HIGHLIGHTS

- Search for the elusive northern lights in Iceland's prime viewing locations
- Snowshoe and hike in Iceland's otherworldly landscapes—glaciers, waterfalls, volcanic craters, moss-covered peaks
- Explore the geological wonders of Thingvellir National Park, a UNESCO World Heritage Site
- Savor fresh Icelandic cuisine

Introduction

Winter is a magical season in Iceland, with far fewer visitors, a snow-dusted landscape, and the chance to see the northern lights! Our winter adventure brims with outdoor escapades, and we've timed the journey to give us plenty of daylight hours to enjoy our activities. We'll snowshoe along lava fields with sweeping vistas across the coast, cross an icy glacier with crampons (no experience necessary), explore World Heritage-listed Thingvellir National Park, soak in thermal pools, walk down into a giant lava tube, and hike to some of Iceland's most legendary waterfalls, including Seljalandsfoss and Skógafoss. As night falls, we search for the spectacular blue, green, and violet arcs shimmering across the sky above us. We've selected hotels in the best spots for seeing the aurora!

Itinerary

Overnight: Hotel Rangá

Halfway between Reykjavík and Vík along the south coast, the Hotel Rangá has a wonderfully isolated setting. The Rangá offers spacious, well-appointed rooms, and a good restaurant that serves some of the freshest fish imaginable. The hot tubs have amazing views.

Meals: L, D

Snowshoeing Details: 3 hours

Driving Details: 2.5 hours total

DAY 1 REYKJANES PENINSULA

From Reykjavík, we head out to the Blue Mountains, where we'll strap on snowshoes and set out across a lunar-like landscape. The lava fields here attract a lot of snow through the winter months, making it a great spot for snowshoeing. And no previous experience is necessary—snowshoeing is just like hiking! If the weather is clear, we'll have sweeping vistas toward Reykjavík to the north, along the south coast, and out to the Reykjanes Peninsula. Tonight, we gather for our Welcome Dinner and overnight at Hotel Rangá, set midway between Reykjavík and Vík. We'll find a warm welcome here and a restaurant that serves some of the freshest fish imaginable. The hot tubs have wonderful views out across the Icelandic landscape, and the staff is always on alert for the northern lights—we'll be sure to see them if they appear.

Land of Fire and Ice: Iceland boasts more than 20 active volcanoes that regularly erupt and add lava and ash to the landscape. So numerous are Iceland's hot springs that they provide the major source of geothermal heating energy for residents of Reykjavík. While fire is a main element in shaping Iceland, ice has played a major role as well. Scientists believe that Iceland was covered with a thick sheet of ice just 8,000 years ago. As the icecap melted, it carved dramatic steep-sided valleys, deep fjords, and glacial valleys flooded by the sea. Today only 10 percent of the country is covered by ice, concentrated in great glaciers including the country's largest, Vatnajökull.

DAY 2 GLUGGAFOSS / EYJAFJALLAJÖKULL / SKÓGARFOSS / GLACIER WALK

We'll visit a remote waterfall that sees little visitors called Gluggafoss, which means “window falls” for the peek-a-boo views of the cascade you see between the eroding rocks. Nearby is the famous Eyjafjallajökull volcano (or “E-15” as it is often called, for the 15 letters that come after E, which is challenging for outsiders to pronounce). Eyjafjallajökull made international headlines in 2010 when it erupted, causing meltwater floods, electrical storms, and sending so much volcanic ash high into the atmosphere that air travel to Europe was disrupted for weeks. We'll also visit Skógarfoss, the magnificent waterfall flowing from Iceland's southernmost glacier, Mýrdalsjökull, and considered one of the most beautiful waterfalls in the country. Afterwards, we head to Skógar Museum with its collection of 18,000 regional artifacts reflecting many periods of Icelandic architectural history. Our afternoon will see us donning crampons, ice axes, helmets, and climbing harnesses as we set out for a glacier walk on Sólheimajökull. No climbing experience is necessary—we'll just be geared up for safety as we hike out across the ice to look for crevasses, blue ice, and hidden streams of glacial melt.

