In the Realm of Genghis Khan

ANCIENT KARAKORUM, NADAAM FESTIVAL, AND THE GOBI

Mongolia is magnificently remote, its unfenced grasslands dotted with nomad camps and herds of yaks and horses. In this mesmerizing landscape, we'll see the wild horses of Khustain Nuruu National Park and explore the ruins of ancient Karakorum, once the capital of Genghis Khan's empire. In the Gobi Desert, we hike in the dramatic gorge of the Yol Valley, watch the sun set over the fabled Flaming Cliffs, and even ride a Bactrian camel. Along the way, we'll be welcomed into an authentic nomadic culture as we spend nights in our cozy traditional gers (yurts) and attend a local Naadam festival, a quintessentially Mongolian celebration with archery, wrestling, and cross-country horse races.

Itinerary

DAY 1

ULAANBAATAR

Arrive in Ulaanbaatar, Mongolia's capital, where we are met and transferred to our comfortable, centrally located hotel. The contrast between ancient traditions and the dawning of a 21st century democracy is most visible in Ulaanbaatar, the capital city, where "suburbs" of traditional gers (felt tents) coexist with blocks of Soviet-style apartments and the very modern city center with its shiny new highrises. The remainder of the day is at your leisure and we'll gather for our trip orientation and a Welcome Dinner this evening. Overnight at hotel...D

Mongolia is renowned as the land of Genghis Khan and his fearsome army, who conquered vast areas, creating the largest empire the world has ever known. Less known is that soon after the conquests, Mongolians, guided by Tibetan lamas, began an exploration of their inner world through Tibetan Buddhism. In 1576, in gratitude for his conversion, Altan Khan, the leader of Mongolia and a descendant of the legendary Genghis Khan, bestowed the title "Dalai Lama" upon his spiritual guru, Sonam Gyatso. This spiritual bond between Tibet and Mongolia continues into the present day, and some of the most extraordinary Tibetan-Buddhist art in the world is in Mongolia.

DAY 2

GANDAN MONASTERY / SUKHBAATAR SQUARE / NATIONAL HISTORY MUSEUM / ZAISAN MEMORIAL

Established in 1835, the Gandan Monastery, known as the seat of Buddhism in Mongolia, is an impressive complex and one of the few monasteries that escaped the ravages of Stalin's purges of the 1930s. We'll explore its temples, courtyards, chanting halls, and see some of the maroon-robed monks (more than 300 monks are in residence today) during their daily rituals, including the reading of sutras—teachings of the Buddha. We should even hear the low tones of the horns used to call the monks to the temple as we stroll through the monastery grounds. We'll also visit the seven-story-tall statue of Bodhisattva Avalokitesvara, who represents the compassion of all Buddhas, encrusted with more than 2,200 gems and gilded with gold leaf.

In Sukhbaatar Square, named after the revolutionary leader who led Mongolia to independence from Manchuria in the 1920s, we'll see the Great Khans Memorial—a resounding declaration of pride for many Mongols after 80 years of Soviet domination when Mongolian history was a taboo subject. The National History Museum offers utterly fascinating insights into Mongolian history with its displays of traditional implements of daily nomadic life including Stone and Bronze Age artifacts, the historic dress of Mongolia's minority tribes, and sacred religious relics. We also visit the Zaisan Memorial, a monument built during Mongolia's Soviet era to commemorate Soviet and Mongolian soldiers who fought in World War II. Set on one of the hills surrounding Ulaanbaatar, it offers panoramic views of the capital to the surrounding gers and the immense grasslands beyond. This evening, we'll meet with a local Mongolian who will shed light on the culture, history, and society of this fascinating country. Overnight at hotel...BLD

DAY 3 NAADAM FESTIVAL

Today we witness a Naadam Festival, a uniquely Mongolian holiday that includes wrestling, horseback racing, and archery—three age-old sports that Mongolians traditionally used to measure the courage and strength of nomads and warriors. Contemporary Naadam events showcase the abilities of local men, women, boys, and girls, and are also a time for friends to get together to celebrate the 1921 Revolution, when Mongolia declared independence from the Qing Dynasty. Overnight at hotel...BLD

DAY 4 KHUSTAIN NURUU NATIONAL PARK

In the morning, we visit the Chinggis Khaan Museum. After admiring its collection of Genghis Khan artifacts, we head out of the capital and into the open country to Khustain Nuruu National Park, home to the last remaining species of wild horse, the takhi, known as Przewalski's horse. In 1994, 25 years after they became extinct in the wild, the horses were reintroduced from international zoo populations by a Dutch organization, which flew 16 horses to Mongolia. Since then, more than 100 healthy foals have been born and these intriguing creatures once again inhabit ancient lands. We learn about conservation efforts and enjoy seeing these beautiful horses in their natural habitat. An afternoon drive brings us to the spectacular site of the Ongot Monument, one of the largest grave complexes in central Asia that dates back 1,500 years. Overnight at ger camp...BLD
Approximate driving time: 2 hours

