Professor” at UC Berkeley a record nine times!

Eclipse Program Locations

BILBAO

We begin the Eclipse Program in Bilbao exploring this Basque capital where timeless traditions fuse with the avant-garde. Bilbao's dedication to innovative architecture and cuisine is felt throughout the city, from the iconic Guggenheim Museum—a shining example of 20th-century architecture housing one of the most important private collections of modern and contemporary art—to its historic Old Town filled with eateries serving pintxos and Txakoli wine.

BURGOS

On our way to Burgos, the capital city of the unified kingdom of Castile and León for five centuries, we'll tour the prehistoric site of Atapuerca, where the oldest known evidence of humans in western Europe was unearthed. In Burgos, we'll visit the famed cathedral, one of the masterpieces of Spanish Gothic architecture and the only cathedral in Spain to be declared a UNESCO World Heritage Site.

LERMA

Our lodging during this astronomical event is the iconic Parador de Lerma, once the Ducal Palace and the seat of the Spanish Empire from 1599-1618 under the clandestine rule of the Duke of Lerma, a favorite of King Phillip III. Dating back to pre-Roman times, Lerma experienced significant growth and wealth in the 17th century under the Duke's patronage, including the construction of buildings in the Herrerian style that today are among the best-preserved historical-artistic complexes in Spain.

Introduction

After the thrill of witnessing the total solar eclipse in Lerma, Spain, we'll celebrate the beauty of Madeira, set in the cobalt blue waters of the Atlantic and warmed by the Gulf Stream. This lush island is blanketed in laurel forests and capped by sharp volcanic peaks that cut through the aquamarine shoreline. Our hiking journey explores the island's many personalities as we walk ancient “levada” irrigation canals through green valleys and UNESCO-protected laurisilva forests, hike to crater lakes, take cobbled paths to red-roofed villages, and cross high trails above the sparkling Atlantic. Along the way, we'll visit a producer of Madeira's famous fortified wines, taste catch-of-the-day fish, and go dolphin and whale watching by private boat.

Meals: B, L, D

DAYS 3-4 TOTAL SOLAR ECLIPSE PROGRAM, BILBAO TO LERMA, SPAIN

Departing Bilbao, we visit the prehistoric Atapuerca archaeological site, whose caves hold a rich fossil record of Europe's early humans. Heading to the charming town of Burgos, located on the Camino Frances, we'll tour its imposing Gothic cathedral before continuing to the medieval town of Lerma, where you will have time to explore before we gather for another astronomy lecture. On eclipse day, we'll craft our viewers and enjoy a bit more of Lerma before heading to our private eclipse-viewing site at an expansive winery on a hill—virtually on the centerline. Winery tours and tastings will be available this afternoon as we prepare for the eclipse and enjoy the winery's grounds and views. On Days 3-4, we stay at the fabulous Parador de Lerma, a Ducal Palace originally built for King Felipe III.

Itinerary

Overnight: Casa Velha do Palheiro

This tranquil country house hotel, a restored 18th-century hunting lodge, is set in the Palheiro Nature Estate in the foothills of Funchal. More than 12 miles of hiking trails surround the lodge (great for birdwatching), and there are two swimming pools. All guest rooms convey a sense of the history, beauty, and elegance of the estate, and our rooms in the Garden Wing feature pleasant views across the gardens. The lodge features an award-winning restaurant and is a member of the prestigious Relais & Chateaux association.