Icelandic Place Names: Most Icelandic place names contain a reference to some natural feature of the landscape. Vík means small bay; mörk means woods; foss means waterfall; jökull means glacier; höfn means harbor; fell or fjell means mountain; tindur means summit; dalur means valley; vellir means plains. Words containing hver, laug, and reyk indicate the presence of hot springs.

Itinerary

Overnight: Hotel Húsafell

Hotel Húsafell is set on the grounds of a large former farm and surrounded by rolling hills. Guest rooms are large, well appointed, and comfortable, with floor to ceiling windows. The hot tub on the patio has amazing views overlooking the river, and it's a delight to soak in one of the geothermal pools. There is an excellent restaurant as well as a café.

Meals: B, L, D

Hiking Details: 3 hours

Driving Details: 3 hours

DAY 3 GULLFOSS / GEYSIR / GREENHOUSE LUNCH / THINGVELLIR NATIONAL PARK

We head out early in the morning to visit Gullfoss, the massive waterfall that thunders through a deep canyon carved by the Hvítá River. In the Haukadalur Valley, a geothermal region that contains more than 50 hot springs, we'll find the famed Great Geysir, which gave us the word "geyser" for all such phenomena. For lunch, we'll stop at a truly Icelandic spot, the Fridheimer Greenhouse. Run by an enterprising local family (they also raise and train Icelandic horses), the greenhouses are heated with geothermal power, and tomatoes are grown year-round. It is a sight that must be seen to be believed, though, as the tomato vines grow vertically up to 30 feet, and the workers harvest and prune from high ladders that are rolled across the rows. Our café tables are set right in the greenhouse, and yes, tomato soup is on the menu, along with hearty local bread.

A scenic one-hour drive brings us to Thingvellir National Park, a World Heritage Site and home of the world's oldest parliament, the Althing. First held in 930 AD, the Althing was the nation's meeting place until 1798, and the land is held in permanent protection as the heritage of the Icelandic people. Our hike will evoke the extraordinary history of the clans of the early Viking Settlement who camped here in centuries past as they traded goods, settled disputes, and created the legal system for their new land. Our hotel tonight is in Húsafell, one of the best places in the country to see the northern lights. The hotel is delightfully welcoming, with superb food and hot pools right out the back door.

Itinerary

Overnight: Hotel Húsafell

Meals: B, L, D

Hiking Details: 5 hours, 650' ascent/descent

Driving Details: 40 minutes

“This was an amazing trip! The scenery was gorgeous and we experienced so much. I rarely see snow anymore and it was a winter wonderland of snow for a week. We hiked in the blue ice glaciers, saw waterfalls and geysers, experienced a variety of spas, took a 5-hour hike up to a mountain ridge, and hiked to the top of a glacier. We also saw black beaches and got to use chains, crampons, snowshoes, and hiking poles, depending on the situation.”

—Ruth B. Raleigh, NC

DAY 4 HALLMUNDARHRAUN LAVA FIELD / EXPLORE VIDGELMIR LAVA TUBE / SELFJALL

A short drive brings us across the river to Hallmundarhraun lava field and down to the stunning Vidgelmir lava tube. Vidgelmir is Iceland's largest lava tube, stretching almost 1.5 miles long and filled with fascinating formations including beautiful stalagmites and stalactites. In the afternoon, we'll set out for a walk to Selfjall, a small hill near the hotel, with sweeping views over the Húsafell valley, followed by a soak in the hotel's hot springs and spa.

Itinerary

DAY 5 HRAUNFOSSAR / KRAUMA / SNÆFELLSNES

We begin the day by visiting Hraunfossar, a small but beautiful waterfall next to Barnafoss rapids, with its history in folklore. Later we make our way to Krauma for a soak in its geothermal pools. The mineral-rich waters come from Deildartunguhver, Europe's most powerful hot spring. After a relaxing afternoon, we head for the town Borgarnes then out to Snæfellsnes Peninsula. Snæfellsnes means "Snow Mount" and is a stunning realm of golden beaches, wild trails, remote caves, and lava fields. Dinner and overnight at our hotel on the Snæfellsnes Peninsula.