Horse-Based Nomadic Cultures of Mongolia: Because of the short growing season, animal husbandry defines the nomadic lifestyle of Mongolia, with agriculture playing a very distant secondary role. Nomads raise five types of animals: goats, sheep, cattle (including yaks in the mountains), camels, and horses. These are “the five snouts” that provide food, dairy products, transportation, and wool. Of these animals, the horse holds the preeminent position in Mongolian hearts and legends. Nomadic families follow a seasonal routine, moving their herds to a new grazing land based on the time of year. Historically, each clan had various chosen grazing grounds that were used exclusively by the same clan year after year. This tradition carries on today, and families return to the same locations at the same time each year, traveling at the end of winter from a specific valley in spring to a particular area on the high plateau for grazing on summer pastures. We'll pass many nomadic dwellings as we journey across Mongolia, and will have the chance to stop at gers where we'll be welcomed in traditional style.

DAY 5

KARAKORUM / ERDENEZUU MONASTERY

Crossing the vast grasslands and following the swells of the land, we reach the Orkhon Valley, the cradle of Mongolian civilization, and the ancient site of Karakorum. We explore Erdenezuu, Mongolia's largest monastery built over the ruins of the 13th century capital of Mongolia. The empire created by Genghis Khan and his descendants was the largest contiguous land empire in recorded history. The great Khan and his grandson Khublai Khan created Karakorum as the heart of their empire. It was later abandoned by Khublai Khan for his new city in Beijing, and only a few traces are left of Kharakhorum, but Erdenezuu was built from its ruins in the 16th century. Surrounded by 108 graceful white stupas, Erdenezuu has been a place of Buddhist worship for more than 500 years, with temples in many different styles, some with absolutely exquisite frescoes. Overnight at a ger camp at Karakorum...BLD

Approximate driving time: 4-5 hours

DAY 6

KARAKORUM MUSEUM / KULTIGEN MONUMENT

From our comfortable ger camp, we head to the Karakorum Museum to see some of the fascinating archaeological findings from Mongolian and German expeditions. Their exhibits are constantly growing with new findings from ongoing explorations in the area, creating an extensive and fascinating collection. We'll also visit the giant Kultigen Monument, constructed by the Turkic Empire in the 8th century in honor of their then-prince. We'll make our way near the winding Orkhon Gol River to visit the ruined citadel of Khar Balgas. This empire ruled Mongolia from 744 to 840, and from the walls we'll be able to see rows of stupas and the remains of a once-flourishing city that had an elaborate plumbing and irrigation system from the Orkhon. Dinner and overnight at the ger camp at Karakorum...BLD

Approximate driving time: 3 hours

DAY 7

SOUTH GOBI / ONGYN KHIID

We head south to the Gobi! Leaving the forests and grasslands behind, we travel to the Ongyn Khiid Monastery, one of the largest monasteries in Mongolia before it was reduced to rubble by the Soviets less than a century ago. Considered the "Pearl of the Great Desert," it was home to four Buddhist universities and more than twenty temples. We'll explore its ruins, walking through the haunting remains set in dramatic mountain scenery. Overnight at ger camp...BLD

Approximate driving time: 5-6 hours

Itinerary (cont'd)

DAY 8

GURVAN SAIKHAN GOBI NATIONAL PARK

The vast and diverse region of Mongolia's southernmost province is a wild and wind-swept landscape that preserves much of the history of our planet's past inhabitants. This is the land of dinosaurs, where some of the greatest discoveries in paleontology have been made. South Gobi's remote location creates an austere, yet peaceful and enchanting escape. Our home base for exploring the Gobi is the award-winning Gobi Mirage, a family-run ger camp offering great hospitality and comfort...BLD