Itinerary

Meals: B, L, D

Hiking Details: 3.5 hours, 4.5 miles, 1,350 feet ascent/descent, moderate

DAY 6 HIKE AT PONTA DE SÃO LOURENÇO / FUNCHAL / FADO

We start the day with a Trip Briefing, then a hike on the dry eastern tip of Madeira at Ponto de São Lourenço, where the variegated rocks speak of this volcanic past. Our return is by Zodiac along the coast, an excursion offering superb views of the rocky peninsula we will have just hiked. We'll take a walking tour through Funchal, which first flourished in the 15th century as sugar (or "white gold") enriched the island. Sugar merchants settled around the Sé Cathedral, beautiful in its simplicity and topped off with tiny colored "azulejos" tiles. Close by, fruit and vegetable stands jostle for space alongside flower stalls in the colorful Mercado dos Lavradores ("Farmers' Market"). Wearing the traditional red-and-blue striped skirt with an embroidered waistcoat and pointy hat, the local flower sellers always steal the show. After absorbing the sights, sounds, and aromas of the market, we'll finish the day in Funchal's Old Town at a local restaurant where Portugal's traditional Fado music is played. Fado's evocative songs tell stories of love and loss. Even without understanding a word of Portuguese, the deep emotions are powerfully conveyed in haunting melodies. At the restaurant, all the family members take part in the musical performance—even the cook may come out of the kitchen to take his turn!

Itinerary

Overnight: Casa Velha do Palheiro

Meals: B, L, D

Hiking Details: 4-5 hours, 7 miles, 900 feet
descent, moderate

DAY 7 HIKE THE LEVADA DO FURADO / SANTANA HOUSES / RUM FACTORY

Madeira's famous levadas are hand-built irrigation channels that brought water to the island's fields. There are more than 200 levadas in Madeira, many built over 200 years ago. Our hike on the Levada do Furado in Ribeiro Frio ("Cold River") begins at 2,800 feet and brings us through an indigenous laurel forest. This ancient woodland once covered the whole of the island, but great swaths were burned down to clear land for planting sugar cane when the Portuguese first arrived. Hiking along the edge of the levada, we'll recognize the astonishing amount of labor required to construct this unique network of water channels that wind for more than 1,400 miles across the island. As we walk, we'll keep an eye out for one of the island's endemic birds, the tiny Madeira firecrest, with its distinctive orange mohawk. After our hike, we stop by Santana, a town known for its traditional triangular houses. The steeply-pitched thatched roofs that descend nearly to the ground are ideal for the location, staying warm in winter and cool in summer, and give the town a whimsical fairytale feel. From Santana, we'll head along the coast to Porto da Cruz to witness 100-year-old steam-driven machinery noisily crush the sugar cane to extract its juices, then distilled into rum—which we'll just have to taste! Before dinner at our hotel, the sommelier will introduce us to some of the island's finest Madeiran wines. We'll learn of the accidents of history that led to the creation of the unique qualities of this rich, flavorsome wine.

Itinerary

Overnight: Aqua Natura Madeira Hotel

The Aqua Natura is set between the imposing cliffs of Madeira's rugged north coast and the blue Atlantic and all guest rooms have dazzling views and small balconies. There is also a rooftop bar and restaurant and a sauna and Jacuzzi. Just below the hotel are fabulous natural swimming pools built right into the coastal lava rocks.

Meals: B, L, D

Hiking Details: 3-4 hours, 7 miles, minimal ascent/descent, easy

DAY 8 TOBOGGANS / CÂMARA DE LOBOS / HIKE THE LEVADA DA CALHETA

In the morning we make our way to Nossa Senhora do Monte, a picturesque white church built in the late 1700s and still one of the most venerated sites on the island. On the Feast of the Assumption, penitents climb on their knees all 74 steps to pray in this church. Just below is the start of the famous toboggan run that allows us a quirky departure, in giant wicker baskets. These toboggans are steered by two guides elegantly dressed in white, wearing straw hats and traditional soft leather boots. During the short slide we won't be traveling at great speed, though Ernest Hemingway famously described it as one of the most exhilarating rides of his life. Despite his large touch of irony, this unique experience is an island "must" and it's guaranteed to generate big smiles all the way down the hill.