Overnight: Hótel Búðir

This cozy country hotel sits in splendid isolation on the edge of an ancient lava field by the sea, at the western tip of the Snæfellsnes Peninsula. The clean, modern guest rooms are simply decorated, and the restaurant offers excellent Icelandic fare. After a day of exploring, relax with a drink in the bar or lounge and enjoy stunning views of the sea and Snæfellsnes Glacier through large picture windows. A lone church on a nearby hill adds to the unforgettable charm of this remote setting.

“Fantastic adventure in incomparable, inspiring, intriguing, impressive, incredible Iceland! What an exhilarating experience we had with the best ever knowledgeable, gallant, and gracious guides, fun and fantastic people, stunning scenery, amazing Auroras, with great food and weather too.”

—Mary Ellen M. Nanuet, NY

DAY 6 SNÆFELLSNES / DJÚPALÓNSSANDUR BEACH

In his novel Journey to the Center of the Earth, Jules Verne described Snæfellsjökull Volcano (4,745') as the entrance to a fantastical subterranean world. With this famous volcano on the horizon, we hike through the lava on old fishermen's trails in Snæfellsnes. The coastline has very impressive coves and inlets brimming with a vast array of seabirds that nest in the cliffs.

The trail brings us along the peninsula as it passes through different places where the fishermen used to row. We visit Djúpálónssandur (or Black Lava Pearl Beach), with its bizarre lava formations and four famous “lifting” stones. During the era of fishing stations, fishermen competed to lift the stones and test their strength (the test results: 339 lbs. = fully strong; 220 lbs. = half strong; 120 lbs. = weakling; 50 lbs. = bungler!). Walking down to Dritvík, a vital fishing port from the 15th century to mid-20th century, we'll see the ruins of stone huts once used by the fishermen and women. This landing spot was among the largest settlements in the area, which up to 600 seasonal workers living in simple dwellings made from the lava rock, some of which you can still see today.

Itinerary

DAY 7 ELDBORG CRATER / REYKJAVÍK

This morning's drive brings us to Snorrastadir, a local farm, for a hike near birch forest to the perfectly shaped Eldborg Crater. Eldborg, which means "fortress of fire," was formed in an eruption some 5,000-8,000 years ago. From Eldborg, we head for the town Borgarnes and visit the Settlement Exhibition where we will also have lunch. After lunch we head for Reykjavík with some time to explore the city before dinner.

Overnight: Hotel Reykjavík Saga

Set on a historic street in the center of Reykjavík, this 130-room hotel is close to shops and restaurants, and an easy walk to picturesque Lake Tjörnin, the cathedral, and the Reykjavík art museum. Facilities include two rooftop terraces, gym, and a spa with steam room and sauna.

Meals: B, L, D

Hiking Details: 2 hours

Driving Details: 2 hours

Meals: B, L

DAY 8 REYKJAVÍK / DEPART

After breakfast, we'll pack up, then later soak in the wonderfully warm waters of the Sky Lagoon. This geothermal lagoon recently opened in 2021 and overlooks the Atlantic Ocean from its infinity-edge pool—the ideal place for relaxing pre-travel. From here, we'll head to Keflavík, the international airport, for homeward-bound flights, or continue on to Europe.

CURRENCY EXCHANGE RATE

Because the prices published for our program are set so far in advance of the trip dates, we are occasionally faced with exceptional cost increases and/or currency fluctuations that affect the actual cost of running the trip. In most years, no price changes are necessary. However, we do reserve the right to raise or lower the trip price if there is a significant change in costs or exchange rates. If this is the case, your final invoice will reflect the difference in trip cost.

Arrival & Departure

ARRIVAL & MEETING PLACE

Suggested Airport: Keflavík International Airport (KEF)

Suggested Date & Time: Anytime prior to Day 1

Meeting Place: On the morning of Day 1 of the trip, your Trip Leader will pick you up at any hotel within the Reykjavík city center and transfer you to the Icelandair Marina in time for the 9:00 am meeting time.

Keep in mind that winter travel to Iceland can be more affected by weather delays, so it's important to arrive in Iceland prior to Day 1 of the trip. Please let us know which hotel you will be staying in before the trip begins.