Approximate driving time: 4-5 hours

DAYS 9-10

YOL VALLEY / FLAMING CLIFFS

Cradled between the foothills of the Altai Mountains, Yol Valley National Park offers a stunning blend of lush and arid environments. An ancient river carved this surprisingly green valley, and a walk here is a chance to discover habitat for indigenous vulture-like lammergeiers, Altai snowcocks, ibex, yaks, and Argali mountain sheep. We'll hike into the river canyon, then head out to the site of the most important paleontological discoveries of the 20th century—the Flaming Cliffs, named for the glowing orange color of the rock at sunset. This area of sandstone rock outcrops is where, in 1922, paleontologist and explorer Roy Chapman Andrews discovered a nest of perfectly preserved dinosaur eggs, the first ever to be found, transforming the understanding of the age of dinosaurs and their connection to modern species. We walk through this dramatic area, where Chapman also found a trove of dinosaur bones and fossils, visit the stunning Moltsoog Els, one of the few regions of the Gobi covered by sand dunes, and have an opportunity to ride a Bactrian (two-humped) camel. We may also head out to the renowned site of the “Fighting Dinosaurs,” where a Polish team in the early 1970s discovered fossils from the late Cretaceous Period of a protoceratops and a velociraptor locked in combat. We’ll explore on foot, having the chance to explore as paleontologists do, looking for clues from 65 million years ago. We’ll enjoy this enchanting site with a sundowner, then return to the Gobi Mirage for dinner and overnight. On one night, we’ll have dinner with members of an NGO that is working to register the Flaming Cliffs as a UNESCO World Heritage Site...BLD each day

Approximate driving time: 1.5 hours (Day 9)

DAY 11

ULAANBAATAR / GORKHI-TERELJ NATIONAL PARK

We fly back to the capital of Ulaanbaatar, then drive to a locally protected area adjacent to Gorkhi-Terelj National Park to explore Mongolia’s verdant grass steppe and the southern Khentii mountain range. We’ll take hikes and explore the ecology of the area. Our overnight stay in a traditional ger camp allows us to experience the hospitality of the steppe as well as the unique feeling of being completely immersed in nature. Overnight at ger camp...BLD
Approximate driving time: 1.5-2.5 hours

Note: Regularly-scheduled domestic flights in Mongolia are known for change or cancellation, as adverse weather conditions, booking problems, and other factors beyond our control may result in changes to the program.

DAY 12

ULAANBAATAR

We spend the morning exploring the park, then return to Ulaanbaatar with a stop en route at the impressive Genghis Khan equestrian statue (some 130 feet tall!). We’ll then have the afternoon at leisure for individual sightseeing or shopping. This is a great time to find some of Mongolia’s renowned cashmere, and your Trip Leader is happy to make recommendations of the best shops. A fascinating cultural performance featuring traditional Mongolian dancers and hoomi (throat) singers caps off our adventure. Hoomi, sometimes described as “double singing” is actually several notes being produced simultaneously, an eerily beautiful acoustic skill requiring years of training. After the performance, we’ll enjoy followed a festive Farewell Dinner at a nearby restaurant. Overnight at hotel...BLD

MONGOLIAN GER CAMPS

Mongolia

They come equipped with beds and linens (and may also have a small table and stools), and are heated by a wood or coal stove. Meals are served in a central lodge or tent. Most of the camps have centrally located shared bathrooms. Please be prepared for limited shower use, as shower water is often solar heated and may not be available daily. As a student Ankhaa started working in the hospitality industry, eventually traveling to Ireland to attend a language school there, followed by several years in the hospitality industry in the UK, primarily in London. Trip Details

WHAT THE TRIP IS LIKE

The trip is Level 2+, Easy to Moderate. Although there is only minimal hiking, this trip involves rugged travel conditions in remote locations, simple accommodations in gers (yurts), and rough roads.

A SPECIAL NOTE ON TRAVEL TO MONGOLIA

Mongolia is an exciting destination, and while tourism is growing rapidly, the infrastructure remains limited. The country is modernizing quickly from its Soviet-era standards, but they are not yet up to the level of many countries (particularly felt by travelers on the bumpy roads!). Roads outside Ulaanbaatar are unpaved and often very bumpy and dusty. Travel on these roads are typically in Land Cruisers. Essential requirements for travel in Mongolia are flexibility, a sense of humor, curiosity, enthusiasm about new peoples and places, and an openness to the unexpected.

WEATHER

Mongolia has a relatively cool climate with short, mild summers and long, severe winters that last from October to April. Mountain weather is always unpredictable. We'll have many beautifully clear and sunny days with bright blue skies, but come prepared for at least some rain, wind, and some very cold nights and mornings. At high altitudes, nighttime temperatures can drop to 30F! A dusting of snow is not uncommon here at this northern latitude, even in the summer.

BEING A CONSIDERATE TRAVELER

Please show respect for the cultures we are visiting by observing local customs concerning appropriate dress, particularly in sacred places. Your Trip Leader is always available to answer any questions that you may have regarding this. If it is necessary to use a cell phone during the trip, please do so privately. Smoking is rarely an issue these days, but if you do smoke, please do so only away from the group.

CHOOSING THE RIGHT TRIP

Adventure travel often involves exotic destinations, unusual levels of physical exertion, or activities you may not have participated in previously. We work hard to help you choose the right trip for you, paying attention to your individual interests, abilities, and needs. If you have questions about the level of comfort or any of the activities described in this itinerary, please call Wilderness Travel at 1-800-368-2794 and ask for the Asia Manager or email us at asia@wildernesstravel.com.