Afterwards we drive along Madeira's southern coastline, stopping at Camara do Lobos, a picturesque fishing village where Winston Churchill came often to relax and paint. The fishermen here head out to sea at night to line-catch black scabbard fish, or espada, a mainstay of the local cuisine. These fish are caught only off Madeira and Japan and live at a depth of up to 5,500 feet. Their sharply pointed snout lined with protruding fang-like teeth and enormous round eyes give this fish a fearsome appearance, but their taste is surprisingly delicate. Our hike is along the Levada Nova da Calheta, starting at Prazeres and heading west to Maloeira. This hike is best described as agricultural, as the waterway wends its way slowly through farmland where many of the regional vegetables are grown, including potatoes, sweet potatoes, green beans, cabbage, and corn. At 1,600 feet, fruit flourish as well—apple, lemon, fig, and papaya trees add color to the terraced fields. Sections of eucalyptus and pine trees provide shade, blue flowering agapanthus abound along the levada's edge, and in the distance shimmer the waves of the Atlantic. We end at a marvelous bakery serving excellent cakes, coffee, and beer, but you may prefer to head straight for an ice cream at the end of the trail!

A scenic hours' drive takes in the western edge of the island on our way to the picturesque village of Porto Moniz at the northwestern tip of Madeira. Our hotel is close to natural volcanic rock swimming pools filled by Atlantic breakers (the original infinity pool!). The rock formations along the coast here are stunning. After savoring some of the fresh locally caught seafood, and perhaps relaxing in the hotel's Jacuzzi or sauna, we'll be lulled to sleep by the sound of the sea.

Itinerary

Overnight: Aqua Natura Madeira Hotel

Meals: B, L

Hiking Details: 3-3.5 hours, 5 miles, 1,000 feet ascent, moderate

DAY 9 HIKE THE PAUL DA SERRA PLATEAU / WINERY VISIT

Setting out, we'll stop a few miles along the coast to view a dramatic basalt sea stack, a peculiar rock formation 120 feet high and standing a few feet from the shore. Near its top there is a large hole, or "janela" (window), after which the nearby village, Ribeira da Janela, is named. Our hike on the Paul da Serra plateau starts out from the Lagoa do Fanal; this crater lake rarely has much, if any, water in it, but is nonetheless a favorite haunt of the rusty brown cattle that roam free on this high plateau. Our earthen trail climbs up through the laurisilva forest, classified in 1999 as a UNESCO World Natural Heritage Site. These sturdy trees with their twisted branches draped in mosses and lichen give the route an otherworldly feeling, especially when mists shroud the area. Wood and shrubs were harvested from here in the near past and taken down to the north coast via a network of cables, to be used in farming and for heating; this practice is no longer permitted. After our morning hike we'll head to a winery at São Vicente, on the north coast. The vineyards are terraced up the steep hillsides and, in some places, are protected from the salty winds by high hedges constructed from tree heathers. Various grape varieties are grown, producing white, rosé, and red wines, with Verdelho, the most important, producing high-quality white wines. We'll savor the wines over lunch at the Quinta do Barbusano, then enjoy a tour of the vineyards to hear about the challenging conditions these hardy grapes face. Our dramatic drive back to Porto Moniz via the north coast brings us through small coastal villages set on the narrow strip of land between sea and cliff, often referred to as the "Big Sur" of Madeira. We return to the Aqua Natura for overnight. Dinner is on your own this evening.

Itinerary

Overnight: Reid's Palace Hotel

Century-old Reid's Palace, now a Belmond property, is set on clifftops and surrounded by acres of subtropical garden. Just a short walk from Funchal's shops and restaurants, Reid's is the Grand Dame of the city, with an "old school" décor that includes dozens of fresh flower displays. The terrace bar is a great place for vistas over the gardens, the city, and the blue expanse of the sea.

Meals: B, L

Hiking Details: 7-8 hours, 9 miles, 3,500 feet ascent/2,000 feet descent, strenuous