Upon arrival in Reykjavík, you can transfer on your own quite easily to all city center hotels on Reykjavík Excursion's Flybus, which meets all arriving flights outside of the terminal. Tickets can be purchased either at the Flybus booth in the arrivals hall with a credit card or online (www.flybus.is). The Flybus will drop passengers directly to the major hotels in Reykjavík. The transfer takes about 45 minutes. The Flybus can also provide a departure transfer to the airport from these same hotels. Although taxis are available outside of the terminal, they are much more expensive than taking the Flybus.

DEPARTURE

Suggested Airport: Keflavík International Airport (KEF)

Suggested Date & Time: Day 8, anytime after 4:30 pm

A group airport transfer will be provided to Keflavík International Airport in the afternoon of Day 8.

INTERNATIONAL AIR TRAVEL

You are responsible for making your own arrangements for flights to and from Iceland.

There are many online consolidators for booking travel, but for more personal help arranging air transport, you can contact Exito Travel at 1-800-655-4053 in the US or 1-800-670-2605 in Canada. They are very adept at putting flight itineraries together, to even the most far-flung places. More information can be found on Exito's website at www.exitotravel.com.

Depending on your routing, it is necessary to depart from the US one or possibly two days prior to Day 1 of the trip itinerary. The name on your airline ticket must match the name on your passport exactly, and your passport must be valid for at least six months after your date of return to the US.

Please do not purchase your tickets until you are confirmed on the trip. Once your tickets have been purchased, please send us a copy of your airline schedule. It is your responsibility to ensure your flight times coordinate with the arrival and departure logistics for this trip.

KRISTJÁN BJÖRN

As a nature enthusiast, visual artist, and experienced guide with a love for Iceland's extreme landscapes, Kristján Björn has led countless excursions in his home country, including many photography tours. Originally from Kirkjubæjarklaustur in the south of Iceland, though currently living in Reykjavík, he holds a degree in arts from the Icelandic College of Art and Crafts and another degree from the Academy of Fine Arts in Vienna. When not leading trips, you can often find Kristján seeking out new adventures for art inspiration.

SÖLVI ÞÓR JÓNASSON

Sölvi Þór Jónasson was raised deep in Iceland's Westfjords, "where the road ends" at a farm in the smallest and most isolated commune on the island. He is a true nature lover and spends most of his time in the wilderness of his home country. Sölvi holds a degree in tourism and has been working in the field since 2013. When he is not introducing travelers to the wonders of Iceland, he enjoys fly fishing, snowmobiling, soccer, and golf.

ORRI SIGURJÓNSSON

Orri Sigurjónsson grew up in the small town of Hvanneyri in the western region of Iceland. He studied carpentry in college, but his true calling has always been the enchantments of Iceland's rugged landscapes, and he has been guiding in Iceland since 2010. "Traveling throughout the mountains is my passion," he says, "and being able to share that passion with other travelers and show them around my beautiful country is something I consider a privilege." When he's not leading trips, he enjoys mountaineering, skiing, ice climbing, skydiving, and playing music with his band, Vertigo.

JÓN MARINÓ SÆVARSSON

Jón Marinó Sævarsson was born and raised in Akureyri, the "Capital of North Iceland." He has explored many parts of Iceland and loves sharing his culture with other travelers. When he is not guiding, he enjoys mountain biking, skiing, hiking, and fly fishing.

Trip Leaders

ÓSKAR GUÐJÓNSSON

Óskar Guðjónsson was born and raised in Reykjavík and at age 12 moved with his family to a small fishing village in the Icelandic countryside. His love of outdoor adventure led him to pursue a degree in Outdoor Education at Australia's La Trobe University. He is on the board of a volunteer rescue organization in Reykjavík, teaches and guides groups in sea kayaking, trekking, and skiing, and also enjoys sailing.

What to Expect

WHAT THE TRIP IS LIKE

This trip is rated Level 3+, Moderate, according to our trip grading system. It features daily hiking and snowshoeing (3-7 hours a day) and hotel accommodations throughout.

Due to its location in the path of the North Atlantic Current, Iceland's winter weather is not as severe as the latitude might suggest, but is also wildly variable on a daily basis. As snow cover comes and goes throughout the winter months, we have designed the trip to include either hiking or snowshoeing depending on current conditions. While your Trip Leaders will make every effort to do all of the activities described in the itinerary, they have the group's safety as their highest priority and may alter the itinerary to make the best of weather conditions during your trip.

TERRAIN

No previous experience is required for snowshoeing; it is just like hiking. Snowshoes will be provided, and they strap right onto your hiking boots. Our snowshoe-hikes can be strenuous as we will be traveling across snowfields with varying conditions, from soft powder to snow with a light crust of ice. If there is no snow, we will be hiking on varied terrain, from packed dirt to lava fields. Hiking poles are provided. There is no extreme elevation change in our daily outings, but we will be ascending up to ridges — and descending back down! The conditions will dictate our exact route each day, as we choose the best route for views and an experience of the Icelandic landscape.

GETTING IN SHAPE

For your own enjoyment, we recommend you make a special effort to be in good physical condition. Daily brisk walking and/or regular hiking (or using a stair-climbing machine at your gym) are excellent preparatory exercises.

WEATHER

Iceland's weather is windy, wet, and changeable: it's said that you can encounter four seasons in a day here. The conditions will dictate our exact schedule each day, as we choose the best route for views and an experience of the Icelandic landscape —you should be prepared to be flexible, as weather has the final say in determining our itinerary. Though it is located just below the Arctic Circle, Iceland is usually warmer than other places at this latitude due to the moderating influence of the Gulf Stream. These ocean currents interact with cold air from the north and often bring precipitation. Snow cover comes and goes throughout the winter months. We have designed the trip to include either hiking or snowshoeing, depending on whether there is snow cover. Your Trip Leaders have the group's safety as their highest priority, and will alter the itinerary as needed depending on weather conditions. They will make every effort to do all of the activities described in the itinerary, however you may be on snowshoes or in hiking boots, and the order of the trip may be changed in order to make the best of the weather conditions. Sturdy, warm, and well-broken-in hiking boots are essential, and they must be full hiking boots that support your ankles (no running shoes or below-ankle hiking shoes). Gaiters are great for protecting your pant legs from getting wet, and hiking poles are highly recommended. A Gore-Tex jacket (with a hood) and rain pants are essential, as well as fleece and Capilene layers to keep you warm. A full packing list will be sent with your sign-up packet.

What to Expect

TRANSPORTATION

We drive to a starting point for our hiking and snowshoeing, and our vehicle picks us up at the end of the hike to drive us to our night's lodging. Some days combine sightseeing at waterfalls and cultural sites with hiking/snowshoeing. Our longest drive will be to Húsafell on Day 5 and back on Day 7, approximately 3 hours each way, but road conditions can change that timing. The weather has the final say in Iceland! On other days we have as little as 10 minutes to our trailhead, and even hike right out from our hotel on Day 4.

ACCOMMODATIONS & CUISINE

Our nights will be spent at comfortable hotels and inns. Please keep in mind that on this trip we are crossing rural Iceland. The rooms in our hotels and inns will not always conform to international hotel standards and sizes, and décor can be 'Scandinavian spare'. Our lunches will most often be packed lunches that we bring along with us on the trail, with one lunch inside a greenhouse as we head to Nesvellir. Please note that in Europe, the dinner hour is considerably later than what it is in the U.S. We do our best to secure early reservations for our groups, but most often the evening meal will be at 7:30 pm.

NORTHERN LIGHTS

The aurora borealis appear intermittently in the night skies from October through March. Seeing the aurora is contingent on many factors including solar storms, Earth's shifting magnetic field, cloud cover, and precipitation. We have timed the trip carefully, and designed it to get you to the places in the country with the very best possibility of seeing the northern lights. Our final base at Hotel Húsafell, in particular, is considered one of the best spots in Iceland for watching the northern lights. It is important to remember that the northern lights are a natural phenomenon dependent on natural forces outside of our control and are not guaranteed. We are, however, pleased to say that the majority of our groups have managed to see the aurora in some form. Additionally, we have packed the trip with great winter activities -- this trip is much more than a northern lights trip!