DAY 10 CAMINHO REAL DA ENCUMEADA / CABO GIRÃO / FUNCHAL

This morning we depart quite early but it's worth the effort as we discover one of the island's most scenic hikes: the "Royal Path," paved and used as one of the main routes across the island by the landed gentry before the roads were built. Hiking from a high saddle at Encumeada (3,290'), we descend through eucalyptus forests to a tiny mountain settlement by a river, where in the past, islanders came to plant their crops and graze their animals. Today the small, terraced fields lie abandoned but white calla lilies still flower and chestnut trees flourish. From here we climb through woodland and on up below the rugged, dark cliffs of Pico Grande. The views down to the valleys as we progress are simply stunning. Until very recently, goats roamed wild over the mountains, eating the fragile vegetation thus threatening the delicate natural balance; their removal is enabling plants to re-establish and regenerate. Reaching a grassy saddle at 2,700 feet, we'll enjoy a picnic looking over the secluded Valley of the Nuns, where the village lies nestled below us in a small bowl surrounded by rugged high peaks. From here the trail becomes wider, crossing the central massif and following the curves of the high ridge to Boca da Corrida, with great views all the way to the end of our hike. En route to Funchal, we'll have a quick stop at the sea cliffs of Cabo Girão, among the highest in the world. At a lookout point, a glass skywalk will give us breathtaking views of the land and sea far below. The elegant Reid's Palace Hotel, built in the late 19th century to accommodate passengers traveling on ocean liners, is our setting for our final two nights. Dinner is on your own; you can wander into downtown Funchal to soak up the atmosphere and grab a bite to eat.

Itinerary

Overnight: Reid's Palace Hotel

Meals: B, L, D

Hiking Details: 1.5 hours, 2 miles, 1,475 feet descent

DAY 11 HIKE FROM EIRA DO SERRADO TO CURRAL DAS FREIRAS / DOLPHIN AND WHALE WATCHING

We begin today's hike at Eira do Serrado, a beautiful vista point about a half-hour drive from Funchal. Here a steep, winding cobbled path leads down to the village of Curral das Freiras ("Nuns Valley") with great views all along the way as we descend. Our trail descends through a large stand of horse chestnut trees that produce one of the crops for which Curral das Freiras is best known. At lunch we'll enjoy a sampling of this simple nut in a variety of ways: roasted in a soup, in a hearty stew with beans, or for dessert as a delicious cake washed down with chestnut liqueur. Later in the day, a private boat will take us out for an afternoon of whale and dolphin watching. The waters around the island are visited by more than 20 species of dolphins and whales throughout the year. Tonight, we gather for our festive Farewell Dinner at the historic 17th century Fortress of São Tiago overlooking the waterfront.

Skye McDonald lives in Scotland's Highland capital, Inverness. She has worked as a Trip Leader in 35 countries since the millennium and lived in Germany, France, and Tanzania. "Bringing understanding between peoples of very different cultures and backgrounds is one of the joys of being a Trip Leader, and of course, the chance to make friends around the world." Closer to home, she delights in sharing the glories of her native Scotland, and says that a good day scaling some of the beautiful Scottish mountains is hard to beat. Skye speaks German, French, beginners' Portuguese, and unusually, a smattering of Swahili from earlier years as a volunteer agricultural officer in Tanzania. What to Expect

WHAT THE TRIP IS LIKE

This trip is rated Level 3+, Moderate to Strenuous, according to our trip grading system. We have five hiking days, varying from 2-8 hours of hiking a day. The 8-hour hike on Day 10 is strenuous; the trail is quite narrow and steep in places, with precipitous drop-offs and a degree of exposure. Please note that our daily hiking activities are weather-dependent. Based on their many years of experience here, our Trip Leaders always have wonderful alternate plans.

TERRAIN

Two of our hikes are along levadas, where the paths are well maintained and there is minimal altitude gain or loss. Others are on well-defined but rocky trails and involve a few thousand feet of ascent and descent.

WEATHER

Madeira is a subtropical island. The south coast is the warmest and driest area and the mountains, rising to over 6,000 feet, are the coolest and wettest. We can expect pleasant temperatures of 58 to 66°F at the coast, but cooler temperatures up in the mountains. April is the start of the dry season, but rain is always a possibility; the monthly average is two inches.

ACCOMMODATIONS

All our hotels are chosen for their local history and central location. Because some of them are in historic buildings, the rooms may not conform to uniform standards, but we hope you will enjoy them for their charm and local color. Single rooms can be requested, but are not always available, due to the limited space in some of our hotels. If you require a single room, please make the request as early as possible. European single rooms are often smaller than US singles.

TRANSPORTATION

We travel the island by mini-bus, and the roads are very twisty in some places. The longest single drive is about one hour and 15 minutes.
